A Little Truce.
N'Gi Feels Better.
Where Was Its Soul?
More Cattle for Russia.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LAST NIGHT the League of Nations learned that Japan and China had agreed on a "conditional truce," a temporary agreement to withdraw troops from firing lines while the head men talk it over.

"When two men fight, they both want to run away. If you don't want to run, you will win."

In this Asiatic fight both have seemed inclined to run, almost from the start. When China declined to lie down and be stepped on in good old "David and Goliath" style, Japan felt China wasn't playing the game.

ALSO JAPAN learns that Russia is massing one hundred thousand troops on the Manchurian border, and is intelligent enough to know that if she fought Russia now she would meet a different Russia from the one she met twenty-eight years ago under the czar. If the Japanese thought they had to meet modern Russia they would prefer to get the Chinese problem off their minds first.

N'GI, THE Washington (D.C.) gorilla, suffering from pneumonia, was better yesterday, thanks to an "oxygen chamber" provided for his use by Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, editor of the Washington Herald. He ate three bananas, a pear, part of an apple, half of a grape fruit, almost a normal breakfast.

YOUNG N'GI, although 6 years old, is still a baby. Gorillas, like ourselves, mature slowly. His "oxygen chamber" was a simple affair of canvas, for temporary use.

His apparent recovery from pneumonia has done good by arousing interest in the use of oxygen chambers in hospitals.

Also the gorilla's recovery is a good thing for the education of children that study the strange animal, with deep interest.

MRS. PATTERSON, who three years ago gave a whole ward in the Washington Emergency Hospital, dedicated to the poor, in memory of her husband, has now given to the Washington Emergency Hospital a permanent oxygen chamber of glass, large enough to care for three persons at one time.

She suggested a year ago that the emergency hospital should have such a chamber, but funds, apparently, were lacking. Now she gives it. A similar chamber like those used by the Rockefeller Institute and the Mayo brothers, has been ordered by the Children's Hospital in Washington.

IN a Boston attic, a rat was found with a wash cloth over its face, a cord around its neck, black and rigid. None the less, Dr. Frank M. Deich, night superintendent of Boston City Hospital, put the baby on the operating table and began breathing into its mouth, forcing air into its lungs.

Twenty doctors took turns, forcing air into the baby's lungs, for three hours, and now the child, pronounced dead, is restored to life, breathing comfortably in an incubator.

Most interesting, all honor to the kind-hearted doctors. You ask yourself:

"Where was the SOUL of that baby during the three hours of apparent death? Had it not yet left the body, or was it hovering around in the neighborhood, waiting to come back in case life should start again?"

ROBERT P. LAMONT, JR., son of our Secretary of Commerce, has been invited to go to Russia and show the Soviet government how to reorganize and improve production of cattle. Young Mr. Lamont will visit Moscow to look the job over, much interested, not in the $50,000 salary said to be offered, but in the problem.

Russia, with 160,000,000 population, has 35,000,000 beef cattle, 17,000,000 sheep. This country has 65,000,000 beef cattle, 60,000,000 sheep.

Russia wisely wants her people to eat 100 pounds of meat each a year, which is the American ration.

Young Mr. Lamont raises white-faced Herefords on a 15,000-acre cattle ranch in Colorado and thinks the Russian job could be done in about 20 years.

Russia's government may be all that our "best minds" say it is, but it shows an amount of intelligence in tackling its problems not conspicuous in some other countries. When it hasn't GOT a thing, it tries to get it, and when it doesn't KNOW a thing, it tries to learn it.

AN INNOCENT Chinese general, Wang Keng, thinking to visit his old American friend, Capt. William Mayer, in Shanghai, wandered by mistake into the Shanghai-Japanese consulate and was arrested.

That doesn't interest you much, but the fact that Gen. Wang Keng was graduated from West Point in 1918 does interest you.

Hospitality is beautiful, but you wonder why Chinese or anything else EXCEPT AMERICANS should be educated and graduated at West Point. For what purpose is the military school maintained?

SOON WASHINGTON will have ready a bill to raise one billion dollars more by taxation. How if somebody would prepare a bill to make our heavy taxation unnecessary.

The American financial cow has been milked thoroughly already. Whenever more money is needed the cry is: "Feed the cow a little more."

TWO GIRLS FOIL TROLLEY BANDIT

Mrs. Kinser and sister, Anne Patrick, 25, were two of four passengers on a Charleroi interurban street car when, at Snyder stop, in Stockdale, a bandit got on the lower step and aimed a revolver at Motorman W. G. Burgess.

Burgess ran to the back of the car, Mrs. Kinser and her sister screamed out an open window.

Mrs. Kinser then ran to the front and saw that the bandit had departed. She said:

"I'd have broken his neck if I'd got hold of him."

Ten years ago, in an auto near the same place, two bandits tried to hold up Mrs. Kinser. She kicked one in the stomach. They went away from there.

County Prisoner Dies After Plunge in Jail

David Kerr, 46, address unknown, died last night in Mercy Hospital from a fractured skull suffered when he leaped from a tier in the county jail Saturday, according to the Coroner's report. Kerr, sentenced to 10 days in Central Police Court on a disorderly conduct charge, jumped from the tier as he was being led to a cell, it was reported. He fell about 40 feet.

Third Rich Harvard Student Disappears

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 1. (INS.)—Harvard University officials and police today were puzzled by the strange disappearance of a third wealthy upper classman, whose name they refuse to divulge. No trace has been found of Nathaniel Jones, of Billerica, and Floyd Stewart, of Garden City, Kan., business school students, who vanished on January 31.

Chinese Lines Hurled Back In Fighting After Tokio Agrees to Truce Terms

International News Service.

Representatives of China and Japan at Geneva announced today that their respective governments had accepted in principle the proposal for an armistice conference to end hostilities at Shanghai, which, International New Service learned, was of Japanese and not League of Nations authorship.

Meanwhile, Chinese and Japanese representatives at Shanghai were scheduled to resume their peace conferences aboard the British flagship Kent, but the Japanese continued their drive in the Kiangwan area, claiming advances of two miles in the direction of Kiangwan.

International News Service.

GENEVA, March 1.—Representatives of Japan and China announced today that their respective governments had accepted the plan for an armistice conference to end hostilities in Shanghai.

Naotake Sato, Japanese delegate, and Dr. W. W. Yen, representative of China to the League of Nations, announced that their governments were willing to participate in the armistice conference, but both reserved full liberty of action and declined to commit themselves to any promises in advance.

The proposal, concurred in by the United States, called upon Japan to promise not to infringe upon the territorial and political sovereignty of China and demanded that China fully protect international interests in Shanghai and safeguard the International Settlement.

Dry Law Injunction On Townsend Place

A temporary injunction was granted in Federal Court today against the Obey House, in Obey avenue, owned by Horace Townsend, West End political leader. Judge Nelson McVicar granted the injunction on complaint of prohibition agents that liquor was sold there. Final hearing will be June 14.

The complaint names Townsend and his wife, Beulah, as owners of the property. Townsend and Samuel Sapien as the proprietors. The house, more than 90 years old, was raided last December.

ON BOARD JAPANESE WARSHIP IDZUMA, Flagship of Admiral Nomura, Anchored Off the Bund, Shanghai, March 1.—The two submarine mines, or depth bombs, which exploded close to two Japanese warships in the Whangpoo River at 1:05 p. m. and 1:25 p. m. today, rocking Shanghai like an earthquake, are believed to have been placed in the river under the cover of darkness last night and equipped with time fuses scheduled for explosion at noon today.

Admiral Shioswa was aboard the Oyi at the time of the explosion, but put off immediately for the Idzuma, receiving me on the quarterdeck in the absence of Admiral Nomura.

He explained, with that ever-present Japanese smile:

MARCH BAFFLES LION, LAMB

Forecaster W. S. Brotzman was at a loss to know how to classify the advent of the first month of spring and gave it up.

The sky was overcast, with the temperature around freezing. Fair weather tonight will be followed by rain or snow late tomorrow afternoon or night, Brotzman predicted.

In the suburbs, pussy willows were in bloom, lilacs and other shrubs were budding, giving promise of an early spring.

February saw the excess in temperature increased by 172 degrees, boosting the total for the year to date to 520. Only 1½ inches of snow fell.

28 Drivers Caught Without '32 Licenses

Twenty-eight motorists who attempted to drive today without new drivers' licenses were reported arrested by state highway patrolmen attached to the Perrysville sub-station. Drivers' licenses for 1931 expired at midnight. While some drivers were required to give bail, copies of informations were served on the majority, it was said. Officers at other substations said that their reports of arrests would not be complete until late today.

Spaghetti vs. Corned Beef Row Brings Divorce

TRENTON, N. J., March 1.—(INS.)—Anthony Aprea, who couldn't eat corned beef, and Agnes Kathleen Donnelly, who hated spaghetti, were married in 1928 and the Italian relatives of Anthony and the Irish relatives of Agnes shook their heads.

Now Agnes was a great lover of corned beef and cabbage and her table groaned with the weight of it nearly every night. At first Anthony would smile wanly and make an effort to eat the Irish dish, but often afterwards he would sneak down to a restaurant to inhale a bowl of zitti, a dish of spaghetti or a portion of antipasto.

About three weeks after the wedding he came in to dinner and there was the inevitable corned beef and cabbage. Losing his temper for the first time, he screamed:

"What? Irish turkey again? I'm fed up on this and I'm through."

He angrily threw his clothes into a bag and waltzed out of the door and out of Agnes' life. She never has seen him to this day and today in the Chancery Court, Special Master Roy F. Anthony recommended that Agnes be granted a divorce.

HOUSE LISTS VOTE ON DRY LAW

145 Members Sign Petition Forcing First Congress Poll; Referendum Issue

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The first record vote in Congress on the Eighteenth Amendment since its adoption was assured today when 145 members of the House had signed the petition of the anti-dry bloc for consideration of a prohibition referendum.

The petition was completed in dramatic fashion within an hour after the House convened today. Representative Mansfield (Dem.), of Texas, wheeling himself to the Speaker's desk in an invalid chair, was the one hundred and forty-fifth signatory. There was loud applause as the final signature was placed on the record.

Representative Freeman (Rep.), of Connecticut, left a sickbed to add his name to the list. He limped into the House chamber, leaning heavily on a cane and surrounded by anxious colleagues.

FORCED TO VOTE

With the completion of the petition the House is forced to vote on the question of whether or not it will consider for passage the Beck-Linthicum resolution. March 14 is the first day possible for the vote.

This resolution, evolved by the House anti-drys, calls for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment to states in the spirit of a referendum and provides for revision under which states would be given the right to decide whether they will be dry or anti-dry.

The final signature went on the petition in the midst of a fiery exchange between Blanton (Dem.), of Texas, dry, and LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, generalissimo of the anti-dry forces.

BLANTON CHIDES FOES

Blanton chided the anti-drys for the length of time it took to get the petition signed, declaring:

"It is a mere gesture to embarrass some of their friends, both wet and dry."

LaGuardia declared Blanton's heat showed he had become "panicky" and added:

"I want to assure the House that this is no idle gesture when 145 members of the House, representing 14,000,000 citizens, indicate their readiness to vote on this question.

"The time has come to discuss prohibition normally and rationally. The time of fanaticism has passed."

Among the 145 signatures calling for the prohibition vote were those of Campbell, Erk, Estep and Sullivan, of Pittsburgh.

Juanita Burns Plans Solo World Flight

Miss Burns said she would hop off from Seattle April 1 in an attempt to be the first flyer to make the hop alone. She would fly to New York, thence to London, Tokio and return to Seattle, under present plans.

Mr. Friedman, second mortgage dealer, and Mr. Kellerman, produce merchant, two of four men wanted today on warrants growing out of the closing of the Franklin Saving and Trust Co.

BARDOLPH, 3 LINKED IN CHARGES

Warrants were served t... for the arrest of Charles ... Bardolph, president of ... Franklin Savings and Tr... Company, and two of t... others named in new info... tions filed by George F. ... lor, Jr., Deputy State Secre... tary of Banking, in connection with the closing of the bank.

Herman Friedman, second mortgage dealer; David Kellerman, produce merchant, and R. T. Armstrong, vice president of the closed bank, are included in the accusations. The informations have been sworn before Alderman T. A. Flanigan.

Barndolph, Armstrong and Friedman, when served, promised to give bond late today, the two former for $5,000 each and Friedman for $10,000. Kellerman was in Youngstown, O., the constable reported.

FACES MORE CHARGES

Bardolph, already under charges of embezzling $319,289 in cash and $3,450 in stock from the bank's assets, is charged with four additional counts of embezzlement totaling $10,289 in the period from January 4 to June 5, 1930. Bardolph is also accused of making 14 false entries to the credit of the Agricultural Exchange of which Kellerman was manager. The entries were listed as deposits, and totaled $55,297.

Besides the four counts of embezzlement against Bardolph, there are, altogether, 26 counts of misdemeanor based on making or aiding in false entries and two charges of perjury involved in swearing to false entries.

Against Friedman are six counts of fraudulent conversion. Thirteen counts of obtaining money by false pretense are against Kellerman. Armstrong is accused on 10 counts of misdemeanor in making false entries and 10 counts of perjury in swearing false statements furnished the State Banking Department.

FRIEDMAN ACCUSED

The amount of money withheld by Friedman, according to the information, totals $11,810.

That Kellerman on 13 occasions sold to the bank delivery orders on merchandise to other produce firms under the pretenses that a bill of lading sight draft was attached to the shipment, on the basis of the false pretenses charges against the produce dealer. These orders approximated $22,541.

Armstrong is accused of misdemeanor in making 10 false entries in reports filed with the Pennsylvania Department of Banking.

That Bardolph knew of these 10 false entries and aided Armstrong in making them is the ground for 10 of the misdemeanor charges against him.

Senators Vote Probe Of Bulls and Bears

Mellon's Cabinet Chair Used as Model

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP.)—The chair occupied by Andrew W. Mellon at the White House cabinet table for the last 11 years has been doing a bit of traveling and is in for a lot more.

A furniture concern removed the chair yesterday to use it as a model for one exactly similar, which will be stamped with the name of Secretary Mills. When the new Secretary's chair is completed that bearing Mellon's name will be sent to him, possibly at the American Embassy in London.

G. O. P. Beaten in Efforts to Limit Wall St. Quiz

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(INS.)—A resolution for a sweeping investigation of all phases of speculative activity on the New York Stock Exchange will be drafted late today by a sub-committee of the Senate Banking Committee.

Democrats and Progressive Republicans were victorious over the administration forces, which sought to limit the inquiry to short selling alone, in a stormy session of the committee.

The resolution must be approved by the full committee and the Senate before the investigation is launched.

Evidence involving prominent members of both the Democratic and the Republican parties will be presented, according to reports which have persisted in Washington circles for several days.

Senator Walcott (Rep.), of Connecticut, a member of the committee, has declared he will present a "list of bear raiders" of the market.

Among those whose names have been mentioned as likely witnesses are John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Bernard M. Baruch, prominent New York Democrat, and a personal friend of President Hoover's.

The committee was to have heard William R. Perkins, New York lawyer, oppose short selling at an open meeting today. But a wrangle developed over the scope of the hearing, with Senators Couzens, of Michigan, and Blaine, of Wisconsin, Progressive Republicans, joining the Democratic demand that if an inquiry were ordered, it be broadened to include "the bulls along with the bears."

Son Denied Her, Wife Sues Episcopal Dean

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 1.—(AP.)—The Very Rev. I. H. Noe, dean of St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral, testified in his wife's divorce proceedings today that a legal separation "would be very embarrassing to me and my church." He said:

"I love my children. I love my wife. I want a home, and I want my children to have a home."

Mrs. Ellen M. Noe is asking a divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, abandonment and non-support and wilful desertion. She testified yesterday that Dean Noe's affections declined steadily during the last few years of their married life, and that most of that time they have lived "as strangers."

The dean said today he knew his wife wanted a son, but he believed it would "seriously endanger her life."

Dean Noe also holds the view that marriage is a sacrament that cannot be dissolved by court decree.

They have two children. They were married in 1916.

JAPANESE HURL BACK CHINESE TROOPS IN TERRIFIC ATTACK

FIGHTING RAGES DESPITE TRUCE ACCEPTANCE

The whole Japanese line along the entire battle front between Kiangwan and Miaohungchen was straightened out and headquarters reported the attack had succeeded along a wide front.

HEAVY CASUALTIES

At one cross roads, which has been under heavy fire for several days, the advancing Japanese reported they had found more than 200 Chinese dead.

Their own casualties for the day were not given.

The peace parleys which began on Monday were virtually at a standstill this morning, neutral observers said.

There were several night conferences among Chinese officials, the last of them breaking up at a. m., but they produced no definite results. The Chinese appeared to agree that the military demands made upon them by the Japanese are as unacceptable now as when they were framed in Gen. Muda's ultimatum some days ago. Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai, the Chinese commander, knows that heavy Japanese reinforcements are on hand, but he has let it be known that he is still determined to fight it out even against an enemy with greater numbers and superior equipment.

MAKE WITH FURY

Japanese lines struck with fury unknown heretofore in the east, their tanks dashing back-and-forward like maddened tigers. They said they had gained an advance of more than [illegible].

The claim was made from the newly established headquarters of General Toshinori Shirakawa at the Nanyang cotton mill, just outside the International Settlement. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda maintained his headquarters until the beginning of the Kiangwan battle on February 20.

More than 700 wounded Chinese were brought back from the front lines into the crowded Settlement hospitals up to late this afternoon, and the ambulances continued a steady treg to and from the battlefields.

The ferocity of the battle along the Chapei-Kiangwan-Miao-Changchen front during the afternoon made it increasingly apparent that the Japense were undertaking to achieve a smashing advance along the whole battle line.

Japanese artillery, bombing planes and machine guns carried the brunt of the early battle, although the infantrymen kept their rifles hot while they stayed within their entrenched positions. The Japanese aviators laid smoke screens over the area, to the ordinary smoke and dust of battle, indicating they planned to make use of this newer and more modern implement of warfare when it became necessary.

Washington Sees Peace Prospects Recede

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(INS.)—The prospects of peace which shone through the war clouds for a few brief hours apparently had receded further than ever away today, and the American government settled back to its "wait and see" policy, pending further developments in the Far East.

Coincident with the landing of large Japanese forces at Liuho, far up the Yangtze River, on a new front, 10 more American warships passed through the Panama Canal to join the powerful armada the United States already has concentrated in the Pacific.

This gave assurance that while the government is following its watchful waiting tactics its watchfulness is fully equal to the waiting part of the maneuver, and that the Navy will be prepared for any eventuality that may develop on the other side of the one hundred and eightieth meridian.

WARSHIPS MOBILIZED

The dispatch of the additional warships to the Pacific was ostensibly made for the purpose of having these vessels take part in the naval maneuvers scheduled for months past off the west coast of the United States. But the significance of this country's having nearly 200 warships, including the most powerful units of the entire American Navy concentrated in the Pacific at this time was lost on no one here.

The orders to the fleet also indicated that officials of this government had not been taken entirely by surprise by the kaleidoscopic developments around Shanghai and the sudden fading of peace hopes which appeared so bright yesterday. The Sino-Japanese crisis has been packed with so many surprises since last September that officials of this government have begun to expect the unexpected at all times.

Manchuria 'Life-Line' For Japan, Premier Says

Politically, socially and economically, Manchuria is vital to Japan's development, the Premier declared, asking the members of the commission to keep this fact paramount in their minds in the course of their investigation.

The Premier said:

"Japan's history has demonstrated that intimate relations bind this country with Manchuria.

"You must take this into consideration, else it is impossible to grasp the origin of our conflict with China."

Chinese Loan Report Absurd, Bankers Say

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—New York banking circles are without information concerning a reported $50,000,000 American loan to China. Prospects of such an accommodation, even if overtures were made, were regarded as so remote as to be virtually non-existent and bankers dismissed the rumor as "absurd."

WIDOW OF FALL VICTIM TO WED

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—Richard Baumgardner, a saxophone player, and Josephine Larkin McGraw, an actress, both of New York, obtained a marriage license late yesterday.

Baumgardner, who is 24, was born at Frederick, Md., the son of William Baumgardner. Mrs. McGraw is 29 and was born in London.

Her husband, John J. McGraw, a 35-year-old broker, died in 1930 of injuries suffered when he fell from a fourth story window here through which he told police he was trying to enter the apartment of a woman friend.

He said his wife was abroad and when he had been unable to get in touch with Marietta Dafley, a friend, he feared some harm might have befallen her and attempted to climb into her apartment to find out.

New Manchurian State Established

MUKDEN, Manchuria, March 1.—(AP.)—The foundation of the new independent Manchurian republic was proclaimed formally here today, and the new five-colored national flag was flown everywhere to celebrate the beginning of a new era of "tatung"—great unity.

The formal inauguration of the new government under the rule of Henry Pu-Yi, former "Boy Emperor" of China, will occur at Chang-Chun, which has been designated as the capital of the new state.

JAPAN BOYCOTT AIM OF GROUP

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—Formation of the American Boycott Association, to set up a country-wide, nongovernmental boycott against Japan in the hope of effecting arbitration in the Sino-Japanese crisis, was announced today.

Mrs. Corliss Lamont, daughter-in-law of Thomas W. Lamont, one of the J. P. Morgan partners, and William Loeb, Jr., are executive secretaries, and the organization has its headquarters in New York.

A statement issued by Mrs. Lamont and Loeb predicted that, should Japan gain control of Manchuria and dominate China, "the Japanese military machine will be so strengthened by the coal, iron and oil resources taken by Japan in China and Manchuria that it would be next to impossible to check the military group should it again oppose itself to peace and world order."

Chinese Manchuria Brigade in Revolt

MUKDEN, March 1.—(INS.)—The Chinese 21st Brigade has risen in revolt against the independent Manchurian regime at Ninguta, a few miles below Hailin, Japanese military headquarters here announced today.

Japanese residents of the area are fleeing toward Harbin, the announcement stated, while the rebellious Chinese were reported looting along the Chinese Eastern Railway.

North Side Man Dies From Fumes

William J. Goettman, 47, of 2621 Stayton street, North Side, was found dead in his garage by his wife, Mildred, this afternoon, police reported. His automobile was running and the garage doors were closed, police said. At St. John's Hospital, where the body was taken, it was said death was evidently due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

"These mines, or depth charges, do not appear to have been home-made affairs, but regular manufactured instruments of destruction. Their explosion was marked by a column of smoke which rose 60 feet in the air.

"The enormous eruption, like a water spout, sent a tidal wave across the river, rocking all craft and upsetting small boats.

"The flagship Idzuma suffered no damage, and the only things destroyed on board the cruiser Oyi were several wine glasses in the officers' mess.

"The first explosion occurred at 5 minutes after 1. The mine was located about 90 feet off the starboard side of the cruiser Oyi, which was buoyed in midstream a half mile down the river from the Idzuma. The shock of the explosion rocked the cruiser, but hurt nothing.

"The second explosion occurred at 1:25 p. m. The mine appears to have been anchored about 50 feet off our stern right over there."

The admiral pointed across the mouth of Soochow Creek in the direction of a point on which was located Shanghai's public gardens in front of the British consulate. There was a tremendous upheaval of water, but it did not damage the ship.

SECRET INFORMATION

"Secret information had reached me several days ago through the Japanese naval intelligence section, that these attempts were being planned by the Chinese, but of course we were unaware of the time—we only knew we must ever be on the watch.

"Both mines were anchored upstream from the sterns of both the Oyi and Idzuma, and I believe that their time fuses were set so they would explode shortly after noon today when the ebb-tide would be flowing out, swinging the mines on their anchors closer towards the sterns of the destined victims."

And that, boys and girls, seems to be the last official statement, although John Goette (International News Service Staff Correspondent) tells me that Mayor Wu, of Shanghai, says the Chinese have no official knowledge of the incident beyond reports of witnesses.

Karl H. Von Wiegand (Universal Service Correspondent) probably was the closest American witness to the explosion of the mine near the Idzuma. He was having luncheon in the German consulate at the time about a hundred yards distant from the flagship.

It was a mighty lucky escape for both the Idzuma and the Oyi, but that isn't worrying me half as much as the terrible thought that downstream a mile and a half from where these mines were anchored, one of Uncle Sam's greatest battle cruisers rides at anchor—the Houston. Admiral Montgomery Taylor's flagship of the Asiatic squadron.

PERIL TO SHIPPING

Gosh, suppose either one of those mines had broken loose from their submarine moorings and had floated downstream with this afternoon's tide in the direction of the Houston—or, for that matter, in the direction of half a dozen American destrovers and mine sweepers, not to mention any number of commercial craft, including the outgoing President Polk, round-the-world liner, loaded down with American tourists.

Canadian War Fliers May Drop Citizenship

OTTAWA, Ont., March 1.—(AP.)—Royal Canadian Air Force members who have offered their services to China are willing even to renounce their Canadian citizenship to carry out their plans, a spokesman for the fliers said today following a meeting last night, at which representatives of airmen at Winnipeg, Camp Borden and Tenton, Ont., conferred with Ottawa leaders of the movement.

Air force officers said the 28 pursuit and 28 bombing planes they would require could be obtained in the United States in a few weeks.

Confessor Bell, one-time Fayette County detective once acquitted of the slaying of Constable John Donohoe (which he now confesses), exclusively pictured as he was lodged once more in the county jail at Uniontown—as a material witness against his accused.

Taunts Ex-Sleuth For Fear of Chair

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 1.—Anthony W. (Tony) Bell, whose confession to a part in a murder for which he already has been acquitted, took one regret and a grim joke with him to jail where he is being held as a material witness in the "rubbing out" of Jack Donohoe, former deputy constable of Uniontown.

His regret is that in making a clean breast of the slaying he implicated a pal—Cosmo Stangoni, Masontown moonshiner.

He laughed as he thought of his joke. He decided to tell it.

"A few years ago when I was county detective here and Bledsoe was captain of police for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, he and I went up to Rockview to witness an execution. Bledsoe was so nervous he couldn't sit still—he got sick.

"One time after Donohoe was bumped off, while Bledsoe and I were in the Allegheny County Workhouse, I reminded him of it. 'Well,' I told him, 'you'll know how they do it up at Rockview when it's your turn to go'.

"He just turned green and ran out on me."

District Attorney Newell, in charge of the reopened investigation, declares he believes Bell is telling the truth.

Bledsoe and Stangoni both brand Bell's confession as a "mass of lies."

Bledsoe said:

"Bell is a d——d liar. I am not guilty of murder or any part in this affair. Maybe Tony has a reason for trying to blame it on me—maybe he killed Donohoe himself, but, why he wants to get me, I cannot understand.

Stangoni, nervous and downcast, had little to say.

ARMY CRUSHES FINNISH REBELS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 1.—(INS.)—The Fascist armed movement against the government appeared dying today as the government gained strength in suppressing the revolt.

Aided by invocation of the national security law of 1930, prohibiting movement of armed forces in the countryside or in the capital, President Pehr Svinhufvud had the backing of general public opinion as well as that of the press.

The capital was under heavy guard, and the Fascist attempt at mobilization today threatened from only two districts, several other movements in various parts of the country having been unsuccessful.

Civil guards today were organizing behind the government, although for a while it appeared many of them had joined the rebels, who demanded resignation of the government.

Red Charges Hoover Foe of Foreign-Born

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(INS.)—An avowed Communist appeared before the House immigration committee today and charged President Hoover and Secretary of Labor Doak with having embarked on a campaign against the foreign born in this country.

He was J. Louis Engdahl, of New York, general secretary of the International Labor Defense. He characterized various bills to restrict immigration and to deport Communists and criminals as "savage blows against the whole working class."

Lloyd George Banned From Fete by Cold

LONDON, March 1.—(AP.)—The physicians of Former Premier David Lloyd George have forbidden him to attend a St. David's Day banquet in London today. They feared the intense cold of the last few days might prove injurious. The Welshman's speech at the banquet had been scheduled for a rebroadcast to the United States.

GARNER BALKS 'GAG RULES' ON TAX ISSUE

Speaker Opens Way for Full Debate in Effort to Put Bill Through This Week

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Banishing all "gag rules" in consideration of the proposed new $1,100,000,000 tax increase bill, Speaker John N. Garner, of the House, today said ample opportunity for debate and amendments would be given.

Following a conference with Acting Chairman Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, of the Ways and Means Committee, Garner said he hoped the bill would be completed this week. All other legislation will be sidetracked, he said, because of the desire to secure enactment as soon as possible.

The fullest opportunity will be given for debating the measure in the House in accordance with the policy of the Democratic leadership, he added.

The sales tax subcommittee, having already tentatively agreed on a sales tax plan to raise between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000, continued its work today. Another subcommittee considered means of stopping up "loopholes" in the present law.

HOUSE ACCEPTS LAME DUCK BILL

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP.)—The House today adopted the conference report reconciling differences with the Senate on the proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the "lame duck" sessions of Congress.

Only Senate acceptance of the report is needed to complete congressional action. This is virtually certain, the Senate having adopted the lame duck amendment seven times in nine years.

President Hoover does not sign the resolution. It goes to the State Department to await ratification by 36 states within seven years.

The resolution provides for the indeterminate sessions of Congress to begin on January 3 each year. Terms of congressmen begin on January 3 and of the President and Vice President on January 20 instead of March 4 as at present.

CHARITY WHEAT VOTED IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(INS.)—Reversing a previous decision, the House Agriculture Committee today recommended passage of the Capper bill, giving 40,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat to charity.

The committee decision, by vote of 15 to 6, followed the drive of advocates of the bill to force its passage in the House by use of the petition rule.

Cord Offers Cut In Air Mail Cost

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(INS.)—A flat offer to carry the air mail for one-half the present cost was made before the House Postoffice Committee today by Lyndol Young, attorney for the Cord Corporation, as the committee began investigation of alleged exorbitant cost of the air mail.

Young said that under the present law his company is denied the opportunity to bid on air mail contracts. The Postmaster General has authority to make contracts without competitive bidding.

Ex-Pittsburgher Flees W.Va. Hospital

WHEELING, W. Va., March 1.—Herry Hazelett, prominent in Wheeling and Pittsburgh financial circles a number of years ago escaped from the State Hospital at Huntington late Saturday night according to word received by relatives. It was his second escape in two years. When he escaped before he flew to Pittsburgh in an airplane.

MAN LOCATES CROONER AS GIRLS FAIL

International News Service.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 1.—Seems they won't let Rudy Vallee, orchestra leader and crooner, in peace a minute, even in sunny Southern California, where he came to visit his wife, formerly Fay Webb, daughter of the local chief of police.

Four bathing beauties stalked Vallee several hours on the golden sands near his father-in-laws home, but failed to find him.

They wanted to serve him with papers in connection with the $1,000,000 damage suit filed in Los Angeles two years ago by Roberta Hudson McKay, who claimed that Vallee pirated her song, "Vagabond Lover," and changed it to "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover."

After the bathing beauty process servers had failed, however, a mere man, Charles Gordon, found Vallee in his automobile in his father-in-law's driveway, and served him legally. Chief of Police C. E. Webb said:

Nicholas Demands Wife's Recognition

VIENNA, March 1.—(Universal.)—Prince Nicholas, of Rumania, according to information received from court circles in Bucharest, has refused to return to Rumania unless King Carol, his brother, formally recognizes his marriage with Mme. Jana Lucia Deleti.

Unless Carol capitulates, it was rumored, the Prince will have another civil ceremony performed in France and will refuse to return thereafter to his homeland. The Prince and his bride are now ostensibly away from Bucharest on a "vacation."

MISS GLADYS GLAD . . . BUT "WE'RE STILL . . . . FRIENDS"

DIVORCE ASKED OF HELLINGER

Mark Hellinger, Broadway columnist, and Gladys Glad, beauty columnist, but also reputed the most beautiful showgirl in the world, have agreed to call it off.

Married to Miss Glad in July, 1930, Hellinger admitted in Pittsburgh today that she had filed suit for divorce in Nogales, Mexico, on a charge of incompatibility.

Hellinger is in Pittsburgh as an author of the new Ziegfeld show, "Hot-Cha!" Miss Glad is in Cincinnati as a featured player in the touring "Ziegfeld Follies."

Said Hellinger of the blonde beauty:

"She's the greatest kid in the whole world. I won't contest this suit. I hope we remain friends for life."

From Cincinnati Miss Glad added:

"We're still the best of friends."

Comedian and Wife Guilty in Rum Case

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—(AP.)—Eddie Gribbon film comedian, and his wife, Loretta, were convicted in Municipal Court yesterday of possession of liquor. Police raided the Gribbon home February 3 and said they confiscated several bottles of liquor.

Gribbon and his wife were to be sentenced today. They were acquitted of a charge of intoxication.

Williams, Sea Flier, Seeks Reno Divorce

RENO, Nev., March 1.—(AP.)—Roger Q. Williams, transatlantic airplane pilot, who arrived in Reno 10 days ago, said yesterday that he would file suit within the next five weeks to divorce Carrie T. Williams, his war-time bride.

Williams' most famous exploit was a non-stop flight over the Atlantic from Old Orchard, Me., to Santander, Spain, on July 8 and 9, 1929.

'NUMBERS' MAN ELUDES ARREST

Detectives seeking Sam Rost, reputed slot machine king of the county, with the numbers racket as a sideline, today said they believed he was in hiding or had left the city.

Rost is wanted on a warrant charging him with operating a lottery as a result of testimony of one of his alleged agents, William Lipscomb, Negro, of Albion street, in Morals Court last week. Lipscomb was held for court with Charles Kirk, of Monticello street, charged with operating a numbers lottery.

Another alleged pickup man for Rost, Joseph McQuillan, 19, of 1214 Pineridge street, was arrested yesterday.

City numbers racketeers were said to have resented Rost's reported widening of his territory, formerly confined to county districts, to include parts of Pittsburgh, with the result that the city concessionaires complained to politicians.

Suspect Freed In 'Numbers' Pool

Arrested with 35 small paper pads, which city detectives said were lottery books, in his possession, Joseph McQuillan, 18, of 1214 Pineridge street, was arraigned in Morals Court today. Magistrate Thomas D. Jones discharged him when he found all the pads blank.

New Police, Fireman Groups Furloughed

One hundred and sixty-four policemen and approximately 80 firemen today began 30-day furloughs, as the third month of police and fire bureaus' stagger plan went into effect. One hundred and fifty-seven policemen and 80 firement, who were laid off February 1, were ordered back to work.

Because the Public Safety Department's appropriation for the current year has been slashed, every member of the police and fire bureaus will be compelled to tak a 30-day furlough without pay.

HAWAII HOLDS 2 ORIENTALS IN ATTACK

Crippled Victim's Slight Clue Hampers Manhunt; Navy Aids Police Search

By GILBERT PARKER

International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., March 1.—The underworld drag-net in operation again following the attack by a native on Mrs. Kathleen Hope, pretty and crippled wife of a United States Navy machinist's mate, today had netted some results. Of 12 suspicious characters arrested two were held as suspects. They were Orientals.

Naval patrols aided police in combing the city in search of the man who robbed and attacked Mrs. Hope while her husband, John Hope, was en route to San Pedro, Cal., on the submarine S-28.

As the attacker was masked, and dropped his mask only for a moment, Mrs. Hope gave police only an inadequate description, one, police said, which would fit thousands of natives in Honolulu and which made them skeptical that the assailant ever would be captured.

Mrs. Hope was recovering from the shock of the attack and had moved into the home next door of Mrs. R. D. Curry, wife of a naval electrician whose home also was entered by the intruder. Mrs. Curry, however, was not attacked.

The city of Honolulu was outwardly calm but authorities bent every effort to locate the new assailant.

POWERS' PLEA ACCUSES JURY

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 1.—(AP.)—A charge that the jury that tried Harry F. Powers, West Virginia "Bluebeard," was "selected from the mob" was made before the State Supreme Court today by his attorney, J. Ed Law, in presenting a petition for an appeal from his conviction in Harrison County. The court took the petition under advisement.

Powers, convicted of slaying Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcee, was sentenced to be hanged March 18. He was also indicted for the murder of Mrs. Asta Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, and her three children, in his Quiet Dell garage.

Law, in presenting his petition to the Appellate Court, assigned 13 rulings by the trial court as errors. The principal one was the refusal to grant a change of venue pressed by Law before the trial upon the ground that public sentiment was against Powers in Harrison County.

Artist Wins Right To 'Mickey McGuire'

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—(AP.)—The Superior Court, granting an injunction against Joe Yule, juvenile film actor, yesterday decided that the character "Mickey McGuire" belongs exclusively to its cartoonist-cerator Fontaine Fox.

Barbara Weeks Gets Rest Through Court

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—(AP.)—A court order was required yesterday before Barbara Weeks, 18-year-old screen actress, could start a New York vacation.

Modification of her contract was necessary for her absence and, as she is under legal age, no change could be made without the Superior Court's permission. Judge Marshall F. McComb issued the order. She will return March 29.

Child Badly Burned At Open Gas Stove

Evelyn Frierson, 6, Negro, was burned in her home at 2332 Wylie avenue today when her nightgown caught fire as she stood near a gas stove. Her parents extinguished the flames. Evelyn, in Passavant Hospital, was reported in serious condition.

ROAMING CHILD BACK IN U. S.

NEW YORK, March 1.—(INS.)—Globe trotter and linguist at the age of 11, Patsy Kelly was happy to be in New York after some rather terrifying adventures in South America, even though she was to be arraigned in children's court on charges of being destitute and without proper guardianship.

She went to school only five days in her life, but she speaks English, Spanish, Japanese and Chinese and now wants to learn "lots of things all the ladies do."

Her father, James Kelly, originally of Pittsburgh, but mostly of Shanghai, Santiago, Canton, Hongkong and other far points where he worked for oil companies or banks, came to New York with Patsy from Chili. He had only $20 in his pocket, having been sick and unemployed while in South America.

MAN, GIRL DEAD IN POISON PACT

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—A young man and woman who committed suicide in the Hotel Hampton in East One Hundred Twenty-second street, were tentatively identified by police today as James Verusio, 30, of New Rochelle, and Peggy Lush, 23, address unknown. They registered at the hotel yesterday as Mr. and Mrs. Al Luck and were found dead, with a bottle which had contained poison nearby, late last night.

The dead girl wore a wedding ring. Detectives said that a farewell note written by the girl was intended for her sister, Ruth Hasselback, of Toledo, O. It read:

"Dear Ruth: I'm going to end it all. Please do not let mother know. I am happy. Love, Peggy."

"We love each other. If we can't have each other, at least we can die together. Take care of Bustie. Bring him up to be a gentleman. Always make him happy."

"Bustie," the police believe, was Verusio's son.

Asserts Wife Balked Mozart Masterpiece

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—The world lost what might have been the greatest music of all time, argues Marcia Davenport, because a certain German housefrau 142 years ago persisted in flirting.

It is Constanza Mozart, wife of the immortal composer, whom Mrs. Davenport calls "the wildest, most giddy-headed little thing imaginable," and blames for changing the whole future of music.

She contends Mozart died on the verge of producing "something more supreme and overwhelming than we can imagine." He might have lived to complete such a masterpiece, she believes, if his wife had not neglected him while she carried on an affair with an army officer.

Mrs. Davenport is the daughter of Alma Gluck, the singer, and step-daughter of Zimbalist, the violinist. Years ago she and a friend argued over some minor point in Mozart's life. She determined then to become an authority on the famous composer.

She went to Europe and through the friendship of German music authorities, obtained access to a mass of age-stained documents hidden from everyone for more than a century in German archives. She explains:

"They were mostly letters from Constanza to her sons and friends. They shatter completely the myth that Madame Mozart was a sweet, dutiful housefrau who inspired her husband. The fact is that Constanza Mozart was a frivolous, fickle little flirt.

"During the last three years of her husband's life she neglected him terribly. She could have saved him, but she was too busy with her little flirtations. And so the great Mozart died. And it was 17 years later before Constanza thought to ask where he was buried."

Odd Fellows Plan 22nd Anniversary

Indian Mound Lodge, I. O. O. F., will celebrate the twenty-second anniversary of its founding tonight with a banquet in Fraternal Hall, Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks. Representatives of every Odd Fellows' lodge in the county are expected to attend. E. W. Downing, past noble grand, will preside.

9 BODIES STILL IN MINE

POCAHONTAS, Va., March 1.—(AP.)—Rescue workers resolutely searched the underground passages of the Boissevain mine today for the bodies of nine miners still missing after a Saturday explosion.

They hoped to complete their task today, but once more were hampered by great piles of slate and splintered timbers. Nearly all the blast area has been gone over to recover 29 bodies and a second hunt of the shattered working rooms and entries was made.

The burned and mutilated bodies told plainly that all victims of the blast had died instantly. As fathers and husbands were brought to the surface, widows and children accepted identification silently.

The victims were placed in the temporary morgue at the shaft mouth to await burial. Thirty-seven coffins were lined up Sunday as the search met its first successes.

D. L. PASSAVANT DIES AT 74

Born in Center avenue, opposite the Irene Kaufmann Settlement when that was an exclusive residential district, he lived here until 30 years ago, when he moved to Zelienople.

Mr. Passavant was a collector of and dealer in antiques, particularly books, and possessed a valuable collection. He was a member of the First English Lutheran Church, Grant street. Unmarried, he leaves two brothers, Harry, of Philadelphia, and Charles S. Passavant, of Lynchburg, Va.

Funeral services will be held in his home at 2:30 p. m. Thursday.

Brackenridge Firm Denied New Trial

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, in Federal Court today, denied the motion for a new trial in behalf of the Labor Products and Ice Company of Brackenridge, and three employes, Frank Schoen, Sr.; his son, Frank Schoen, Jr., and Frank H. Miller. All were convicted December 11 of violating the prohibition laws.

SHAW UPSETS MORE CARTS IN NEW PLAY

Preachers, Doctors Targets; Amusing Satire Scores In New England Premiere

BOSTON, March 1.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw went around tipping over apple carts last night in the world premiere of his latest satire, "Too True to Be Good."

He jostled the pulpit, upset the medico's kit, jibed at things governmental and decorous and had a good word or two for vegetarianism. His philosophy throughout amused a capacity audience.

The plot, which did not have much to do with the piece, concerned a wealthy young woman who thought she was ill and required much attention.

Her nurse, a crook in disguise, and the latter's equally law-ignoring boy friend, persuaded her that all she needed was to "live." In order that the three should do so comfortably she was persuaded to take along her jewels and lend herself to the extraction of ransom from her annoyingly attentive mother.

MICROBE'S WARNING

The trio departed for a mountain retreat, leaving a much deflated and fantastic microbe occupying the sick bed. The microbe, fantastically costumed, sat up long enough at the end of the first act to warn the audience in typical Shavian manner that nothing much would happen during the balance of the play.

Plenty did, but where it led and what it attempted to prove unless it was that the late world hostilities left humanity without a star to steer by, would be hard to say.

In their mountain retreat in the very bosom of a British expedition sent out to rescue the wealthy invalid, the trio had become bored, although roles had been exchanged. The wealthy young woman was serving as servant to the crook-nurse, who was now masquerading as a countess. This went well enough until the countess fell in love with a hard-boiled sergeant who had "got religion," but who was nevertheless intrigued by her shady past.

SOCIETY GIRL IN LEAD

The gentleman Raffles, who revealed himself as an ex-aviator, ex-Army chaplain and the son of an atheist, constantly had difficulty reconciling his preaching with his convictions, although he preached very well.

At the final curtain everyone had found himself except the gentleman crook who would like to return to his holy orders if he could decide on a doctrine.

Hope Williams, New York society girl, played the wealthy young woman. Beatrice Lillie, as the nurse of shady repute, upheld her fame as a comedienne, and through Hugh Sinclair, the gentleman burglar, sometimes soldier and preacher, Shaw gave full rein to his frequent, sardonic philosophy.

BABY BOND SALE PUSHED HERE

The sale of United States Treasury "baby bonds" will be pushed in a 16-day drive to begin next Monday under plans adopted by civic and business leaders yesterday in the office of A. E. Braun, president of the Farmers Deposit National Bank and chairman of the banking and finance committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce.

Thomas A. Dunn, president of the chamber, accepted appointment as a regional director of the Pittsburgh district, which includes Allegheny, Beaver, Butler, Fayette, Washington and Lawrence counties. Pittsburgh district headquarters have been opened at 2124 Grant Building.

The bonds, running for one year and bearing interest at 2 per cent, will be in denominations of $50, $100 and $500. Holders may have the bonds redeemed on 60 days notice.

JOB CAMPAIGN ADDS 10,000 TO PAYROLLS

Alabama Leads Nation With 2,282 Men Rescued from Idleness by United Action

NEW YORK, March 1. — (AP.) — Ten thousand more wage earners, nearly one-fourth of them from Alabama, were reported back in jobs yesterday by the United Action group seeking to place 1,000,000 persons in employment.

The 2,282 men the joint committees of the American Legion, its auxiliary, American Federation of Labor and Association of National Advertisers reported from Alabama brought the total for that state to 3,051 since the campaign began.

Their report was the largest in a day which showed a total of 10,026 persons returning to wage-paying occupations. A total of 153 communities in 42 states, the largest number since job-finding activities started, contributed to the day's report.

Like Alabama, Connecticut outdid all former days with a total reported of 1,511 jobs, second only to the southern state.

Minnesota, leading in the number reported for the entire period, raised its total to 15,350, with Wisconsin continuing its second-place rating with 12,861, and New York third with 10,286.

Illinois (8,946): Chicago, 166; Frankfort, 71; Peoria, 45; Decatur, 45; Normal, 16; Jacksonville, 7; East St. Louis, 4.

Pennsylvania (7,161): Catasauqua, 21; Clearfield, 4; Conemaugh, 16; Erie, 25; Fleetwood, 1; Paoli, 55; Portage, 6; Quakertown, 4; Scranton, 46.

POKER-PLAYING WIFE SUES

CHICAGO, March 1.—(AP.)—You've heard about what happens sometimes when things go awry in bridge, but this is about poker considered a man's game.

Mrs. Dorothy Parsons alleged, among other things in a divorce suit against Kermit Parsons yesterday, that she knew more about poker than her husband. She charged:

That she topped his full house with a straight flush in January and this made him angry.

That he dropped out of another hand after her successive raises and then discovered that she had been bluffing him right along with deuces.

It was then, she alleged, that he slapped her.

Wife Sues Mate Balking at Bridge

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 1.—(AP.)—A husband's refusal to make a fourth at bridge has been advanced as one of the reasons for a divorce suit.

Mrs. Anthony W. Fly, who filed the petition, charged her husband, among other things, with rudness, contempt, abuse and studied neglect.

Lamont's Son Sued Over Auto Accident

DENVER, Col., March 1.—(INS.)—Robert P. Lamont, Jr., wealthy Colorado rancher, and son of Secretary of Commerce Lamont, was named defendant in a suit for $25,000 on file in District Court here today. The suit was brought by Mrs. Lena F. Minowitz as the result of an automobile accident on January 1, 1931. Another suit growing out of the same accident has been settled out of court.

Lamont is en route to Russia to consider accepting a position as livestock director for the Soviet government at a reported salary of $50,000 annually.

Ruins of Ancient Tucson City Found

TUCSON, Ariz., March 1.—(INS.)—The ruins of an ancient city, inhabited more than 1,200 years ago and believed to have reached the zenith of its power at the time Leif Ericson sailed out of Norse seas for America, has been unearthed 18 miles south of Tucson by a party of archaeologists headed by Dr. Byron Cummings, dean of archaeology, University of Arizona, he announced today.

Legion Drive Leader Spurs Job Hunt Here

County Posts Begin House-to-House Work Campaign

Details of unemployment relief in the Pittsburgh district today were being worked out by leading business executives as the result of conferences yesterday by Mark T. McKee, executive director of the American Legion national drive.

McKee's visit was in conjunction with the launching of the Allegheny County Legion posts' campaign through house-to-house canvass for odd jobs of painting, repairing and cleaning. Employment for men and women workers, regardless of Legion membership, is sought, from one-half day to a week or more.

The industrial part of the program seeks to find work for 1,000,000 employes. McKee stressed that this would be aimed at obtaining jobs of permanent nature. Each industrial and commercial concern throughout the country is being asked to add one employe to their staffs.

Unemployed seeking to register for work must go to the legion post nearest their homes. Chairman Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., said today. Householders and small business houses that can use an unemployed person can obtain a worker by calling Atlantic 6460. Additional details for the campaign will be outlined tonight at the county meeting of the legion in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Harry S. Hall, personal representative of Henry L. Stevens, Jr., national commander, will speak.

CIVIC LEADERS URGE SUPPORT

Frank J. Chesterman, vice president of the Bell Telephone Company, in a radio address last night urged public support of civic institutions which are endeavoring to make Pittsburgh the most outstanding community in America. The address and that of William P. Witherow, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, closed a series of talks on Pittsburgh's industrial, civic and historical life. Chesterman, a former New Englander, talked on a "New Englander in Pittsburgh."

Witherow, who took civic spirit in Pittsburgh as his theme, said:

"We should now head the movement to return hoarded money to our banks, and cast off the specter of fear and rededicate ourselves to confidence and faith in our institutions."

3 Buffalo Hunted In Bradford Streets

BRADFORD, Pa., March 1.—(AP.)—Police went on a buffalo hunt early today, but failed to trap their prey. Traffic Officer Howard Peace discovered three buffalo, a bull, a cow and a calf, on Willard avenue. He organized a party.

GARNER'S BOOM CUTS LEAD OF ROOSEVELT

Chances of New Yorker's Nomination Dwindle as Strength Swings to Texan

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Franklin D. Roosevelt's candidacy or the Democratic presidential nomination, which up to a month ago was spreading with something like prairie fire rapidity, has been checked on a number of fronts.

Instead of being able to maintain their offensive, supporters of the New York Governor have been forced into a defensive role in some widely separate sections of the country, where they had anticipated little difficulty in corralling delegates.

This applies particularly to New England, where friends of Alfred E. Smith are busy in his behalf, and to some sections of the South and West, where the movement for Speaker John H. Garner has attained a momentum that has both surprised and alarmed the Roosevelt lieutenants.

CLASH IN PRIMARY

A week from today in New Hampshire the candidacies of Roosevelt and Smith meet head-on in the first primary test. The outcome is awaited with intense interest by Democratic leaders in Washington. A month ago it appeared Roosevelt would have the New Hampshire delegation by default. Smith's announcement that he was willing to be drafted for renomination changed all that, and instead of easy victory the Roosevelt people now have a real fight on their hands.

Vermont presents about the same picture as New Hampshire, and in varying degree so do the other New England states, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maine and Rhode Island. Throughout New England, the Smith forces are active and are carrying the war to the Roosevelt people.

In the South, where the Roosevelt strength has been greatest, where his managers have confidently expected 100 per cent delegations, there are also appearing signs of defection.

SWING TO GARNER

A typical example was furnished yesterday in Alabama, where there had been little thought of other than a Roosevelt delegation. Representative John McDuffie, Democratic whip of the House of Representatives, announced for Garner.

The serious factor from the Roosevelt standpoint is that the Garner movement thus far is taking strength away from Roosevelt almost alone. The North and East thus far have adopted a watchful waiting policy where the Garner candidacy is concerned, while pushing the candidacy of Smith, whom few believe can or will be nominated at Chicago. The acquisitions to the Garner candidacy are coming from Roosevelt territory in the South and West.

Democratic leaders today were inclined to attach little significance to Gov. Roosevelt's dealings with what is commonly called "the Tammany mess."

Roosevelt removed Sheriff Tom Farley, but he appointed yesterday a Tammany leader, John E. Sheehy, to succeed him. Sheehy was one of the two men indorsed by John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, so it was a Tammany appointment. This about evens the matter up, according to opinions expressed here today.

But it also indicates incidentally the Gov. Roosevelt is not "going to war" with Tammany.

BAY STATE GETS SMITH CONSENT

BOSTON, March 1.—(AP.)—Alfred E. Smith's consent for the use of his name by candidates for delegates to the Democratic national convention from Massachusetts was received today by Frank J. Donahue, Democratic state chairman.

In a letter, received by Donahue today, Smith said he understood this was a technical requirement in Massachusetts and added:

"I would not be interpreted as hampering in any way the desire of my friends in Massachusetts to express their sentiment for me."

Pupils Hear Pastor Talk on Leadership

America needs men of the type of Washington and Lincoln to lead it out of the present chaos, the Rev. Dr. George H. Broening, pastor of the Greenfield Avenue Presbyterian Church, said in an address yesterday to students of Arnold Preparatory School, Braddock avenue. He said:

"A new type of man is needed for a new day. Today's leader should be boundlessly active, never weary in the pursuit of his ideals; a thoughtful man, who can think things through; a man of vision and energy, who can picture the vital needs of his age and time, and a man of strong educational training and background."

Brother, Sister End 32-Year Hunt

A sister and brother were reunited by letter today because each had asked the Missing Persons Bureau to locate the other. Mrs. Joseph Lowrie, West View, asked the bureau to find her brother, William J. Carson, of Hileash, Fla., who left here 32 years ago. A few days ago Carson himself wrote the bureau asking for the address of his sister.

Seabury Denies He's Candidate for Office

NEW YORK, March 1.—(INS.)—Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hofstadter legislative committee, back today from his trip to Cincinnati, emphatically denied he was a candidate for any political office.

His speech in the Ohio city, in which he attacked Tammany Hall and asked national support in the fight against it, was devoid of the political significance which many place on it, he declared.

Trinket Sale Aids Murray's Campaign

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 1.—(AP.)—A pin money sale of trinkets and souvenirs will be one method of financing the campaign of Gov. William H. Murray for the Democratic presidential nomination.

George Henshaw, manager of the Murray-for-President headquarters here, said photographs of the Governor, windshield stickers, campaign hats, pocket mirrors and books containing Murray speeches have been placed on sale throughout the nation.

Ex-Connellsville Postmaster Dies

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 1.—(INS.)—Ralph W. McCormick, 47, former Connellsville postmaster, is dead at his home in Lakeland, Fla., according to word received here. McCormick, who also was division storekeeper for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Connellsville and Chicago, was the son of William McCormick, Connellsville Street Commissioner. Funeral services will be held at Lakeland.

Pretzel Makers Elect Pittsburgher

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(AP.)—William L. Quinlan, Reading, was elected president of the newly-organized Pennsylvania Pretzel Manufacturers conference at a meeting here. The conference, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, was organized "to promote better understanding between pretzel manufacturers." H. B. McNeal, Pittsburgh, was elected a vice president.

Charities Told Not To Seize Auto Tags

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(AP.)—Charitable organizations have been warned by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Benjamin G. Eynon against taking license plates of persons applying for relief.

Eynon advised that only authorized agents of the Department of Revenue have the right to take license plates. He said he had been informed one charitable agency had taken the license plates of persons applying for relief to prevent them from operating their cars.

Daylight Time Voted By Clearing House

Daylight saving time for the summer months was officially adopted by the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association yesterday. A resolution asked Mayor Charles H. Kline to issue an early proclamation making the practice general this year. In referring the resolution to Mayor Kline, James Francis Burke, general counsel for the association, asked that the time be proclaimed as early as possible so that railroads can rearrange their schedules. R. B. Mellon presided at the meeting.

Knock That Cold In A Jiffy

Relief Now Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go, the cold breaks up, poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now for a few cents.

URGES SUBWAY TO OAKLAND

Protest against construction of a downtown subway loop in the First and Second wards, on grounds that it would do nothing toward elimination of the present traffic tangles, was made to City Council today by Attorney William McDowell, of 308 Bakewell Building.

Charging that $6,000,000 appropriated for the loop would be money ill-spent, McDowell advanced an optional route extending from Downtown under Fifth avenue, "through the hills of Oakland, with a terminus at the Hotel Schenley." He also recommended an extension of the underground rapid transit system from that point to East Liberty.

Serious traffic conditions on the North Side, caused by slow trolley cars, according to McDowell, make it imperative that some means be taken to include that territory in plans for subway work within the next few years.

Council may discuss the communication at a finance committee meeting this afternoon.

Meanwhile, Council was awaiting an opinion from City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt on the legality of placing the subway question before the voters again at the April primaries, as suggested by Councilman W. Y. English.

THREATS LAID TO MRS. BILBO

JACKSON, Miss., March 1.—(INS.)—Charged with assault and battery by Mrs. T. G. Bilbo, wife of the former Mississippi Governor, Dr. C. L. Smith, son-in-law of the former executive, today said Mrs. Bilbo had threatened him with a pistol.

Smith, released on $200 bonds pending a preliminary hearing Friday, is the husband of a daughter of Bilbo by a former marriage. Former Gov. Bilbo was one of the persons who signed Smith's bond. Smith said regarding the charges:

"My wife called me on the telephone and asked me to come home immediately, that Mrs. Bilbo was there with a gun. Then I got home, she demanded that I tell her where to find Gov. Bilbo. She was sitting in her automobile and she suddenly slapped me.

"I asked her to leave. Then she drew a pistol from her pocketbook. I seized her by the arm. In the scuffle I had to grab her by the neck to keep her from shooting me."

Dr. Depuy leaves his widow, a son, Col. L. W. Depuy, two daughters, Mrs. Nancy H. Henderson and Mrs. Lottie A. Ayers, and two sisters, Emma and Charlotte Depuy, all of Pittsburgh, and a brother, Dr. Hiram Depuy, of Tacoma, Wash.

Eckert Funeral.

Funeral services for George Eckert, a memorial dealer, who died Sunday at his home, 6926 Standish street, Morningside, will be held tomorrow morning in St. Raphael's Church, of which he was a member. Burial will follow in St. Anthony's Cemetery, Millvale. Mr. Eckert was a member of the Knights of St. George, St. Anthony's Musical Beneficial Association and the Maccabees. He leaves his widow, three sons, Joseph A., Walter J. and George W. Eckert, Jr., and two sisters, Miss Anna Eckert and Mrs. Catherine Weiss, all of Pittsburgh.

Trimble Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Haubensak Trimble, 81, wife of George W. Trimble, who died Sunday at her home, 101 West McIntyre avenue, North Side, will be held there tonight. Burial will be held tomorrow morning. She was born in Old Allegheny, and was a resident of that section all her life. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church. Besides her husband, she leaves two daughters, Mrs. Sidney S. Smith, of the North Side, and Mrs. J. H. Allman, of Butler, Pa., and a son, Robert J. Trimble.

Ord Funeral.

Funeral services for James H. Ord, 58, who died Sunday at the home of his son, Carl J. Ord, 4526 Main street, Munhall, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the son's home. He was a member of the Elizabeth Baptist Church, Elizabeth, Pa. He leaves a daughter, Anna L. Ord, of Beechview; two sons, Carl J. Ord, of Munhall, and James K. Ord, of Beechview; a sister, Mrs. Esther Griffiths, of Dravosburg, and two brothers, Dr. Edward Ord, of McKeesport, and John S. Ord, of Dravosburg.

Prentice Funeral.

Funeral services for George H. Prentice, who died yesterday at his home, 5 Jay street, North Side, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the George F. Smith funeral house, 1200 Federal street. Interment will be in Uniondale Cemetery. He was a member of the Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church. Besides his widow he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Ertell, of Detroit; a son, John Prentice, and his mother.

Leiner Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Christina Penish Leiner, who died Sunday at her home, 2824 Bergman street, Sheraden, were to be held this afternoon from the home. Burial was to be in Homestead Cemetery. She was born in Germany and came to this country 47 years ago. She was a member of the German Lutheran Church. She leaves her husband, Fred Leiner, and a son, Fred Leiner, Jr., of Easton, Pa.

Boy Hit by Autos Dies, Drivers Held

Samuel Walker, 10, of 8 Strauss street, died in Presbyterian Hospital this morning, of injuries suffered when he was struck by one auto and hurled in the path of a truck in Charles street yesterday. Edward Kresing, 35, of 525 Avery street, who police say was the driver of the auto that first struck Walker, and William Fisher, 4217 Perrysville avenue, driver of the truck, were ordered turned over to the Coroner.

Re-trial Plea Heard In Bond Sale Case

Arguments were heard yesterday by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar on a motion for a new trial for William J. Moore, president of the American Bond and Mortgage Company, of New York and Chicago, and his three sons, Harold A., Charles C. and Kenneth W. Moore, convicted last week for mis-use of the mail and conspiracy, in connection with promotion and sale of second mortgage bonds of the Mayflower Hotel Company, Washington.

Judge McVicar reserved decision. Attorney Earl F. Reed headed counsel for the defense. Attorney Forrest Harness, of Washington, special assistant to Attorney General William Mitchell, opposed the motion.

OFFERS TUNNEL TRAFFIC PLAN

A plan for better regulation and speeding up of traffic between Pittsburgh and the South Hills was proposed today to E. L. Smith, Allegheny County chief engineer, by Dr. Rudolph Klicka, North Side dentist.

Dr. Klicka

Consisting of a series of ramps and an overhead roadway at the entrance to the Liberty Tunnels, adoption of the plan, he said, would permit a perpetual flow of traffic from the Liberty Bridge, Brownsville avenue and the Mt. Washington boulevard.

Primarily a safety measure, according to Dr. Klicka, the proposed changes offer a solution to long delays experienced by city-bound motorists during the daily rush hours.

Dr. Klicka said the proposal was made at the request of the City Planning Commission.

Oakland Board Will Spur Relief Work

Plans for furtherance of the work of relief among the needy will be made at a meeting of officers, directors and committeemen of the Oakland Board of Trade in the Hotel Schenley tonight, Anthony H. Clark, president, announced today. The board has been interested in relief work in the Fourth Ward for some time. Recently a bundle day was held and clothing and food distributed to many families.

JOB AID SOUGHT BY TOWNSHIPS

Seeking arrangements for the Allegheny County Emergency Association to give work to unemployed in the respective districts as recommended by members of the Allegheny County Association of First-Class Township Commissioners, a special committee will confer with John D. Beatty Saturday afternoon.

The commissioners will seek cooperation from Director Beatty before asking support of the County Commissioners. The township association president, William E. Armstrong, of Baldwin Township, will head the committee. Members will include Mrs. Grace Joyce, Mt. Lebanon; James W. Johnston, Ross Township; John Peters, Penn Township; N. S. Walter, Elizabeth, and C. F. Lauer, Reserve Township.

County Gets Loan, Pays $560,000 Debt

The County Commissioners yesterday paid off $560,000 bonded debt obligations following receipt of $1,000,000 of a $3,500,000 loan from the Union Trust Company. The remainder of the $1,000,000 will be used for general expenses. The loan was made against future tax collections scheduled to start in June. The money was borrowed at 5½ per cent interest.

Church Appointed To Library Meet

Gov. Pinchot has appointed Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, a delegate to represent Pennsylvania at the annual meeting of the American Library Association, to be held in New Orleans, April 25. Ralph Munn, director of the Carnegie Library, will also attend this convention.

Man Shot After Daring Wife to Use Gun

MONONGAHELA, March 1.—Clyde Hillman, 48, of 1000 Decker street, is in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital because, police said, his wife wouldn't take a dare. His wife, Margaret, 44, is in jail.

During a quarrel, according to the police report, Hillman started to wreck the family automobile with a sledge hammer and when his wife remonstrated, he handed her a gun, saying:

"All right, shoot me then!"

She was reported by police as firing one shot. Hillman was struck. His condition, physicians said, is not serious.

STORE ROBBERS RETURN LOOT

When employes opened the store today they found a package in the doorway. It was the $155, carefully wrapped and with a note attached which read:

"Here's your money. Be more careful after this."

85 Cases Reported For City Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 13; diphtheria, 2; measles, 35; chicken pox, 4; mumps, 7; pneumonia, 23, and erysipelas, 1.

MORIN IN RACE FOR CONGRESS

Former Congressman John M. Morin today announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress in the Thirty-second District, indicating a fight in that district by three strong candidates.

Congressman P. J. Sullivan, incumbent, will be a candidate, and petitions are to be filed tomorrow in behalf of Councilman M. J. Muldowney, backed by Senator James J. Coyne.

Morin, who served eight terms, retired three years ago when Sullivan, Coyne and other ward leaders of his district pulled away and decided to support the present Congressman. Since then a feud has developed between Sullivan and Coyne. The latter some time ago declared under no conditions would he back Morin again.

In his announcement today Morin promised a platform statement within a few days. In his former congressional service he was an active anti-dry, and through seniority had risen to chairmanship of the important Committee on Military Affairs.

Committee Named For Rebekah Benefit

A committee for the first benefit ball of the Rebekah Home for the Aged, 3515 McClure avenue, North Side, to be held at William Penn Hotel, May 16, was announced yesterday. It includes Judge James B. Drew, of the State Supreme Court; Judge M. A. Musmanno, of the County Court; Dr. Ben Graham, Superintendent of Schools; Attorney Norval Daugherty, and Mrs. Milton Reno, of the Congress of Women's Clubs.

MUSIC

Carnegie Music Hall

The Woman's Scholarship Organization of Carnegie Institute of Technology presented Angna Enters in Carnegie Music Hall last night, and there should have been a larger audience to watch this clever dancer.

Mr. Lissfelt

In truth, Angna Enters is so much more than dancer that the delightful steps of her opening Strauss waltz were the merest episode to introduce her art. To begin with, she must have looked long and accurately at the cartoons of Forain, before she read the face of Paris; she must have dwelt searchingly among the columns of Gothic cathedrals to learn the detail of window and mural; she must have gossiped with spirits of saint, demon, and grand lady; and she must have eavesdropped in the very dancing school where I once had a partner who had learned skirt dance and all the antics of the Delsarte so skilfully ridiculed last night.

Angna Enters took us to Vienna, to Paris boulevards, to the French court, to American commencement exercises and field days, to the time of Spanish Inquisition and Borgia poisonings, and with biting cynicism showed the truth of her characters. Was she Josephine, the Empress of France or a fool; was she a school child or victim of system; was she Lucrezia or prototype of an epoch? In every picture she opened a long vista of conjecture and after each short scene left our imaginations to complete the tragedies she had suggested so swiftly.

Like St. Denis' Chinese and other Oriental pictures Enters plays with Gothic ideas. In gesture, costume and makeup she is quite as exquisite. From Mary Wigman she has taken suggestions but surely she has satirized this new school of dancing. She has used her eyes well, and after accurately dressing her portraits, has watched the subtle gestures of humanity and has given them again to us with startling reality.

We could easily have watched Angna Enters without listening to the musical accompaniment; it only disturbed the interest in watching this actress. How pitilessly she used her scalpel but what beauty and truth she finds!

J. FRED LISSFELT.

TAX BOOK AUDIT STRIKES SNAGS

Auditors for the County Commissioners today were reported meeting difficulties in striking a balance on deputy delinquent tax collectors' books in several boroughs and townships.

It had been expected a report on this part of the audit would be made to the commissioners today, but owing to difficulties encountered it was likely to be delayed. Delinquent Tax Collector John Brown, Jr., is checking all delinquent tax accounts not reported paid for 1929 to 1931 inclusive. Notices are being sent to such persons, which, it is said, will act as a double check.

Brown said today, with few exceptions, the more than 100 collectors in the boroughs and townships are showing a keen interest in making collections and returns. He has directed that returns be made every 15 days or at least once a month.

ST. CLAIR ASKS STREET REPAIR

Repair, re-surfacing and regrading of six streets by the city Public Works Department, was asked of City Council today by the St. Clair Board of Trade.

The trade organization charged the streets were in dilapidated condition and were menaces to traffic.

The work asked includes the re-surfacing of Cobden street, from Eleanor street to the present paving; re-surfacing of Eleanor street, from Salisbury street to Cobden; re-surfacing of Conway street, from Arlington avenue to Eccles street; re-surfacing of Charcot street, from Eleanor street to Clover street; re-paving of Patterson street, from Sterling street to Eleanor street, and paving and grading of Salisbury street, from Sterling street to Eleanor street.

Airways Line Cuts Passenger Fares

CHICAGO, March 1.—(AP.)—American Airways, Inc., has announced a reduction in passenger fares as well as faster schedules between Chicago and the southwest. The new rates of approximately six and one-third cents a mile were as much as $18.95 lower than the old rates. That difference was in the fare from Chicago to Los Angeles.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

How Many Tricks Can Z Win?

Having nine almost certain tricks in his own hand, Z made an opening demand bid of 3-Hearts, under the Official System. One certain trick and a biddable suit forced Y to bid 4-Clubs, on account of his doubleton heart. Z shifted to the final contract of 4-Hearts. The opening lead was the Q of spades. How many tricks can Z win against any defense left open to A-B?

Look over the hand as Z did actually, before winning his first trick. You see six trump tricks that may be taken when ready; there are two spade tricks, and one trick each in both clubs and diamonds; the hand may be spread for game. But overtricks are worth 50 points each. How many overtricks can you see? Evidently dummy can trump one diamond, making a total to date of 11 easy tricks in plain sight. Unless something ails them, A-B never will allow dummy to ruff more than one diamond lead. The problem now resolves itself into a query as to the possibility of squeezing opponents for a small slam. Having determined that, you are ready to play as Z actually did.

Win the first trick with your K; it is foolish to false-card when every player can detect it. Save such deception for occasions when it may do some good. Lay down your ace of diamonds, followed by a small card of that suit, giving opponents what you hope will be their only trick on the hand. Of course, a trump will be led back by your opponents. Win the trick with one of your own honors. Lead a small diamond, ruffing with dummy's J, to make certain that an adversary cannot out-ruff dummy. Put yourself in by leading a spade from dummy. You have won five of the six tricks played to date. Now you are prepared to attempt a double squeeze. As is the case almost always, you must lead out every trump; watch what goes upon the first four trumps; upon them let go from dummy three clubs and one spade. A will play one heart, and he will discard one spade and two clubs. B will play two hearts, after which he will discard his last spade and one club. The holdings about the table will be as shown below, at the end of the tenth trick.

Lead your last trump, completing the double squeeze. A must hold his lone spade or dummy's 9 will become good, so A has to let go the guard to his K of clubs. Discard from dummy what A holds; let go Y's spade. B becomes squeezed; if he lets go of a club, both dummy's become good; if B lets go his last diamond, your 7 will win a trick and Y's Ace of clubs will win the last trick. If played in just the way indicated Z can win 12 tricks against any defense.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

Suggestions to Aid in Making Reports to Government

The preliminary steps in filling out an income tax blank for an individual whose net income was less than $5,000 were outlined yesterday. The deductions which may be claimed such as taxes paid, contributions to charities and bad debts were explained.

By subtracting the total of all these deductions from the total of all types of income, the net income is obtained. The taxpayer then enters the credit for his dependents. This amounts to $400 for each person under the age of 18 or incapable of self support who was living in the same household with him and deriving his major support from him at the end of the year. The personal exemption which amounts to $1,500 for a single person or $3,500 for a married person is then entered.

The total of the credit for dependents and the personal exemption is then deducted from the net income and leaves the balance upon which a tax has to be paid. If this figure should amount to more than $4,000, form 1040 must be used instead of form 1040A. For individuals with incomes of less than $5,000 the taxable income will be less than $4,000 unless a husband and wife are filing separate returns and the personal exemption is being claimed by the other party to the marriage.

In computing the tax take 1½ per cent of the taxable income. From this may be deducted income tax paid at the source on tax-free covenant bonds and income tax paid to a foreign country or possession of the United States, but few taxpayers with incomes of less than $5,000 will have such deductions to make.

All taxpayers in the class we have been discussing may deduct 25 per cent from the tax computed at 1½ per cent on the ground that it is earned income. For tax purposes all incomes of less than $5,000 are considered to be earned income even though they actually may have been derived from sources other than wages and salaries.

RELIEF GROUP SETS PRICES FOR FOOD

Welfare Fund Organization Takes Economy Step With Merchants' Co-operation

Definite steps have been taken by the Welfare Fund organization to establish a uniform list of fair prices for foods being bought for the relief of needy families from wholesale and retail grocers.

The charge of County Commissioner C. M. Barr that money is being wasted by buying in small lots from retail stores was not referred to, but a committee was called together yesterday and prices the relief agencies will pay for foods during the next two weeks were fixed.

The committee, known as the Fair Price Committee, will meet weekly after March 10. The figures represent the lowest wholesale prices plus a small charge for retail handling and are lower than the standard retail prices. The fixing of the prices has been agreed to by a number of independent and chain store merchants.

Members of the Fair Price Committee at the meeting were: Charles Wolf, chairman, president of the Retail Grocers' Association; J. V. Laughran, George Rom, W. P. Benson, H. M. Wonn, P. W. Garlick and D. S. Farley.

"The Absolute Necessity of Federal Relief" will be the subject of Ben Marsh, of Washington, former Senator, who will address an open forum meeting to be sponsored by the Allied Boards of Trade March 7 at the Congress of Clubs.

Dr. Ralph Boots will preside. Welfare workers and social and civic leaders have been invited.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

The list of prospective debutantes for 1932 is steadily growing. And prospects are decidedly bright for the debs who'll make their bows in June and in the fall.

Dorothy Blaxter, young daughter of the Henry Vaughan Blaxters, is the latest addition to the list. Her family has not as yet made any definite plans for her debut.

Betsy Liggett, daughter of the Sidney Liggetts, may come out next winter, though her mother thinks it more likely that she'll present her the year after. Mrs. Liggett will go to meet Betsy in New York in a fortnight and return with her.

Betsy, a student at Miss Porter's School at Farmington, will spend her three-week Easter vacation at home. Other Farmington girls who are expected home the sixteenth of the month for spring vacation are Dorothy Blaxter, Peggy Robinson, Virginia and Betty Evans, Maria Wilson, Martha Burdick and Caroline Holdship.

Returns From East

Mary Childs, daughter of the James H. Childses, came home yesterday from Boston, where she was the house guest of the Tarrant P. Kings. Mary's betrothal to the King's son, William T. King, has been announced.

Mary L. Haddock To Be Married March 28

Further wedding plans have been announced by Miss Mary Louise Haddock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., of South Graham street, East End, who will wed Edward H. Hegmann, of Washington, Pa., formerly of Pittsburgh and son of Mrs. Mary E. Hegmann, of Predonia, N. Y., at 8:30 o'clock the evening of March 28.

Mrs. Harry P. O'Neil, of Coraopolis, cousin of the bride-elect, will be the matron of honor, and Miss Beryl Hubbard, of Long Island, N. Y., a former classmate of Miss Haddock, at the Sargent School, will be the maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Sue Condon, of Frederick, Md., and Miss Grace Herron, of Pittsburgh, who were both classmates of Miss Haddock at the Sargent School.

Robert J. Hegmann will serve as his brother's best man, and ushers will be Rollins A. Haddock III, who will return from Temple University for the ceremony; Edward A. Linhart and James W. Craft. Miss Frances Taylor will play the wedding march, and her sister, Miss Marjorie Taylor, will sing preceding the ceremony.

In Bridal Party

There will be a reception after the wedding.

Among the pre-nuptial entertainments for the bride-elect was a recent luncheon given by Miss Frances Taylor in her home in St. James street and a bridge luncheon on Saturday afternoon given by Miss Grace Harris. Among a number of small dinner parties planned for Miss Haddock and her fiance, is a dinner on Saturday evening, March 12, to be given by Maj. and Mrs. Robert S. Metcalf in their home in Howe street.

Miss Haddock attended the University of Pittsburgh, and is a graduate of the Sargent School of Physical Education. Her fiance attended the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pittsburgh.

TWO PROMINENT YOUNG SOCIETY WOMEN SEEN WHILE SHOPPING IN THE DOWNTOWN

War Would End If Older Women, Men Were Put in Trenches Ex-Premier's Son Says

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

War might end if the service age were fixed between 45 and 80 and both sexes were included; then instead of boasting proudly of having "sent a son," one might with equal pride speak of having given a grandfather or a couple of grandaunts to one's country. This was the rather original idea presented to the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday by Oliver Baldwin, former member of the English House of Commons and son of Stanley Baldwin, former Conservative prime minister.

Mr. Baldwin, a Socialist member of the Labor party and an avowed pacifist (he says he will never again raise arms against anyone), described his own childhood and that of others of his class. It was an unhappy picture of the children-should-be-seen-and-not-heard period in which no explanations and no reasons were ever given to children and the only way in which they knew they had done right was when they were not "don'ted," a system that created fear and bred terror.

Mr. Baldwin called his "The Lost Generation," because it grew to manhood in the trenches and never really knew a childhood. He spoke with a quiet, unemotional bitterness of the mental reactions of the youth in the trenches and of the fact that his generation had been taught to hate, a contradiction of the principles of Christianity. It is this, he asserted, that is keeping the churches of England empty today. Since only a remnant is left of the generation that should now be taking control of the world, the old, old men and the very, very young are in power. The world is looking to women and peace or war is in their hands, he declared. He stressed the terrific responsibility of the women who urge their men to go to war and commented on the "gross effrontery" of those who presented men not in uniform with white feathers.

Mark of Trenches

The generation that is coming on now is kinder, more understanding and more tolerant, it has not been taught the fetishes of might and power, but it lacks self-confidence because an inferiority complex was bred in it when its older brothers were the soldier-heroes. The next 20 years will see bigger changes than have ever been dreamed of; youth will either be militaristic or socialistic, he prophesied.

Marriage Ceremony Lie, 20th Century Club Told

The present marriage ceremony is a lie and is biologically impossible; it should be a hope and not a promise, for no human being can will to love, Dr. David Seabury, famous consultant psychologist, told the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning. Dr. Seabury claims that understanding of self with relation to others and to life is the basis of happy human relations. Most difficulties go back to maladjustments; even business failures and depressions and wars have their basis in the human relations factor, he said.

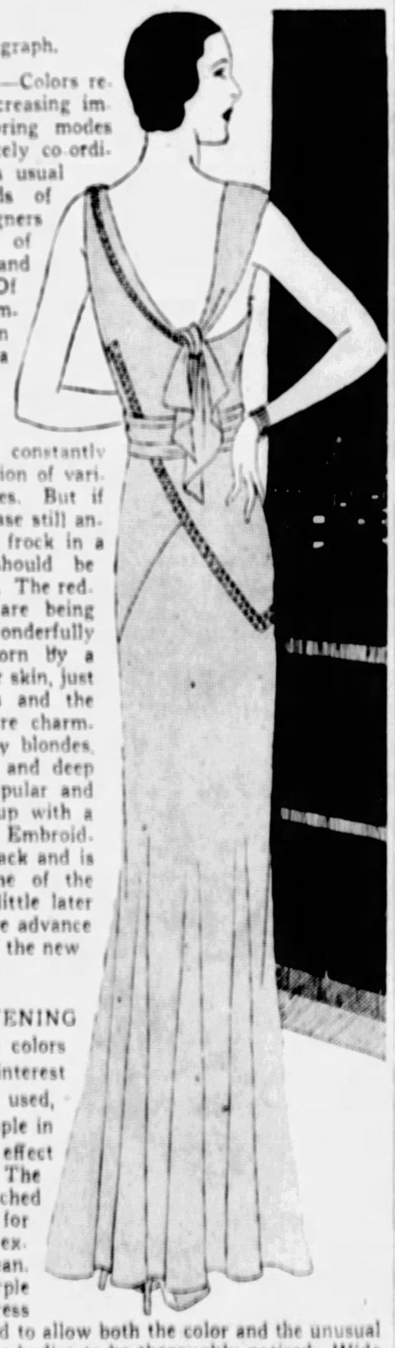
People must rid themselves of the old stereotypes, prejudices, rigidities, sanctities, he declared, citing as one of several of these the "ideal he." In explanation, he said, a woman will hold as her "ideal he" a mixture of St. Francis of Assisi, Richard Coeur de Lion and Lindbergh and then take it out on the poor shrimp she marries because he falls short of the ideal.

Dr. Seabury believes that education in human relations should begin in kindergarten and be carried through college and that prospective parents should have a special course in child-raising. The speaker described seven different kinds of love and discussed various types of people, showing how unlikely it is that opposite types will be compatible. Type contrasts must have at least 51 per cent similitude in marriage, friendship or even parent-child relationships in order to have true compatibility, or else there must be compassion that accents the centers of compatibility.

COLOR IMPORTANT IN SPRING MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.



PARIS, March 1.—Colors reveals itself as of increasing importance as the spring modes become more definitely co-ordinated. Of course as usual there will be loads of black, but all designers are showing frocks of colorful hue for day and for evening wear. Of course, if one is limited in the selection of evening clothes, a black frock and a white one will be best, since they can be dressed up and constantly altered by the addition of various vivid accessories. But if one is able to purchase still another frock, then a frock in a becoming shade should be chosen by all means. The reddish purples that are being shown now are wonderfully attractive when worn by a brunette with a clear skin, just as the soft pastels and the blush-rose shades are charming when donned by blondes. White in off-white and deep cream shades is popular and usually is dressed up with a vivid color contrast. Embroidery too is coming back and is being used on some of the newest frocks. A little later on there will be more advance news on the trend of the new modes.

* * *

THE NEW EVENING frocks done in deep colors are attracting much interest here. When color is used, the dress is kept simple in detail so that the effect will not be overdone. The evening frock sketched at Mme. Lanvin's for this page is a good example of what we mean. It is in reddish purple marocain and the dress itself is quite subdued to allow both the color and the unusual cut at the back of the bodice to be thoroughly noticed. Wide fagotting, done with tiny points of the material instead of embroidery silk, runs diagonally across the front of the bodice and skirt. As shown in the sketch, it is repeated in similar fashion at the back.

FLINN HIGHWAY GROUP ELECTS

At the organization meeting of the William Flinn Highway Association in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, officers were elected and plans made to send a delegation to Harrisburg to urge Gov. Pinchot to finish the highway from Pittsburgh into Butler.

Joseph C. Trees was elected president. Others elected were: Vice president, Mayor Joseph Heineman, of Butler; secretary, Eugene L. Connelly, of Pittsburgh; treasurer, Elias Ritts, president of the Butler County National Bank, and honorary president, Ralph E. Flinn, of Pittsburgh. Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler; George Burkhalter, Butler, and David I. McCahill, Pittsburgh, were named committeemen.

Speakers were Phillips, Trees, J. Brown Nixon, McCahill and Karl Dougherty.

CRAZED BUTLER STABS 2; SHOT

A policeman shot and wounded the butler, whose name was given as Chester Starks.

Starks was found by a policeman in a clump of bushes at the rear of the house. He was half clothed and was reading a Bible. The butler charged the policeman with a knife and was shot in the hip and arm.

Knowledge of House Rules Wins Favor With Clark

CHAPTER X.

When the Democratic party came back into power in the House of Representatives, in 1911, under Champ Clark's brilliant and patriotic leadership, it had been wandering in the outer darkness for 16 years.

No Democratic Speaker had presided over the House since the close of the Speakership of Charles F. Crisp, of Georgia, in 1895.

With the exception of a few of the "elder statesmen" like Clark, the great body of Democrats in the House had enjoyed absolutely no parliamentary experience under Democratic rule. Clark had served under Crisp. He had preserved in his own soul the Democratic tradition, and the historic Democratic fighting spirit.

Many of the Democrats who had fought with him against "Cannonism" before very long left the House, and eventually went to the Senate. Among them were such men as Ollie James, of Kentucky; Broussard, of Louisiana; Hardwick, of Georgia; Hitchcock, of Nebraska; Hughes, of New Jersey; Sheppard, of Texas; Stanley, of Kentucky; Underwood, of Alabama, and Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the present Democratic leader of the Senate.

Confidence at Home

The promotion of these men left big gaps in the Democratic ranks. Champ Clark was obliged to train up a new generation of lieutenants, who would be capable of becoming leaders of the future. He had his eye on all likely material. John N. Garner had long been under his observation.

Garner by this time had spent eight or nine years in the House. He had demonstrated, for the one most essential thing, that he had the confidence of the people of his own district, and might be relied upon to return to Congress every two years indefinitely. This sort of stability in a Representative is indispensable to a career of leadership.

Champ Clark had also observed that Garner was an economist in words. He had been four terms in the House, and hadn't made a speech yet. Never once had he taken the floor, and soared off on a flight of rhetorical fancy.

Champ Clark was himself both an accomplished orator and a practical statesman. But he knew the futility of mere language.

Garner spent most of his time in his seat, watching the progress of legislation, and not on his feet making futile addresses. Few speeches have ever changed a vote in Congress. Now and then he arose to ask a question, to contradict an erroneous statement. At times he would challenge James R. Mann, then the real Republican leader in the House, and by all odds the shrewdest and most adroit parliamentarian on that side. Clark saw that Garner had acquired a valuable grasp of the rules of the House, a very rare accomplishment. He began to use him more and more, to depend upon him, to lean on him.

Clark appointed him a member of the conference committee on the Diplomatic and Consular Bill on February 21, 1913, and this was the first assignment of this kind he had had. Many times in this session Clark called the Texan to the chair, to preside in his absence. He invariably acquitted himself well.

Wins Coveted Place

With the beginning of the Sixty-third Congress, which met in extra session in April, 1913, shortly after the beginning of the first term of President Woodrow Wilson, John N. Garner obtained the recognition in the House for which he had worked so hard.

Committees were now elected by the House, which meant that Democratic members of committees were chosen by the party caucus. Oscar W. Underwood in this manner became Chairman of Ways and Means. It was the greatest forward step Garner had made in his congressional career. He won the place by merit. He had been tried and was trusted by the leaders, and by the House.

It is again characteristic of the man that he turned down an important chairmanship on a committee which, in the minds of most men, ranks high, in order to gain a place of inferior rank, well down on the Democratic side of the Committee on Ways and Means, the place upon which his heart had been set almost from the day he had entered Congress.

JOHN N. GARNER
Mr. Garner, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, as he stepped casually from the Capitol Building and as he appears every day in Washington.

Much 'Log Rolling'

Places on Ways and Means were coveted by many ambitious Democratic members of the House, all of whom had some elements of strength. As is usual, in the making up of committees, there were many spirited contests for the vacancies, many more applicants than available places. Much trading went on, support here, for support promised there. The customary amount of what is called "log-rolling," or, less elegantly, but even more picturesquely, "You scratch my back, and I'll scratch yours."

John N. Garner saw what was going on, and instead of being discouraged, he was stimulated to increased activity, renewed determination to reach his goal. He put up such a fight that finally it was said to him upon authority:

"Give up this effort to go on Ways and Means, and you can have the chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Affairs."

Wasted No Time on Futile Speeches During Terms

John N. Garner's reply is worthy of preservation for all time, as a guide to all men when tempted to depart from the pathway they have laid out for themselves through life:

"I don't want the chairmanship of Foreign Affairs—I am going to a place where I can make a chairmanship for myself."

The group of leaders who were busily engaged in slatemaking were aghast at such determination on the part of Garner. They had thought to sidetrack him with a chairmanship, among the prerogatives of which would be one of the most beautiful committee rooms in the Capitol, a high-salaried clerk, which meant so much more patronage, and, for the man who held that chairmanship, a recognized social position in the smart official life of Washington.

A chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, if he chooses, can be a high-stepper in the diplomatic set. He can attend all the banquets and dinners, and swanky afternoon teas galore are within his grasp. He is a figure of some consequence at exclusive White House affairs. He has the pleasure of having ambassadors and ministers of foreign governments use his ear for a speaking trumpet, filling him up with all sorts of propaganda.

John N. Garner was determined that his career in the House should be along the constructive lines of finance. He knew that a place on Ways and Means would lead him to where he wanted to go, and that the chairmanship of Foreign Affairs would force him into channels where he had no desire to go.

The fact is that Garner was not then, had not been before, and has not been since, unduly interested in foreign affairs. His whole heart and soul are bound up in the problems of plain, ordinary, every-day American people, exploited by outrageously high Republican tariffs and victimized by unfair tax laws. So Garner said:

"I am going to a place where I can make a chairmanship for myself."

How he made those words come true is not only a part of his own life's story, but a part of the history of the House of Representatives.

GUNMAN TAKEN TO CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, March 1.—(AP.)—Manacled and handcuffed, and closely guarded by four detectives, "Smiling Joe" Filkowski, Cleveland's No. 1 public enemy, arrived here early today from New York to face a first degree murder indictment.

Three squads of detectives and patrolmen met Filkowski and his guards when their train pulled in, and rushed him to jail. They were constantly on the alert, lest "Smiling Joe" sould attempt another of his desperate escapes.

Shortly after the desperado's arrest, the detectives found his sweetheart, Mrs. Mary Kekic, of Cleveland in a New York apartment. In a bookcase there, they discovered nearly $100,000 worth of stolen jewelry, and a small arsenal of guns and ammunition.

Mrs. Kekic, who deserted her husband and two children to run away with Filkowski, was held in New York.

Merchant Accused In Erie Jury Plot

ERIE, Pa., March 1.—(INS.)—Fred Meiser, Erie merchant, today was under order to appear in court Friday to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt in connection with an alleged jury tampering plot here.

The order, issued by Judge William E. Hirt, is the outgrowth of a reported intercession with Thomas Hughes, Union City juror, to obtain a "break" for Frank Girardot, recently convicted of arson insurance conspiracy.

'Hymie' Transferred To Cleveland Jail

CLEVELAND, March 1.—(AP.)—"Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, granted a new trial on charges of murdering former Councilman William E. Potter, was brought to the County Jail yesterday by Ohio Penitentiary guards in a speedy trip from Columbus.

Martin will remain here until the Ohio Supreme Court has decided whether it will review the decision last week by the District Court of Appeals, giving him a new trial.

Husband Missing On Pittsburgh Visit

BEAVER, Pa., March 1.—J. Deens Dowdell, Vanport, proprietor of a Beaver Service station, is reported missing. His wife reported to police her husband left home Saturday afternoon to visit his mother in Wilkinsburg. He disappeared after he boarded a train for Pittsburgh.

Mule Deal Dispute Brings $50 Fine For 'Buyer'

For the fraudulent conversion of a $50 mule, George E. Woods, 52, of 3425 Dawson street, was fined $25 by Judge Samuel H. Gardner, in Criminal Court.

Jacob Minsinger, 41 Prospect street, the prosecutor, testified he let Woods take the mule with the understanding he was to pay $50 for it if the mule proved as good as represented. He said Woods kept the animal 53 days. Woods claimed it had cost him $34 to get the mule in shape to work and said he wanted to deduct that from the purchase price. Three days after Wood had been indicted by the grand jury he put the mule back in Minsinger's stable at night.

Chief Clerk Named In Bureau of Fire

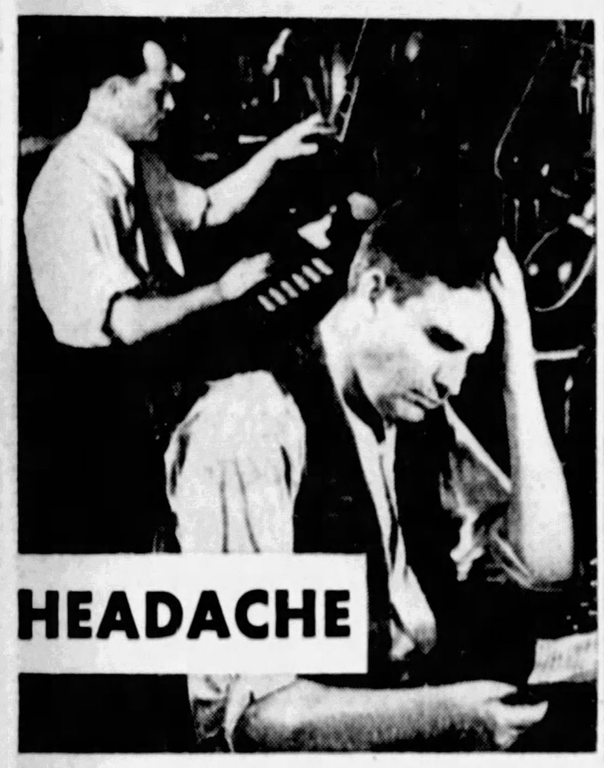
Joseph A. Moore, of 173 Forty-fourth street, Ninth Ward, has been appointed chief clerk in the Bureau of Fire at $225 a month. He fills a vacancy left by the death several months ago of James Holland, of the Fifth Ward.

Moore is a lieutenant of Deputy Fire Chief Lou Conley, Republican chairman of the Ninth Ward, to whom credit for the appointment is given. Moore was an inspector in the county road bureau, but was discharged with a score of others on orders from former County Commissioner Edward V. Babcock after the November election.

2 WOMEN ROB MAN HERE

Hyman Levine, a taxicab driver, of 1803 Center avenue, was robbed of $11 by two "fares" at Ophelia street and Kenneth square early toda. Levine told police the two men hired his cab in the downtown and robbed him when they reached their destination.

A. L. Greenwald, of 1321 Western avenue, reported to North Side police that two Negro women robbed him of $50 and a $100 traveler's check at Reedsdale and Merchant streets, last night.



HEADACHE

Nerves on edge. A head that throbs. You can't stop work, but you can stop the pain—in a hurry. Bayer Aspirin will do it every time. Take two or three tablets, a swallow of water, and you're soon comfortable. There's nothing half-way about the action of genuine aspirin. If the box says Bayer, you will get complete relief.

These tablets should be in every shop, office, and home. Ready to relieve any sudden ache or pain, from a grumbling tooth to lumbago. Don't suffer with that neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, etc; or lose any time because of colds or sore throat. Get some Bayer Aspirin and just follow those proven directions for instant relief.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They cost very little, especially if you buy them by the bottle. Any doctor will tell you they are harmless. They don't hurt the heart. They don't upset the stomach. So take them as often as you have the least need of their quick comfort. Take enough for complete results.

BAYER (BAYER) ASPIRIN

PIMPLES?
LARGE PORES?
BLACKHEADS?

Skin quickly cleared, whitened, refined

...with famous medicated cream

Germ-laden impurities that ordinary creams fail to remove—choke up the pores—irritate and inflame the skin. Finally they erupt in distressing, beauty-killing blemishes.

But there is a way—a delightfully quick and easy way—to end pore poisoning... Noxzema, the famous medicated cream that heals. To 6,000,000 women Noxzema stands for a healthy, flawless complexion. Doctors prescribe it and nurses use it themselves! So soothing, so healing—it works marvelous improvement overnight.

Try it tonight and see! After removing make-up, pat on Noxzema—a little more on the bad spots. Gradually. Stainless. Its soothing medication is quickly absorbed by the suffering pores. In the morning you'll find your skin far clearer, finer, smoother than ever before. Large pores refined. Red, scaly rough spots soft and white. Blemishes soothed and healed. Skin medically pure and clean.

Use Noxzema every night and in the morning as a protective powder base. Keeps out poisonous impurities. This treatment quickly restores the clear, flawless radiance of youth.

Get a jar of Noxzema at any drug or dept. store.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Uncle Bob Reads Comics to Betty

Uncle Bob and Betty read the Sun-Telegraph comics tonight at 6 over WCAE, and when they discourse on "Popeye" and the other funnies the kiddies even demand spinach for dinner!

Madelon again reaches into her magic store of ideas and gives any number of delightful tips during her "Reflections of Madelon's Mirror" from WCAE at 10:30 a. m.

Because of George Seibel's absence from the city, his usual Tuesday evening talk on "Plays and Players" is not on WCAE tonight. The quarter-hour will be occupied by the Mid-week Federation Hymn Sing at 7.

The latest news of world doings is flashed as usual by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Artists at the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air tonight at 11 are Ann Zimet, blues singer, and Sonny Joy, comic songs. Herb McGee is master of ceremonies.

LISTENING IN

With the Radio Editor

George Rector, genial host to fashionable Broadway in pre-prohibition days, speaks from WCAE during the Globe-Trotter period at 6:30 o'clock tonight. The world-famous restaurateur opened a three-day series of lectures in the auditorium of the Joseph Horne Company yesterday. He is in Pittsburgh under auspices of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, for which he is food consultant and director of cuisine. He broadcasts regularly over a nation-wide network, including WCAE, on "Our Daily Food," and as a result, has become an outstanding radio personality with millions of housewives. He will be heard from KDKA tomorrow morning at 8:50.

Mr. Rector

In his Globe-Trotter interview, Mr. Rector is expected to tell many anecdotes of the gastronomical preferences of celebrities whose patronage gave "Rector's" its international reputation. Among the names associated with his Broadway cafe were Enrico Caruso, Sarah Bernhardt, the Vanderbilts, Charles Schwab, "Diamond Jim" Brady, O. Henry, Lillian Russell, George M. Cohan, Eugene Field, Harry K. Thaw, Stanford White and a host of others.

* * *

The international broadcast from Cardiff, Wales, was canceled last night by NBC. The other St. David's Day program from across the ocean, the dinner at the famous Trocadero Restaurant, in London, is scheduled by the Columbia System for WJAS at 4:20 this afternoon.

* * *

Program Pointers

LUPE VELEZ, who joins the Ziegfeld show this week, is coming before the microphone with other "Hot-Cha" stars at 7:45 tonight, if KQV succeeds in doing what it sets out to do in the "Back-stage Interview" program from the Nixon.

Pittsburgh hears Bing Crosby tonight after all. Another last-minute switch brings the crooning troubadour to WJAS at 6:30 in the first of his unsponsored programs, three nights a week.

Mrs. Baldrige

Patti Rude Baldrige, contralto, is heard from KDKA at 8 tonight in the Sacred Song program presented by the quartet of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church.

Charlotte Shallenberger, soprano, and Juda d'Ayne, pianist, have an interesting program of popular music for WCAE listeners at 7:15.

All the thrills of the Tech-West Virginia basketball clash are featured on WWSW at 8:30.

George Gershwin's "Of Thee I Sing" features the inaugural program of "The Voice of a Thousand Shades" on WJAS at 10.

KQV inaugurates a new series of dinner concerts at 6:15, with Charles Jones in a half-hour of organ melodies. WWSW at 7 starts a series of recitals by Fred Lotz, organist at Emory Church.

* * *

Question Box

What is the theme song of Cheerio?—W. A. H., Bellevue.

The opening measures of Rudolf Friml's "Woodland Echoes" usher in the program each morning on WCAE. The composition portrays sunrise in the forest, but canaries are substituted for the forest birds in the studio presentation, instead of the customary flutes.

Fan Fare

BLOSSOM SEELEY and Benny Fields, with Ed Sullivan on WJAS at 8:45, are long-time vaudeville partners. . . . Eleanore Altsman, on KQV tonight, is pondering a Cincinnati commercial offer. . . . Hear Bob Taplinger interview him on WJAS at 5:15 if you want to learn more about Little Jack Little. . . . The Stebbins Boys are moving over to the other NBC network soon. . . . Winchell presents on Thursday Vic Meyers, the maestro who crashed page one campaigning for Mayor of Seattle. . . . Hector Wolfe sings the new Don Bestor-Ann Weir number, "Memories of Yesterday," on KQV tonight. . . . Sophie Tucker, who was to have appeared in the Rudy-less Vallee hour Thursday, has canceled.

ZIEGFELD SCORES :-: New Musical Comedy In Second Week

'Hot-Cha' Continues in Nixon as Merry Tuneful Revel

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Greeted by another large and smartly-attired audience, "Hot-Cha," the latest musical production of the dependable house of Zeigfeld, and one evidently destined to rank with his previous success of exotic atmosphere, "Rio Rita," began its second and final week in the Nixon last night. While the audience, in attendance for the first time, likely would have been unaware had their been any change in the performance from that given so satisfactorily to crowded houses throughout last week, the reviewers present expected to see an altered opening, since it is known that one has been written and rehearsed.

However, that has been postponed, possibly only until tonight, but the great wealth of entertainment in the show as it is could scarcely be bettered by any change of the opening scene which is to be made. It is said, to present a more logical reason for the sudden transference of a large group of artists from a New York cabaret to Mexico City where the most of the action of "Hot-Cha" takes place.

MERRY AND COLORFUL

Like the audiences of last week, that of last night found "Hot-Cha" to be a merry and colorful revel, set in 11 outstanding scenes, ranging from a night club to the outside of an arena where, presumably, bulls are punctured artistically to make a Mexican holiday. Nobody sees anything like that taking place but everybody present sees and hears the bull of common parlance being tossed here and there and mangled with hilarious results by Bert Lahr, who, as "Alky" Schmidt, is a combined hero and clown.

"Alky" gets to Mexico by mistake, by railroad without fare, and by virtue of 10 days in the battle. For of all the cabaret crew selected to be taken to Mexico he is the one a bum comic—who is not wanted. And it is this underdog position, an all-the-world-against-him position that has just the little touch of pathos that makes his delectable buffoonery the height of his comedy. You can associate height with that line of work.

BUDDY IS LIKABLE

Another thing noticeable last night that we possibly overlooked last week is the way Buddy Rogers sings the theme song of "Hot-Cha," a prettily tuned ditty of sentimental character. "You Can Make My Life a Bed of Roses." Buddy's way sort of grows on you and while we liked the song itself a lot a week ago, we did not associate that liking so much to Buddy's performance as we did last night. It is a duet for Buddy and June Knight, and, of course, he is not alone responsible for the pleasure aroused by the song, for Miss Knight is sweet-voiced, capable and pretty.

Again did the dancing of the featured teams, Veloz and Yolanda and the De Marcos, and of the ensemble in one of the most beautifully costumed numbers of the entire piece, make deep impression. The traditional long-fringed shawls and headdress of Latin countries made a most entrancing picture enlivened by youth, beauty, rhythm and music.

All in all, "Hot-Cha" is a tip-top show, as was stated a week ago, but this review is not intended to be a restatement of that fact as much as a stressing of some outstanding features of Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld's latest big, magnificent and varied entertainment.

Will Studios Take Judge's Word That Jetta Isn't Temperamental?

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.

The courts have exonerated Jetta Goudal of being temperamental, but will the studios take a judge's word for it?

This question frankly interests Miss Goudal, who would resume her screen career after four years of idleness. During this time, the exotic actress played but one role, her talkie debut opposite Will Rogers in "Business and Pleasure."

Jetta Goudal

"At any rate I am vindicated," Jetta told me as we sat in her unusual white living room. Emphasizing her point, she leaned forward in the high backed chair and made a forcible gesture with her expressive hands.

The orchid-like beauty of this actress which first created a sensation in "The Bright Shawl," is as compelling as ever. And like all people with a long grievance, she talks volubly and with emotion.

"I knew I was right," she exclaimed, "and I insisted on the case being tried, even though a settlement was offered. If I had lost, I would have been $50,000 poorer. But whatever my faults are, I have never in my life been afraid. I held out and I think the decision in my favor is an important one, not only for me but for my fellow players."

Now that the long litigation is over, Jetta would like to come back. If she doesn't, there's always her interest in the interior-decorating work of her husband, Harold W. Grieve, and, of course, the $90,000. Jetta has banked nearly all of this money. The only extravagance she allowed herself was a diamond bracelet and wristwatch.

HIS ULTIMATUM

If this be an old story, let the blame fall on Stuart Erwin, who told it with great success at a recent party.

Some time ago, a producer wanted an old-time actor to play an Indian chief. The actor asked $300 a week. The producer refused to budge over $150.

Finally the actor said:

"Very well, I'll take it. But by heavens sir, the character will be a half-breed!"

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Alison Skipworth refused to interview the representative of an important wire service on the ground that her salary hadn't started yet at Paramount. Was she kidding or what?... Little Kenyon Sills paid his first visit to a studio yesterday. When they wanted to take a picture of him with Doris Kenyon and with her director, Frank Borzage, the lights frightened him and he cried... Bill Howard is noted for his nervous pacing around a set. Some wag put a pedometer in his pocket yesterday and when quitting time came, it registered 7½ miles. This really happened... A part of the local revue hit, "Lucky Day," is being filmed in the Monogram picture, "County Fair"... Gary Cooper has got as far as London now... Dick Arlen is outraged. The boy who delivers his paper gave him the first news of his next assignment at Paramount... Alan Mowbray, the actor, has written a new play, "In the Spirit," which will be tried out by the Beverly Hills Community Players...

Doris Kenyon

Name Contest Winners Next Monday

The two winners of the review contest, which was sponsored by Warner Brothers Stanley and Warner theaters in February, will be announced from the stage of the Stanley at 9 o'clock next Monday night.

The contest ended at midnight last night and hundreds of amateur reviews were received by Warner Brothers. The three judges are the photoplay editors of the Pittsburgh daily newspapers.

Things I Never Noodle Now

(Give a Look and Have a Learn.)

That in Buenos Aires, when you think that they are hissing you, they are really yelling 'Bis!"—or encore.

That there's a street in New York City without street numbers—or even a door. It is Edgar street.

That you are only 11 months old. (Oh, look it up, then!)

That wrapping up the New York-Azores cable in permalloy tape sped up the signaling from 250 words to 1,900 per minute.

That iron is white. Exposure to air turns it black.

That once a sucker got more than an even break. When platinum was discovered, it was so cheap ingots were made of it, then gilded and peddled as gold bricks to unwary purchasers.

That it was called "The War Between the States" because the Daughters of the Confederacy made Congress change the name.

That "It's Greek to me" originated in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," which I'll wager you knew all along, huh? (Oh, sure!)

That Frederick the Great wanted cleanshaven subjects. They wouldn't do it. So he put a tax on all beards. (Nice guy.)

That New York City used 5,000 carloads of grapes in 1919. Now it uses 30,000 carloads. (For grape juice, I'll bet.)

That the tablet on No. 1 B'way details events connected with that site, but omits the most important. Rob't Fulton died there.

That two important N. Y. State jobs are open to non-citizens.

That alongside the Times Sq. breadline the people who snub the hungry pay a dime to look at the sky through a telescope.

That "trump" is derived from "triumph." (Am I a dope?)

That bootleggers, realizing the day of heavy spending is past for a time, are investing wisely in a new form of B'way store.

That Aimee Semple MacPherson's phonograph records used to be listed under "Religious." Now they're not.

That the windows of a large mail order house in the East are never washed, on orders of the firm's president, who argues that clean windows encouraged the workers to look through them and waste time.

That Teddy Roosevelt was the first President to ride in an auto and the papers were amazed at his courage.

That Lord Byron did not like to see a woman eat, and he always made Lady Byron eat at another table.

That China is known as the Flowery Kingdom. (Yeh, yeh.)

That the reason they say "Before you can say Jack Robinson" is that Jack was known for his short visits.

That the Casino at Monte Carlo is open to everyone except the natives of Monaco, where it is located. (Lucky stiffs.)

That in Sweden they have a Christmas, but no Santa Claus.

That it took 70 years to make the Capitol—and only a few years for some politicians to ruin it.

That you don't know which of your legs is the longest.

That most trained dogs in the movies get a wage of $30 a day—while most "extras" get as high as $7.50. (Extras meaning people.)

That most New York beaches arrest people who play ukuleles while on the beach, which is the sanest law of them all!

And that if you put some camphor on a bit of tin foil and you deposit it in a sink of warm water the child will see a swelegant imitation of an outboard motorboat—going like sixty. (Some fun.)

Shrine Show Is Happy Time

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Syria Mosque last night was the scene of a professional variety show, sponsored by the Shriners, that recalled the hey-day of vaudeville. Two performances, which will be continued nightly all this week, brought out all the stuff that made Mr. Keith famous. The hick comedians, the chatter-patter team, the ballroom dancers, the contortionists and—well, every type of entertainer was there. And the packed hall eked out the applause.

The girl who juggled the glass of water on her forehead, while her body squirmed around like a worm eluding the early bird, didn't spill a drop. That's worth a hand.

The four blue-coated gentlemen, who took Main Street as their inspiration, endeavored to be funnier than Chic Sale, and they deserved a cheer, even though they weren't carpenters!

The chorus, which chorused about in a manner that would surprise Richard Powell, also came in for its share of glory.

Then there were the six Brown Brothers, who know their saxophones so well that they make them talk out loud. And when a music box is turned into a chatterbox, that's something. The boys are—er, clever.

Add to these, and other entertainers, a master of ceremonies who can make old jokes as funny as new ones, then you have a show. And it was a show. Applause of the Shriners and their ladies proved it was a complete evening. But, to be sure that everyone would be satisfied, the committees in charge arranged for dancing after the performances.

Avenue Has Symphony Of Life

By MILDRED FILLMORE

The Germans have a way with them in putting art into their motion picture cameras. A most striking example of this is "Das Lied vom Leben." (The Song of Life), current in the Avenue Cinema.

It is a screen symphony.

A young girl, Erika, haunted by ghosts of decay and old age, which are all about her, flees to the waterfront to commit suicide. But she is stayed by Igor, young like herself. The rhythm of both their hearts beat as one. Life becomes something to be lived.

Much of the story is developed by symbolism, with the sea sweeping the past, present and future together.

Alexis Granowsky, a Russian, working in the German studios, was the director. His is the trick of developing every mood and menace of thought with little dependency on dialogue. In fact, what meager talk there is, isn't essential to understanding the film. In this, music and camera have been united and speak in a universal language.

The film was barred in Germany. But we looked close and saw nothing but beauty.

Academy Has 'Brevities'

Jyes la Rue, dancer; Ann Norton, singer, and Chickie Wells, singer and dancer, have the principal roles in "Broadway Brevities," current burlesque in the Academy. The show has a cast of 18 featured members and a chorus numbering 32. Eddie Kaplan is the featured eccentric comic. Another comedian is Eddie Lloyd. Interspersing two acts with 30 scenes are a number of vaudeville numbers. Miss Dabney and Billy Joy, singers and dancers, and the Pittsburgh Four, a quartet, are prominent.

Make $1 go as far as $3—

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times more powerful than other leading mouth washes. Hence, it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

STOP just a moment. You're losing money unless you understand the difference between Pepsodent and other antiseptics. You see when fighting sore throat colds and Bad Breath (Halitosis), there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and yet kill germs in less than 10 seconds. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptics, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted with water! Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)
The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in Checking Bad Breath (Halitosis) Remember, Pepsodent Antiseptic is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

Pepsodent Antiseptic

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Dancin„ is called the poetry of motion. Poetry, heck! It's work—just plain old hard work, as you'd learn if you watched Mr. Flo Ziegfeld's stepping girls rehearsing some of the intricate movements that are seen in "Hot-Cha," now in its second week in the Nixon. They've been doing it for four weeks—every day, including Sunday—and will be doing it even harder than ever until after the show opens in New York next week, perhaps long after. And the girls aren't the only ones who work hard. Bobby Connolly, who staged the dances in "Hot-Cha," and who is in charge of the education of the pedal digits of Mr. Ziegfeld's glorified girlies, hustles harder than any of them. He has to work out the steps, show the gals how to do them, and tear his hair in the bargain. That is figurative, of course, for Mr. Connolly really is very patient. He doesn't single out a girl and rail at her that she ought to have a ribbon tied around one foot so she could tell which is right and which left. We've watched him at several rehearsals. The soul of patience. He seldom uses sarcasm, and when he does it is extremely mild. F'rinstance:

"Do you understand me, or do you think I'm talking about another show?"

Every movement that is made in unison, every step, every turn, every gesture and posture, is rehearsed separately. Then two of them together, then three, four, five and, finally all of the movements of a complete dance number. Work, work, work. Then, when the audience sees it, it seems so spontaneous, and free of any suggestion of orderly motivation that spectators get that poetry of motion idea. It may be poetry, all right, but it's Bobby Connolly, too.

Barney Barnes Can Now Eat Anything He Chooses

"I got so I couldn't eat anything without having trouble afterwards," says Mr. Barney Barnes, popular oil rig builder, of 221½ West Grand Avenue, Oklahoma City, Okla. "I would have heartburn, and indigestion pains after meals.

"Nothing seemed to help me. I tried everything I could hear of but my indigestion hung on four years.

"Then a friend got me to take some Pape's Diapepsin. I had almost immediate relief with the first two tablets. Now that I have been taking them for some time, I find I can eat meats or most anything and have no trouble. I want to tell others about Diapepsin because it sure helped me."

Thousands like Mr. Barnes are finding quick, certain relief for sour stomach, or acidity, by using Pape's Diapepsin. Chew a tablet and that feeling of weight and discomfort after eating just disappears.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

GRIPPE, FLU, COLDS are expensive!

Avoid risk of self-infection by using KLEENEX disposable TISSUES instead of handkerchiefs

COLDS, grippe, and flu are costly, both in health and money. They are the starting point for a whole list of serious and expensive illnesses. They cause more time lost from business, more absences from office and school, than any other disease.

It is good sense and good business to take every precaution at the first sign of a cold in yourself or your family.

Start using Kleenex at once

Stop using handkerchiefs when the first sniffle starts! Handkerchiefs collect germs—cause constant self-infection.

The only safe handkerchief is one you can use and then destroy at once—Kleenex disposable tissues.

Imagine a soft, gentle, super-absorbent tissue instead of a damp, unsightly handkerchief! Think of the relief—no handkerchief washing to do or to pay for!

Many uses for Kleenex

You'll find many other uses for Kleenex. Use it to wipe razor blades, as bandages for minor wounds, for polishing spectacles.

That big supply of Kleenex that formerly cost 50 cents, is now priced regularly at 35 cents! Buy several boxes of Kleenex at this new low price. Sold at all drug, dry goods or department stores.

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

FEW PROTEST BACK TAX LIST

Of the 22,000 persons whose names appeared on the delinquent tax list published in the Sun-Telegraph last Saturday, less than a dozen registered complaints at the City Treasury, claiming errors, it was said at that office today.

City Treasurer R. W. Thompson's staff regards this as evidence that the 1931 accounts of the taxables have been handled with great care. It was said in a few instances persons owing taxes and paying, declared payments had been made but could not produce receipts.

Controller James P. Kerr and Treasurer Thompson have notified 84 persons granted exonerations during the regime of former Treasurer Schooley that they must pay the delinquent amounts. The "favored" individuals will be given limited time to make restitution, it was declared, after which civil suits will be entered.

Bars Visitors During Illness at Mayview

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Welfare Department, last night announced that until further notice visitors will be barred from the city home at Mayview, where 100 patients and 25 employes are ill from influenza. By this means she hopes to prevent a spread of the disease to the other 4,000 inmates and 400 employes, as well as to the public.

Visitors have been permitted to see friends at the home on Sundays and Thursdays.

NO NEWS FROM BILL! Usually he wrote each week. But two weeks had passed and still no letter.

"Do you think he's all right?" Mrs. Vance asked her husband anxiously. Mr. Vance was confident there was no reason for alarm.

"The college would let us know if anything was wrong," he assured her. "But to make sure . . ." The ringing telephone interrupted.

It was Bill himself, bursting with news. "Just made the track team!" he declared. Then a flood of details—meet schedules, records, training rules—"So you see," he concluded, "I'm too busy to write. Let's keep in touch by telephone. I'll call each week—it doesn't cost much at night!"

Muldowney to Oppose Sullivan

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Petitions to place the name of Councilman M. J. Muldowney on the Republican primary ballot as a candidate for a congressional nomination in the Thirty-second district will be filed in Harrisburg tomorrow.

Mr. Shields

The councilman has been selected by the forces of Senator James J. Coyne to make the fight against Congressman P. J. Sullivan, between whom and Coyne there is a strong political feud.

Some days ago, when the subject of Muldowney as a candidate was raised, one of his closest friends said that before Muldowney became a candidate he would talk with Mayor Kline, who interposed in the last congressional primary on behalf of Sullivan against a Coyne candidate. The intimation was dropped that Muldowney would not be a candidate if such a course met with the active displeasure of the Mayor.

The fact that he has become a candidate cannot be taken as prima facie evidence that the Mayor intends to take a hand in the fight this time on either side. It is more probable that the Mayor, with his trial on his mind and engaging most of his attention, is adopting a hands-off position. That would be velvet to an anti-Sullivan candidate.

How the petitions will be conveyed to Harrisburg has not been disclosed. It may be that they will be taken by Coyne himself, in which event the Senator could ask for some assistance from Gov. Pinchot, whose valiant ally he has been.

In that case Coyne would be in Harrisburg for what may prove an eventful day in state politics.

* * *

Both Parties There With Their Problems

Both Republicans and Democrats will be in the capital to talk over their complicated problems, with political leaders from all sections of the state present. It is a doubtful business forecasting which group will furnish the principal interest.

The Republicans will be meeting in an effort to secure an organization peace pact, a ratification and final sealing of the agreements tentatively reached at Philadelphia on Sunday. In both Philadelphia and Pittsburgh there is optimism over such a probability including in its terms the slating of Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of Pittsburgh, as a candidate for a Republican nomination to the Superior Court.

The Democrats will have as their principal dish the controversy over whether delegates-at-large to the national convention must agree to support the primary preference for presidential aspirants. A wing of the party headed by Warren Van Dyke and Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, former national committeeman, insists that delegates shall be so bound, confident that such a pledge will redound to the benefit of Gov. Roosevelt, of New York.

Another section of the party—that headed by State Chairman John Collins and National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler, and numbering in its following Pittsburghers out of harmony with the county organization — contends that the delegates, whether elected at-large or by districts, should be free to exercise their own judgment.

It is probable the Democrats meeting in Harrisburg—the gathering to be composed preponderantly of Roosevelt men—will decide to put candidates in the field against those men and women already slated who do not agree to abide by the primary preference. Plans to this end already have been laid, and petitions are out for four such opponents, one of them being Guffey.

* * *

Kistler, Niles for Self-determination

So far Kistler and Judge Niles, of York County, slated as delegates-at-large, have insisted on their right to self-determination at Chicago. The position of Collins is beclouded, and at least one other delegate, a woman who has yet made no public declaration, is understood not to have agreed to support the primary choice when filing her petitions.

There is little hope that at tomorrow's meeting in Harrisburg the local Republican representatives, County Chairman William D. Mansfield and Walter A. Bonitz, will be able to pledge any united support to the Republican primary slate, even though it contains the name of Stadtfeld. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern will demand more, and will support any opposition ticket prepared by Gov. Pinchot.

County Commissioner Barr, while pleased with the slating of Stadtfeld, and no friend of Pinchot, probably would also do something for an opposition group. He is reported to be dissatisfied with the slating of Senator Frank Baldwin, of Potter County, as Auditor General, though so far he has made no comment on the tentative agreement reached at Philadelphia.

Organization leaders, however, are disposed to accept the slate, realizing they have little basis on which to make further demands.

Based on political history, there is no reason the Independents should expect anything from the organization, especially Philadelphia and whatever has been or will be secured comes only through fighting.

Mt. Washington Man Saves 2 Sons in Fire

JOSEPH KARCZVICZ, JR., 7 FRANK, 10

VOLPE, 5 PALS FINED $5 EACH

Joseph Volpe, 18, a brother of John Volpe and Councilman James Volpe, of Wilmerding, and five other youths, were fined $5 each and costs by Burgess R. W. Bishop, of Wilmerding, on disorderly conduct charges last night.

They were arrested by borough police early yesterday while riding in a truck with the cut-out open, police said. Those fined with young Volpe were Anthony Bronzo, Bridge street; John DePhillips, Middle street; Joseph Narkus, Patton street; Elmer Younghouse, State street, and Michael Masters, Bridge street.

'Sheik' Robbers Take Suits, Razors, Combs

Police are seeking sheik robbers who stole several suits of clothing from the Junction Cleaning and Tailoring Company, 7610 Forbes street, and hair clippers, razors and combs from the barber shop of Edward Dwyer, in the rear of the cleaning establishment last night.

Candy, cigarets, cigars and $9 cash was stolen from the retail store of the Seven Baker Brothers, Woodville avenue, last night.

Logue Renamed By 14th Infantry

Harry A. Logue was re-elected president at the thirty-third annual reunion of surviving members of Company E, 14th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry last night in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. Dr. Louis Joffe, a native of Russia, spoke on "America From the Viewpoint of a Naturalized Citizen."

Penn Ave. Parents, 4 Girls Routed By Flames

Joseph Karczvicz, 35, was burned on the face and hair, and he cut a hand while saving the sons, Joseph, Jr., 7, and Frank, 10.

The father wakened early to find the house filled with smoke. He staggered to the son's bedroom, led the boys to another room, formed a rope from the bedsheets and smashed a window with his fist to make an exit.

The boys then slid down the rope attached to the second floor roof. The father jumped from the roof to safety.

Mrs. Karczvicz was absent from home.

Firemen estimated the damage at $2,000.

Attilo Bassanelli, his wife and four daughters, ranging in age from 8 months to 19 years, were forced from their home, 1337 Penn avenue, early today by fire.

The children, Rose, 19; Jennie, 5; Diana, 8, and Gloria, 5 months, were taken from the smoke-filled second floor. The flames were confined to the cellar.

The first floor houses Bassanelli's butcher shop. Firemen took three cats and a crate of chickens from the basement. Loss was estimated at $500.

Clairton Paint Shop Destroyed by Fire

Fire destroyed a small frame paint shop at the by-products plant of the Carnegie Steel Company in Clairton early today. Firemen said the shop was isolated and the blaze did not threaten other company buildings.

5 WIN IN FIRST 'SWEET VOICE' AUDITIONS

South Side Girls Compete, Stars of WCAE Perform; East End Group Tonight

Winners in the first auditions to find Pittsburgh's "girl with the sweetest voice," sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and WCAE, and held in the Alvin Theater last night, are Emma K. Butt, of 34 McCully street, Mt. Lebanon; Barbara Fetterman, of Walnut and Shady avenues, Castle Shannon; Estelle M. Gaffney, of 1131 McNeilly avenue, Dormont; Marie G. Mullhallan, of 2705 Broadway, Dormont, and Ruth M. Wiltshire, of 22 Nobles Lane, Carrick. Nearly 200 contestants participated.

Judges at last night's auditions, held for the entrants of the South Hills district, were James G. Fulton, coach for Harvard's debating team in 1927; Mrs. Byron King, Jr., of the Byron W. King School of Oratory, and King Morris, district traffic superintendent, Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. Different judges have been chosen for each audition. J. L. Kaufman, manager of WCAE, is in charge of the auditions.

RADIO STARS PERFORM

A gala show, presented by artists of WCAE, seen for the first time by a capacity audience which previously knew them only through the microphone, opened the auditions.

SPEAK FROM BOOTH

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Every time Congress starts to tax some particular industry, it rushes down with its main men and they scare 'em out of it. About the only way I see for 'em to do, so it would be fair to everybody, would be for Congress to go into secret session. Allow no telephones, no telegrams, no visitors, so no outside lobbyists can get at 'em, then tax everything they want to, and should tax, then announce: "Boys, it's all over, there is no use shooting at us now." As it is now, we are taxing everybody without a lobby.

LOUIS PARME MISS THELMA COUNTRYMAN MISS GRACE MOWRY

COIFFURES FOR THE SEASON; TWO GIRLS SHOWING TWO VIEWS OF MR. PARME'S DRESSING

Platinum Blonde Fad Held Peril Of Baldness

Brunettes at last will have their season. The popular girl of 1932 will have raven hair and eyebrows. That is the message Louis Parme, famous New York hairdresser, brought to the local hairdressers' style show.

In fact, Mr. Parme pointed out, if the platinum blonde vogue had existed another year, Miss 1933 would have been bald. As to proper hairdress for the year, the natural length cut will be the vogue. The hair is to be trimmed to the natural line or nape of the neck. A little more length to permit for one roll in the back will be permissible. Two large, loose finger waves will be the dress on the opposite side from the part, while one wave will be used on the other side.

Transformations of human hair will be in vogue to permit the blonde or auburn to step out in fashion with her brunette sister, Parme said. He said this idea is practical because it permits milady to change her type without injuring the hair. Wigs made of feathers will be a note for evening wear. These can match, or contrast with, the gowns. One of the popular creations is called the "Piquante," made with wind-blown effect of pearl swan.

Hairdressers from Western Pennsylvania will be attending the second day's session of the style show being held in the Edlis Barber and Beauty Supply Building. Parme announced at the trade showing that an innovation in permanent waving will be demonstrated today in New York City. The process would eliminate the use of electricity and the heat would be generated through chemically treated pads, he said. Parme is the hairdresser for many stage and screen stars, including Beatrice Lillie, Greta Garbo and Hope Williams.

Dr. Wiant Placed In Race by Patients

Dr. Meade Wiant, of 6728 McPherson boulevard, may be a candidate for the Legislature from the Fifth District.

The incumbent is Max Spann. Dr. Wiant's patients, who hail him as an independent, have begun circulation of a petition, despite his refusal to discuss their action.

OFFER 5c FARE IN MT. LEBANON

School children and adults will be transported within the limits of Mt. Lebanon Township for a 5-cent fare, William Supan, president of the Oriole Motor Coach Company, testified before the Public Service Commission today at the hearing on the application for permission to extend its service.

The rate between Pittsburgh and Mt. Lebanon is 20 cents, Supan explained.

The proposed extension is from Atlanta drive to Miami avenue, Mt. Lebanon, to accommodate school children because of the recent completion of the Mt. Lebanon Township Junior High School. Other extensions in Crafton, Greentree and Baldwin Township are sought.

Opposing the application, among others, are the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, and in certain instances the Penn Bus Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad.

CUPID IN SLUMP LEAP YEAR DAY

Either Pittsburgh girls are bashful, or Pittsburgh men know how to say "no." Only 13 couples applied for Leap Year Day marriage licenses, making the total for 1932 only 877, as compared to the 1,048 applications during the corresponding period in 1931. Although Leap Year will continue for 10 more months, February 29 will not occur on the calendar for another four years. Prospective bridegrooms evidently overlooked the opportunity of having a wedding anniversary only once in four years.

The thirteenth couple answered the clerk's questions blithely unaware of their number on the day's record. They were Rose Guardalaben, 22, of 5910 Bryant street, and Angelo Indovina, 27, of 5441 Walnut street.

One 63-year-old couple applied for a license early in the day, and two other couples, in their fifties, were granted licenses. They were Frank Doerr, 63, of 1343 Davis avenue, and Blanche A. Brand, 63; William Ackerman, 56, of Cleveland, and Elizabeth Graham, 52, of Brownsville, Pa., and Max Lebovitz, 58, of 1003 Leitz street, and Rose Friedman, 59, of 916 Vickroy street, Pittsburgh.

COMMISSIONER BACKING MORE CANDIDATES

Actions Support Reports of Governor's Plan to Gain State Committee Control

Reports that Gov. Pinchot would try to control the next state committee seem justified by the action of his local field marshal, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who yesterday continued setting up candidates.

McGovern also approved the circulating of petitions for two more candidates for delegate to the Republican national convention where Pinchot, evidently, expects to be a factor.

The setting up of McGovern followers apparently is being done regardless of the attitude of County Commissioner C. C. Barr, who was McGovern's running mate but who is a political enemy of Pinchot.

Meantime, the regular Republican group, headed by County Chairman W. D. Mansfield, the third County Commissioner, is marking time and quietly grooming candidates for delegate and committee places.

MAGEE, WELLER IN RACE

A short time ago McGovern authorized the candidacies of two convention delegates, Mary Flinn Lawrence and Joseph C. Trees, from the Thirtieth Congressional District. Yesterday, at McGovern's direction, petitions were put in circulation for Attorney John S. Weller, from the Thirty-second District, and former Congressman James M. Magee, from the Thirty-third District. Weller is a former State Senator and lieutenant of the late Senator William Flinn, political mentor of McGovern.

Petitions to place Councilman P. J. McArdle on the ballot as a candidate for delegate to the Republican national convention from the Thirty-third District were taken out yesterday at the County Election Bureau. He was elected on McGovern's "independent" ticket and will divide the "independent" vote that Magee would attract.

McGovern's candidates for state committee members, for whom petitions were put in circulation yesterday are Mrs. Frank J. Boyle of the Seventh Ward, for the Forty-third Senatorial District; Charles Pearson, of Dormont, for the Forty-fifth District; Miss Lucy Bennett, of Sturgeon, for the Forty-fifth District; Mrs. Elizabeth R. Zachar, of the Twenty-seventh Ward, for the Forty-second District, and William P. Golaher, of the Nineteenth Ward, for the Thirty-eighth District.

"REGULARS" BACK MURRER

In the "regular" organization camp nominating petitions were taken out yesterday for George W. Murren, chief of county detectives, for delegate to the national convention from the Thirtieth Congressional District and Assistant District Attorney Roy C. Clunk, for member of the state committee from the Forty-fourth Senatorial District.

Petitions were taken out yesterday also for former Assemblymen Albert C. Krugh and John B. Yellig, of the Sixteenth Ward, as members of the Legislature from the Sixth District; P. J. O'Toole, of the First Ward, as Congressman from the Thirty-second District, and Sidney R. Ray, Negro leader of the Fifth Ward, as member of the Legislature from the First District. Ray is opposing Walter E. Tucker, Negro incumbent.

dition to being a microphone artist, proved him or herself the possessor of a pleasing stage presence.

The audition entrants, while speaking, were not in view of the audience. Each candidate as her turn for test came stepped into a booth and spoke into a radio amplifier. A large rectangular-shaped device threw the voices into the auditorium. The girls read from printed sheets.

EAST END TONIGHT

The auditions are held every night this week except Sunday, with a matinee Saturday. Tonight is reserved for entrants of the East End district. Girls of the Monongahela Valley will be heard tomorrow night.

In the latter group will be included contestants from Hazelwood, Homestead, Whitaker, Munhall, Duquesne, Clairton, East McKeesport, McKeesport, Hays, Elizabeth, Glassport, Monongahela, Finleyville, Dravosburg, Boston, Large, West Elizabeth, West Newton, Homewood, Lincoln Place, Belle Vernon, Squirrel Hill and North Homestead.

Girls are urged particularly not to be nervous, but when speaking into the microphone to talk as they would talk with their mothers or sisters or friends. The voice pronounced the "sweetest in Pittsburgh" must be, above all, friendly and natural.

Members of last night's audience now have an opportunity to see how their choice of winners compared with that of the judges. Those who recorded the numbers of their favorites can check them with the numbers of the winners —21, 153, 49, 169 and 73.

PROGRAM IN SECTIONS

The auditions and stage presentations alternate and are given in two sections. Although the show closed in time to permit the artists to return to the studio for the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club program at 11, auditions continued until nearly midnight. They opened at 7:30 p. m.

Riggs and Moke, the crazy pair, brought down the house with their comments and comebacks last night. The well-known Betty, who reads the Sun-Telegraph comics with Uncle Bob, made her stage debut with the pair. Riggs spoke for Betty.

RKO STAR APPEARS

Helene Ward, a newcomer to WCAE who has had plenty of experience on radio and the stage, having been with RKO for four years, sang and danced to "Who's Your Little Whoosis," and presented "On Saturday Morning," a circus song written especially for her.

Charlotte Shallenberger, a former winner in the Atwater Kent auditions for the Pittsburgh district, sang the "Indian Love Call," and Dave Levin, WCAE maestro, gave a beautiful interpretation of the "Song of India" as a violin solo. Another splendid performance was that of Virginia Harmon, soprano, singing "Only a Rose," from "The Vagabond King."

The finale depicted a night club scene with the entire cast, including a chorus of dancers, participating.

If the first whimpering protests of a baby girl born to Mrs. Margaret Yahner, 37, of McKees Rocks, R. D., in the Ohio Valley Hospital shortly before last midnight had sounded 20 minutes later the youngster's outlook for birthday parties would have been considerably brighter.

As matters stand, the young lady made her debut into the world barely in time to be classed among the "Leap Year Babies," and will be entitled to birthday cake and candles only once every four years.

CHIEF TRIED IN DUQUESNE VOTE CASE

Court Told Blackjacks, Thugs Used to Intimidate; Seven Others Face Jury

Police Chief Thomas J. Flynn, of Duquesne, with six of his officers and a civilian, were placed on tria lin Criminal Court today on charges of intimidating voters at the September primary elections.

Besides Flynn, the other defendants are Patrolmen Timothy Long, Henry Jones, William Malloy, William Soltis, George Wallington and Murtiford Shaughnessy. The civilian is Nick Spanovich.

James Griggs, Negro, an Independent watcher at the polls, testified Chaughnessy "framed" him by placing a blackjack in his pocket and then arresting him. Griggs was corroborated by Joseph Nichols.

Malloy and Long were accused by Nick Dubiac, another Independent watcher, who testified, with arresting him after two thugs had beaten him up. Chief Flynn took him to the Rankin jail while the thugs fled, he told the court. Both Dubiac and Griggs said they were held for more than 24 hours.

Boys Vote Case Trial Postponed

The trial of eight Brookline and Hill district youths charged with repeating at the polls of the Third and Ninth precincts of Dormont at the September primaries, was postponed in Criminal Court today by Judge Elder W. Marshall at the request of Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, for the defense. He said he was too be busy in another county.

3 MORE HELD IN RABBIT FRAUD

False Pretense Charged To Salesmen in Disposing Of Selling Territory

The Better Business Bureau's campaign against salesmen selling breeding rabbits to Pittsburghers with guarantees of profits landed three more men in Central Police Court today, charged with false pretense.

Bureau representatives testified the men sold not only the rabbits but also fraudulently sold sales territory. The prisoners were turned over to Alderman John A. Joyce, before whom charges had been filed. They are H. E. McCoy, 52, of 5900 Beacon street; H. A. McMcCoy, 38, of 447 Kearcher street, and W. C. Ward, 29, of 129 Sampson avenue, Ingram.

Being held on similar charges are two others, L. D. Mehaffey, 1501 Investment Building, and J. C. Steinman, of Sheraden.

Allied Boards Will Hold Open Forum

YOUNG SKATERS IMPERILED BY 'GARDEN' FIRE

Society Children Calm Frantic Mothers as Smoke Fills East End Ice Rink

Work was to get under way today on repairing the damage to Duquesne Garden caused by fire and heavy clouds of smoke that imperiled 125 school children attending a skating class at the arena late yesterday. The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, hockey team, will keep their regular schedule, playing Buffalo here Thursday night, according to Manager Charles Reed.

Battalion Chief William Davis estimated the damage at $3,000, all of which was confined to the roof of the building.

Although the children made an orderly exit from the building when the fire was first discovered about the balcony and ceiling, many of their mothers, who were waiting for them outside, became frantic.

The fire started from an overheated rubbish burner on the wall of the building and spread rapidly to the ceiling and roof, according to Capt. Lawrence Dorgan. Smoke immediately enveloped the building, pouring from every window and door.

The children ranging in age from 6 to 12, were attending the Monday Afternoon Skating Club sponsored by Mrs. Herbert A. May and a committee of society women. They were from the Shady Side Academy, and Miss Ellis and Miss Simonton's schools.

Jack Wahlgren, 10, of 5425 Albemarle street, was one of the first to see the smoke and shouted to an instructor, Fritz Campbell. A still alarm was turned in, followed a few minutes later by a box alarm rung by Capt. Dorgan, of No. 14 Engine Company, next door to the arena.

Other sponsors of the skating class include Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, Mrs. Frederick G. Blackburn, Mrs. John F. Walton, Mrs. Lawrence Murray, Mrs. Thomas J. Hilliard and Mrs. Mathew Taylor.

Wabash Tube-Span Deal to Be Urged

Downtown business interests and residents of the southwestern section of the county will meet with the County Commissioners at noon tomorrow to urge the purchase of the Wabash tunnel and bridge for a new traffic artery out of the downtown section.

LIBERTY PARTY WILL SUPPORT JOBLESS

State Leader Gives Pledge Of Help to Father Cox; First Candidate Files

The Liberty Party of America, of which Col. W. H. Harvey is the head, undoubtedly will throw its support to whatever candidates the Jobless party will select to run in the presidential election, the Rev. James R. Cox, Jobless leader, said today.

John Ryan, of Cresson, state committeeman of the Liberty party, pledged his support to the Jobless party at a conference here with Father Cox.

Efforts to unite the forces of the Jobless and Liberty parties began several weeks ago when H. A. Entrekin, of Birmingham, Ala., visited Father Cox as a representative of Col. Harvey, one time associate of William Jennings Bryan. Col. Harvey is now living in the Ozark Mountains, spending his time writing books on the financial condition of the country and on the ambitions of his party.

Attorney Joseph E. Kintner, of Ebensburg, is the first candidate to file for office under the banner of the Jobless Party. He hopes to succeed Congressman J. Russell Leech, of Cambria County, who was appointed a member of the Board of Tax Appeals.

Attorney Austin L. Staley, who filed the papers pre-empting the Jobless Party name in Pennsylvania, today said he had until September to pre-empt the party here. The reason for the early filing of the petition was to permit Attorney Kintner, of Ebensburg, to run for the office of Congressman.

UTILITIES CUT IN WILKINSBURG

Public utility appropriations were slashed heavily by Wilkinsburg councilmen last night to meet a 2½-mill tax reduction demanded by organized taxpayers on threat of putting the borough into bankruptcy. Council reduced the millage from 12½ to 10½ mills, ½ mill less than the demand.

Declaring the reduced appropriations included all the money available for light and water in the borough during 1932, Council instructed Borough Clerk John Miles to notify the Duquesne Light Company and the water company of the reductions.

Borough Solicitor J. Clark Stewart's contention that the action was not legal was ignored and Council voted 5 to 3 in favor of the reduction.

The new budget was set at $426,926.83 against that of $495,068.00 for 1931. Representatives of the Taxpayers' Association, which is also demanding a 3-mill reduction in school taxes were present at the meeting.

'Ve Harm People by Helping Them Shirk Duties

How loyal should we be to our friends, when they won't be loyal to themselves?

Buddy's wondering. It's all about the other girl in the office, who is "Oh, So Beautiful!" but has an unfortunate habit of arriving in the morning all likkered up from last night's celebration.

Good little Buddy has been doing the other girl's work. Likewise her own. As a consequence, she has been making a mess of them both and unless she ups and tells on Cocktail Carrie, Buddy is apt to put herself on the spot.

Should she? Shouldn't she? What's your tip?

SHIELDS OTHER GIRL

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I am going to ask your advice, because I don't know what on earth to do about the situation I find myself in. And I hope you won't turn me down.

"I work in an office as a telephone operator, and I am a sort of assistant to another girl. I am her assistant because she has always been unusually good at operating, and has won herself quite a name at it. She's supposed to be expert and swift, and she gets almost twice the salary that I get.

"Here is where the trouble is. For the last six months she has been staying out till all hours of the night, and drinking. Sometimes she calls me at my house about seven in the morning, and askes me to bring one of my dresses to the office, so she can change from her evening clothes and go right to work.

"Now I take a drink myself now and then, and sometimes stay out late, too, but I don't come to the office groggy and make someone else shield me.

"I have to shield her and do her work for her. If I don't the boss will find her out and fire her. As a result, I'm working twice as hard, and so I make mistakes, and there are a lot of complaints about me.

DOESN'T WANT TO TELL

"It wasn't so bad until about two weeks ago, when this girl started to drink absinthe. I don't know whether you know what that stuff does to folks or not, but I can tell you it makes her positively disgusting. I really can't stand it any more. But I must keep my job, and I may lose it if I have to do her work and mine too.

"What shall I do? I can't tell the boss without being a sort of double-crosser, can I? I can't do a thing with her. She has no folks and lives in a hotel. I tried having her live with me once, but I couldn't stand it.

"Still, she is so beautiful and so helpless. I am not writing this to do her harm or have her fired. I just want to know what is right—whether I should continue to shield her as I have been doing, at the risk of my own job—or what." Please help me.

"BUDDY."

Should you keep on shielding her? No, ma'am. You shouldn't. Why should you risk getting turned out to starve in a breadline, just to keep some nit-wit, who won't help herself, from getting what's coming to her?

Does that sound hard-boiled and heartless? Well, it's not. The actual truth is that you have been harming this girl, not helping her, when you've helped her to shirk and two-time the boss.

MAKING HER WORSE

You've been making her worse than she was to begin with, for the chances are that if she had known from the first that she had to toe the mark or get swatted, she'd have watched her step.

And if she didn't, it isn't your funeral. You can't live another person's life for her, and you have no right to try. You can't make a decent, sensible citizen out of her if she doesn't want to be one. What she makes of her life is up to her and no one else.

As for her being "beautiful and helpless," it has been a fine graft for her to keep you thinking that — and doing all her work while she loafed. "Helplessness," for dames like that, becomes a regular racket.

Does that mean that you should go to the boss and give her away? No. But it does mean that you should stop being her pack mule. Do your own chores, honey, and leave hers up to her, and the chances are that she'll get next to herself. If she doesn't it isn't up to you. But it is up to you to look out for yourself.

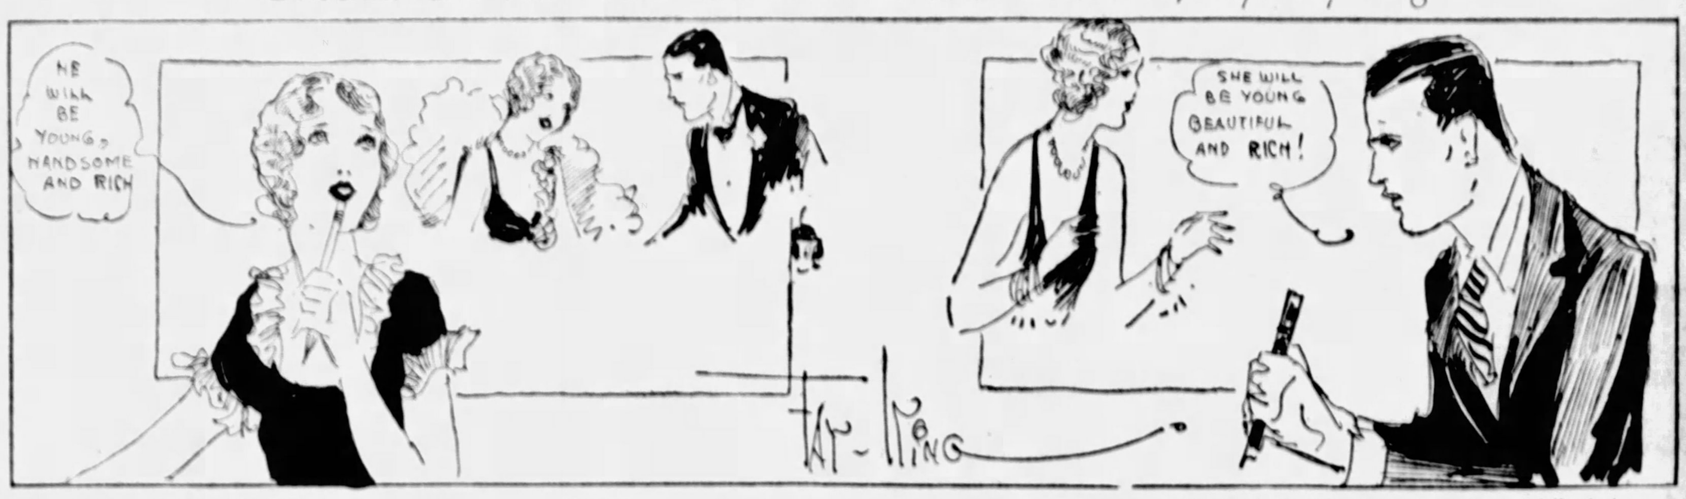
Cinderella and Plain Youth Often Realize Ideal of Dreams, Says Fay King



By FAY KING

It is not only the demure little Cinderellas who sit at their typing desks in stuffy offices who dream of romance with riches.

Young men in minor positions in dull offices also have their flights of romantic thoughts which concern fair ladies and large fortunes.

And one has only to refer to facts which prove that many Cinderellas have had their romantic dreams come true. And so have many poor young men married young ladies of wealth.

But not all of them!

Yet those who did not have never regretted the fact.

For it more frequently happens that a Cinderella and the plain young man meet. They recognize in each other the ideal of their dreams (all except the wealth), which they instantly forget all about!

Lillian Consents to Help Madge and Dicky

Dicky responded so promptly to the involuntary glance I had sent him that I knew the same thought concerning Lillian had been in his mind as in mine.

"Why don't you sit in with us after you have your dinner?" he asked, and I was jubilant. It was exactly what I wished to say to Lillian.

"Oh, do, Lil," I pleaded. "You know Philip Veritzen's moods and tenses better than we do, and there may be something you can suggest."

"You are sure you want me," she said, and the hesitant way she spoke was so unlike her that I knew the sense of being set aside had gone deep with her.

Dicky and I reached her at the same moment and Dicky clapped her on the shoulder as I put my arm around her.

"Won't you," I exclaimed, and Dicky echoed the words.

"Was there ever a time in all our lives that we did not want you—and need you?" I went on warmly and sincerely.

"Thank you, my children, also bless you." Lillian said, and there was something behind the lightness of her tone and words which told me that our invitation had healed whatever hurt we inadvertently had given her. "I'll be up as soon as I have done my duty as social shock absorber at the dinner table, and gotten mother settled for a game of cribbage. Harry will take her tonight if the Chief isn't up to it."

"Your father is awfully decent about playing cribbage with mother so much," Dicky said gratefully.

"I think he likes it," I said.

"Don't waste any sympathy on the Chief," Lillian interposed. "He'd rather play cribbage than eat any day. If your mother didn't give him the best game of anybody in the household you might ascribe his playing with her to chivalrous courtesy. Of course, he would sit in for an occasional game with her if she did not play well, but this every evening game you can wager your last dollar, is because he enjoys the thrill of a close contest which only your mother-in-law, of all the family, can give him. So I repeat, don't waste your sympathy and gratitude on him. Save it up for me when I get through dealing with Katie. Sure you haven't any extra dishes you want me to order?"

"Not I," Dicky said, "how about you, Madge?"

"The dinner 'as is' for me," I said.

"All right!" Lillian went out of the door and Dicky picked me up bodily and put me down upon the couch.

"Stretch out there now and make your mind a vacuum," he commanded. "I'll admit," he grinned at me slightly, "that probably is a job of the century, but have a try at it anyway."

"If I never had any harder task than that set for me," I wrinkled my nose at him, "I never shall be overworked."

"Have it your own way, but shut up now and rest. If you go to sleep, I'll waken you when Katie trots in with the feed bag."

He sat down in an easy chair near me, pulled the reading lamp over and settled himself apparently for a bit of reading, but I had the feeling he was keeping a watchful and wary eye upon me.

I did not go to sleep, but I rested wonderfully, with nerves lulled by the quiet room in which the only movement was the swaying of the curtains in the summer night breeze, by the knowledge of Dicky's presence near me, and by the blessed relief of knowing that the Vickers incident had been completed without wounding either Dicky or Lillian.

Katie's voice outside the door put a period to my reverie.

"Pfees, somebody open door," she vociferated. "I got so many things in mine hands I can't knock, und eef I kick, I spoil paint on woodwork."

Dicky sprang to the door, threw it open.

"Give me some of the things, Katie," he said, holding out his hands, but Katie shrieked a voluble protest.

"Please don't touch nodines," she implored. "I got all balanced shoost right und eef you try help me, everyting smash. I tell you vot you do, Meester Graham, you take tings off dot table, shoost as qveek as you kin make your hands move. Den you take dis loonch cloth off mine arm unt set eet on table."

Dicky had cleared my reading table while she was talking and then, gingerly, he had rescued the embroidered lunch cloth spread over Katie's arm from the menacing tri-load of dishes, and spread it over the table, with the deftness acquired in playing host at many studio parties.

Katie looked at the table approvingly. "You efer loose your job, Meester Graham," she said, "I get you vun waiting on table."

"I'll probably hold you to that, Katie, some time," Dicky said. "The illustrating game isn't what it used to be."

Household Hints

Always rinse out milk glasses or bottles in cold water and wash in hot soapsuds.

In storing away old scraps of material place them in a bag made of an old net curtain, then the desired pieces will be easy seen when wanted.

A sewing kit should be fitted out for each girl in the family as soon as she is old enough to sew. Darning and plain mending could then be taken over by the young lady and save busy mother a little time and work, as well as result in good training while young.

Salt Containers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I notice in your column today that you say that open salt cellars are now more popular than salt shakers. I would like to know how to use these properly, especially when eating celery.

A. G. S.

When we place the open salt containers (many of these, of course, are copies of the old salt containers and some are newly designed) we should always place in them the small salt spoon. This may be of silver, or of glass. When we wish some salt, we use the tiny salt spoon to take some of the salt to either our dinner plate, on the side, or on the side of the bread and butter plate. For celery, we would place the salt on the side of the bread and butter plate, and dip the piece of celery into it there. If the salt is for a food item served in the roast course, we would put the salt on the side of the dinner plate. Then, if, for instance, we wish the salt with our meat, we cut off a mouthful of meat, dip it lightly in the salt on the side of the plate, and eat the meat.

Birthday Present

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it well to tell your boy friend what you want for your birthday? He has asked me many times. F.

It would be better for you to have him use his imagination about this gift. Most of us, remember, are cowards about choosing gifts, and naturally we would rather ask the person to whom we are giving the gift. But this asking, and this telling, takes from the gift something of the glamour that it should have.

Ruining Good Habits

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

In all of Sonny's six months on this earth there had been no trouble with his feedings. Possessing a business-like mother, when it was time to eat, he had learned to EAT.

Now his mother wonders why he has decided that feeding times are playtimes, long-drawn out affairs when he flirts with her outrageously, showing his four new teeth, laughing, biting the bottle-nipple and making the period last as long as possible. No, mother can't understand what's gotten into him.

But if Sonny could talk he could tell her that it had all started the day the old friend came to stay for the day and insisted upon helping mother, insisted that she could give Sonny his bottle quite as well as mother.

Once during the feeding he had stopped for a delightful chew on the nipple and the lady had laughed and taken away the bottle, poked him gently for which attention he had beamed at her, chuckled and repeated the process. The lady had nothing else to do so they had a glorious time with the milk bottle, taking twice as long as usual for the meal. When mother fed the fellow, he either ate or the bottle went away until the next feeding period. But no, the lady would give it back to a chap if he gurgled loud enough; the lady would laugh all over herself when a fellow chewed hard and pushed the bottle out of his mouth with his pink tongue.

It surely was a shame mother didn't know that delightful game the lady had taught him. But he'd teach it to mother. He tried. But mother didn't laugh. Mother had many other things to do. Sonny smiled his sweetest, tried to talk like big folks, socked his white teeth down with determination on the rubber, but still mother couldn't learn the nice game. The bottle went away, and didn't come back for a long while, not until a fellow had had a nap and his bath.

The lady had meant to be kind, but kindness must be tempered with thoughtfulness and intelligence before it can truly be kindness. And the friend who had wrecked a good feeding habit probably has no idea of how many days or perhaps weeks it is going to take before Sonny relinquishes the idea that feeding time is playtime.

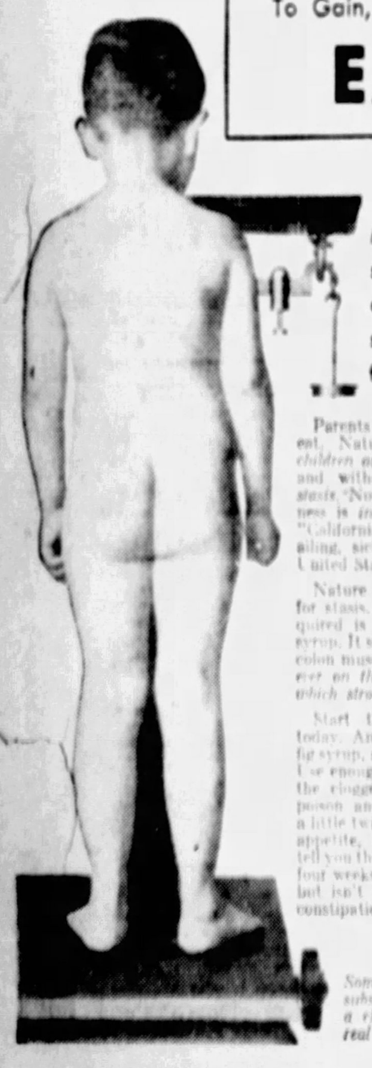
To Gain, a Child must

EAT



Mothers, it is not the stomach, but a bowel condition that keeps so many children from eating.

Parents shouldn't coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Healthy children are hungry. If pale, listless, and without appetite, they have stasis. Not to correct this sluggishness is inexcusable. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for ailing, sickly children all over the United States!

Nature provides a simple remedy for stasis. The only "medicine" required is some pure California fig syrup. It stimulates a sluggish child's colon muscles and has no effect whatever on the twenty feet of intestines which strong purgatives paralyze.

Start this wonderful treatment today. Any druggist has California fig syrup, all bottled, with directions. Use enough the first time to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. It may take four weeks if a child is all run down, but isn't it well worth it, to have constipation conquered?

CAUTION

Some stores will try to sell a substitute, even when it is for a child! Be sure you get the real California fig syrup.

By Julia Foster ★

The first glimpse of her, a vision of loveliness, of perfect youthful grace. Only, her complexion ruined the illusion of youth. I tell you, it was ages older than the girl herself! Had she never troubled to consult anyone for this simplest of all beauty advice?

* * *

Why should any woman have a "tragic" complexion? You, for example. You can always keep your skin clear, supple, youthful. How? Beauty experts for years have told women to use this complexion care.

Morning and evening, apply to face and throat a generous lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work well into the pores with your hands. Then rinse thoroughly with warm water, and finish with a cold rinse. Hot water should never touch your face. After this, in the morning, your make-up. At night, if your skin is dry, follow with oil or tissue cream.

Easy enough, isn't it? And there's no secret why Palmolive is recommended. For years, more than 20,000 of the world's leading beauty specialists have advised it above all other soaps for this foundation cleansing. The reason is told in full in the panel at the right, under the heading, "Beauty In a Test Tube." Please read it!

Bathe, relax, beautify!

Some day, soon, when you're so tired you feel like cancelling an engagement, try this instead! I learned it from a beauty specialist. It's a beauty treatment, as well as a perfect way to relax.

Shave up a whole cake of Palmolive—it's very inexpensive, you know—melt it by boiling in 4 cups of water and pour the solution into your tub. Step in, and for a minute or so, simply relax. Then massage every inch of your body, every pore, with rich lather from another cake of Palmolive. The olive and palm oils will benefit your skin. When you get out, you'll find fatigue, nervousness, gone! You won't want to cancel anything!

Tonight—try this restful beauty bath. And be sure twice a day to use the Palmolive facial treatment. You'll agree no other beauty treatment has ever given your skin such youthful softness.

BEAUTY IN A TEST TUBE

But can you get enough olive oil in soap? How much, actually, goes into Palmolive? Here is the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every ten-cent cake of Palmolive—in this test tube at the right. To this generous olive oil content can be directly traced Palmolive's great complexion benefits. It is the only large-selling soap made of vegetable oils exclusively. The only one using olive oil as a base. Other ingredients are simply oils from palm trees necessary to produce a richer, creamier, more workable lather. The color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—no artificial coloring.

More than 20,000 of the world's beauty experts have for years urged Palmolive Soap in preference to all others. Heed their advice!

PALMOLIVE

Keep that Schoolgirl Complexion

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Does Your Child Grade Up to One Hundred Per Cent?

Dr. Copeland

In fixing standards of perfection in children we find three elements, physical, mental and emotional. The hundred per cent child must have a proper development in each of these fields. Every age has its rules, while all ages must conform to certain general requirements.

These are the physical requisites: The height and weight must conform to the regulation scale for those of a given age, the muscular development must be normal, the skin of good color and free from eruptions, and there must be no deformities which often follow rickets in babyhood. The posture must be good, the chest well developed and breathing full and free. The nose and throat must be healthy, without adenoids, diseased tonsils or catarrhal troubles which interfere with normal breathing. The teeth must be in perfect repair and the gums healthy. Hearing, eyesight and speech must be normal.

I wish to speak of the emotional development. I do this because, even should the test of physical development be successfully passed, if there is lack of health in the emotional field the child is by no means a hundred per cent normal.

Lack of self-control, as well as what we call "negativism," also tantrums and other manifestations of an unstable nervous system, are defects of the utmost gravity. Many a case of failure to make good in later life can be traced to lack of discipline in childhood. Disputes between the parents and constant nagging of the children discourage the normal ambitions of the little ones. They often result in the development of inferiority and other complexes. Parents cannot be urged too strongly to use tact and patience in dealing with their children.

Here is a brief resume of what the average perfect child should be at 8 years of age. Boys should be 48 inches in height and weigh about 54½ pounds. Girls should be 48 inches in height and weigh 53 pounds. The requirements of freedom from defects that I have already mentioned should be passed successfully.

1. Compare two known objects, for instance, a fly and a butterfly, and tell how they are unlike.

2. Count backward from 20 to zero. Of course for this test the child must know how to count from zero to 20.

3. Two pictures are shown, one a figure without the nose, and another without arms, etc. The child should be able to tell what is missing.

4. They should be able to give the day and date, month and year.

5. There should be an ability to repeat five digits.

Many children may be unable to pass successfully the mental test for the given age; but if they approximate the required standards, mothers need not worry. Ill health or unavoidable absences from school may have put children behind the average for their age.

We love our children in spite of their imperfections. It is within our power patiently to aid them toward the goal of 100 per cent children.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Offers Title Bouts Here. Herrera After Canzoneri Would Box for Nothing. • Fields Against Yarosz. Historic Arena Ablaze. Schupp's Great Mark.

CITY MAY GET CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHTS

Ray Alvis

"I think Herrera is now right to win the championship," Alvis said. "If any Pittsburgh promoter can get Canzoneri to agree to a title match, I'll let Herrera fight him for nothing. Or I'll do even better. I'll underwrite the show and guarantee Canzoneri $25,000. This would be a big match for Pittsburgh, and would help to boost the sport here. I would not worry about making a profit and would be satisfied even to lose money on the venture, for I know that my Tony can beat the champion, and we could clean up later with the title."

ALVIS ALSO REVEALED the fact that he had just turned down matches for Herrera with Benny Bass in Philadelphia and Sammy Fuller in New York. Why? Because Bass and Fuller are short, chunky fellows, against whom he thinks Tony would not make a good fight. He had one sad experience of that kind in Chicago, which ruined Herrera as a card there.

The promoters put the Mexican in with Steve Halaiko, and it was such a bad fight that the memory of it still lingers, so that, while Tony is a great card in Pittsburgh, Detroit, New York, Kansas City and other spots, he can't draw his own breath in the city in which he makes his fighting headquarters.

A FURTHER PROPOSAL by Alvis makes still another world championship fight a possibility for Pittsburgh during the coming outdoor season. The Chicago fistic pilot offers to show Fields in a welterweight title match against a district challenger if Jackie still holds the honors at that time.

Alvis promises that if Fields hangs on to the crown until summer he will agree, for the titleholder's usual percentage of 37½ per cent, to let Jackie appear at an outdoor show here, with his title at stake, against Ted Yarosz, or any other fighter who happens to be the outstanding welter of this section at the time.

ONE OF THE most historic sport structures in this part of the country was threatened with destruction when fire broke out in Duquesne Garden late yesterday. There is hardly a big pastime in which the topliners have failed to appear at the Craig street arena. Hockey, of course, has been its main feature, from the days of Hod Stuart, Art Ross and the rest, when the Wanderers, Shamrocks, Portage Lake, American Soo and others were the great visiting teams, down through the amateur, city and professional leagues of recent years. But it has staged many other types of athletic entertainment and competition, including a national tournament of the American Bowling Congress, a world series in professional basketball between McKeesport and DeNeri, many lesser basketball attractions, ice skating, roller skating, boxing, wrestling, dog shows, poultry shows, automobile shows, bicycle shows, water sports exhibits and numerous additional events. Among the famous fighters to appear there were Jack Johnson, Stanley Ketchel, Billy Papke, Georges Carpentier, Al Wolgast, Willie Ritchie, Harry Greb, Johnny Coulon, Frank Klaus, George Chip, Frank Moran, Bill Brennan, Harlem Tommy Murphy, Johnny Griffiths, Billy Miske, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Al Kaufman, Tony Ross and many others. Ice skating and barrel jumping stars to smash records at the Garden, some of which still stand after more than three decades, were John S. Johnson, John Nielsen, Joe Donoghue, Norval Baptie, Edmund Lamy, Lot Roe, Roy McWhorter, Art Staff, Everett McGowan, Bobby McLean, Morris Wood, Fred Robson and Elsie Robinson. The old Garden has a sport history that would fill volumes.

Ferd Schupp

THE GREATEST RECORD for pitching effectiveness ever made in the major baseball leagues for one season was recalled in the Giant camp the other day, when Ferdie Schupp, 47, donned a New York uniform after 14 years and worked out under his old manager.

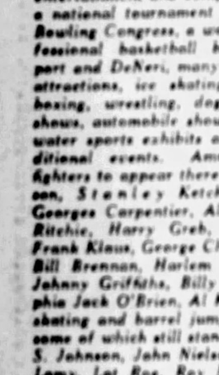
John McGraw always refers to Schupp as the greatest one-year pitcher in the history of the game, and there are figures to bear him out. For back in 1916, the lefthander allowed an average of less than one earned run per nine innings. To be exact, his average was .90. He worked in 30 games, 144 innings in all.

NO OTHER BIG league pitcher has ever gone below one run. The previous record was 1.01 set by Dutch Leonard with the Red Sox in 1914. That still stands as the American League's best mark.

McGraw predicts that Schupp's average never will be beaten. That's taking in quite a bit of time, but in any event it's not likely to be done in a hurry. Any pitcher who can turn in an average close to two earned runs nowadays is rated as a marvel.

SCHUPP WAS NOT the only Giant of yesteryear to visit the camp of his old club. McGraw could have made up almost a complete ball club from former players who called to pay their respects to him. In addition to Schupp, there were Otis Crandall, now a Pirate coach; Tillie Shafer, temperamental third baseman, one of the few players ever to quit baseball while still at the peak; Mike Donlin, Jim Thorpe, Johnny Rawlings, Irish Meusel, Chief Meyers, Art Fromme, Ernie Kruger and others.

The professional basketball game at Motor Square Garden between the Rosenblum Celtics and the Renaissance Negro five has been definitely set for the night of Tuesday, March 15.



Ace Hudkins

In order not to interfere with the W. P. I. A. L. game at the Stadium, the pro game will not be started until 9:30 o'clock. Promoter Johnny Freund hopes to get an American League official.

LAST SEASON THE Rosies and Renaissance met 15 times, the Rosies winning on nine occasions. This season the Rosies have won four games and Renaissance three, with one contest, staged in New York, ending in a tie.

Freund has one date remaining open for any team in the neighborhood desiring to meet them and requests a phone call at Everglade 4297.

THE BEATING THAT he took from Lee Ramage in Los Angeles last week has convinced boxing fans and critics on the Coast that Ace Hudkins is done. Though never as dangerous as he looked, Hudkins, from the time he started fighting in 1921, made himself a good box office attraction by his rushing, tearing tactics, on through the lightweight, welterweight, lightheavyweight and heavyweight classes. But in his latest bout he impressed Californians as being all washed up, and they are pointing to him as the newest example that a fighter has got to stick to business and the training rules to remain on the winning road.

Championship class told at Motor Square Garden last night when Jackie Fields, world welterweight titleholder, battered Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, at will and forced the tired, weak and blood-smeared local man to resign in his corner at the end of the eighth round.

Jimmy, who was credited with having fought a draw with Fields in the same ring a few months ago, before Fields regained the crown, didn't have a chance last night. Fields had one of his good nights, and he was not handicapped by a badly cut eye, as in their first meeting.

JIMMY OUTCLASSED

Coolly and relentlessly, Jackie set about his task of cutting down the rugged Belmont. He came close to stopping him with a flurry of punches in the last minute of the opening round, which found Jimmy floundering about as the bell rang. He made Jimmy's knees buckle with two rights in the second, cut his right eye in the fourth and had him bleeding from the nose and mouth in the fifth, but he really didn't cut loose in vicious fashion until after Belmont managed to open a slight cut under his left eye in the seventh. Then Jackie brought the crowd up standing as he battered Jimmy from pillar to post and had him all but out on his feet on the ropes in a neutral corner at the gong.

That was enough for Jimmy, who didn't want to go out for the eighth and what proved to be the final round. But he did go out, only to have a cut sliced under his other eye and take a pasting about the head and body that sent him back to his corner in bad shape.

QUITS IN CORNER

This time he told his manager, Frank Klaus, to toss in the towel, and, when the latter remonstrated, he argued in loud tones, gesticulating the while. The referee was called over and he signaled for the commission physician, Dr. J. W. McMeans, to examine Jimmy. Meanwhile time was up and the timer's whistle blew and he was about to hit the bell for the next round, as called for by the rules at the end of a minute's rest period, when he was ordered by the boxing commissioner to withhold the bell.

Belmont insisted he would not continue after the doctor's examination and so it stood. Fields was declared the winner by a technical knockout in eight rounds, the bell not having been rung for the ninth.

Fields impressed as a real fighting champion. Unlike many titleholders, he was the aggressor all of the way, and his cleverness on both offense and defense was an eyeful. He moved too fast and blocked too well for Belmont to be able to hit him solidly, while his own blows went home cleanly. He never lost his mastery of the situation. The match was as much of a romp for him as it was a rout for Belmont. Class told the tale.

Belmont weighed 149 pounds and Fields 147½ at 3 p. m. The bout drew a bumper crowd, just short of a sellout. Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, his broken right hand still in a cast, was introduced and challenged the winner.

COLIMA STOPS MAZZEO

Babe Colima, Mexican stablemate of Fields, 124, looked good in stopping Pete Mazzeo, of Cleveland, 122½, with a short right uppercut to the jaw after 2 minutes 16 seconds of the third round of the scheduled eight-round semifinal. The punch spun Mazzeo around and dropped him. He arose groggily at nine to collapse

SQUASH PLAY NEAR FINALS

Quarter-final round matches in the city Class B squash racquets championship tourney, in progress at the Keystone Athletic Club, will be disposed of today. The tourney is to close Saturday. The pairings for today:

Alex Robinson, Allegheny Country Club vs. F. C. Craig, K. A. C.; C. W. Keyser, P. A. A. vs. N. K. Fetzer, P. A. A.; Paul Hicks, University Club, vs. F. A. McMahon, P. A. A., and Graham McCarty, Pittsburgh Golf Club, vs. G. C. Kennedy, K. A. C.

The Robinson-Craig and Hicks-McMahon contests begin at 4:30, with the others carded after 5:15 o'clock. Hicks advanced at the expense of C. H. Henninger, P. A. A., yesterday, the scores being 15-3, 15-10 and 15-8.

J. Rogers Flannery, at K. A. C., is receiving entries for the national junior A. A. U. tourney to be held there beginning March 10; entries close March 7.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE POLE GRAVEYARD—In order to test the efficacy of preservatives on the buried ends of telephone poles in erection, a telephone pole cemetery is maintained on a hill near Limon, Col. Hundreds of poles, treated with a wide range of preservatives, are buried in the ground, and over their resting place are markers indicating the date on which the "remains" are to be exhumed. This experimental cemetery ranks with the bizarre cemetery for ships which I have featured previously. THE WINDOW COW—"Penn State Jessie," the cow with a window, was provided with an opening in her side which gave the cow no trouble and through which samples of the contents of her stomach could be removed with a small dipper for experimental purposes at the Penn State College. A rubber pad was used to close the window after samples were taken. The experiments led to an important discovery in the domain of nutrition.

DETROIT, March 1.—The Detroit Olympics, thoroughly rested after five days of idleness, will attempt to halt the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets' determined march toward an International Hockey League play-off berth here tonight.

The Jackets kept the Olympics out of the play-offs last season by handing them seven defeats in eight starts, and the local skaters would like nothing better than to return the favor and put a big dent in Pittsburgh's chances of gaining the title series.

A Pittsburgh victory will enable the visitors to tie the locals for fourth place in the standings—the last money and play-off berth. The tie probably would be of short duration, however, for Detroit has two games more to play than has Pittsburgh, representing two chances to again forge ahead of the Canary Shirts.

In the event of a Detroit victory, the Windsor Bulldogs will become the Jackets' closest rivals, because of the fact that Windsor has played the same number of games as has Pittsburgh.

Despite the fact that the Olympics have lost only one decision in six duels with the Steel City skaters this season, they appear to have their work cut out for them tonight. The Jackets have lost only two games in their last 10 starts, and the manner in which they swamped the Indians at Cleveland Saturday indicates that they are at the peak of their form.

SPIDER PLADNER TO BOX HERE

What shapes up as one of the best balanced and most promising boxing cards of the year has been arranged for Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

It is topped off by a double windup of two 10-round bouts, with Spider Pladner, highly-touted bantamweight champion of France, meeting Jimmy Thomas, Negro, of the Hill, in the first of these and Battling Gizzy Thomas' stablemate, boxing Eddie Lord, of Hartford, Conn., in the nightcap.

Guy Salerno, California middleweight protege of Jack Perry, and K. O. Kelley, Akron Negro, are in the second bout, of eight rounds, and Kenny Davis, of East Liverpool, O., and Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, are in the six-round opener.

Bill Dummer, matchmaker for Eddie Kapphan's Arena, has closed for one of two 10-round bouts for his show Friday night. He has Billy Holt, local Negro welterweight, and Ray Lyle, of Akron, in the top spot. Fritzie Zivic, local hope, will be one of the principals in the opener.

Between Rounds

U. S. Carpentier, New Kensington feather weight, bakes Tony Vecchio in the 10-round main bout at Morgantown, W. Va., Friday night. Nick Russell, of Rochester, Pa., and Johnny Gum are in the semi-final.

Entries close tomorrow night for the Tri-State amateur championship tournament to be staged at the Moose Temple Friday and Saturday nights under the auspices of the 111th Infantry Veterans' Association. A representative group already is in the field.

Hans Roberts, German welterweight, who was a sensation around here a few years ago, is back in training at the Pittsburgh Lyceum for a return to the ring.

The reason there is no boxing show in Madison Square Garden, New York, this week is that the six-day bicycle race is holding forth there.

Paul Pirrone's next start will be against Tony Grove in Toledo, March 17, with Jack Dempsey boxing an exhibition in the main event. It was at Toledo that Dempsey won the heavyweight title from Jess Willard in 1919.

Frank Speers, former Georgia Tech football star, who upset the dope by winning the decision over Ray Steele in the semi-final of last week's wrestling show at Motor Square Garden, will headline a card in the same ring Thursday night of next week, grappling with Floyd Marshall, of Chicago, opponent of the airplane twist. John Makos, who was knocked unconscious by Ed (Strangler) Lewis in their main bout, will be in the semi-final against Charley Fox, of Cleveland. Five bouts will be presented by Promoters Ray Fabiani and Charley Reinecke.

Jaffee Charged With Demanding $600 Expenses

GENEVA RALLIES TO TOP DUKES

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 1.—The month came in like a lion for the boys and girls of old Geneva. After their basketball team had played hit-or-miss ball throughout the campaign, it reached the heights here last night and bumped off the highly-touted Duquesne University Dukes, unbeaten in their previous tussles with tri-state district opponents. The score favored the Covenanters, 37-34, and was achieved in an extra-period of a boiling hot battle.

GENEVA RALLIES TO COP

Geneva fought its way from behind four times to tie the score. Its heroes stuck in there through thick and thin, and eventually popped out with the buttered side of the bread.

Little Hymie Ginsberg, Geneva sophomore, was deserving of the biggest laurel wreath. He stuck in there all of the 45 minutes, scored 13 points with four field goals and five fouls, and dribbled and cut his way through Duquesne's strong zone defense time after time.

FELDMAN SHINES

Duquesne had a performer to sing about in Art Feldman, the tall forward. Feldman dumped five baskets and four fouls, and flung three of 'em at very important moments.

The Dukes took a lead of 5-0 before Geneva scored, went on to lead at 9-4, and then trailed for the first time when Art Grahame and Ginsberg put Geneva out in front at 12-9. This advantage was short-lived, the Dukes rallying nobly on goals by Feldman, MacDougal and Moore to hold the 15-14 lead at the half.

In the second half the Covenanters tied it again at 23-23. It was deadlocked later at 25-all, but

GAMES TONIGHT

West Virginia vs. Carnegie Tech, Tech gym.
West Virginia Frosh at Carnegie Tech Fieldhouse.
Allegheny vs. Grove City, Grove City.
Geneva vs. Thiel, Greenville.
Glenville vs. Salem at Salem.

A team that has just finished, so it hopes, losing three games in a row, and one that has captured as many in the same number of starts clash here tonight as the court varsities of Carnegie Tech and West Virginia go it in the Tartan gym. Two weeks ago, in Morgantown, the Mountaineers spanked the Tartans. The Techs haven't been beaten since, and West Virginia hasn't been able to win. Make what you can out of that.

West Virginia was here earlier in the season for a match with Pitt, playing the Panthers what almost was a doubleheader. The Pitt second team beat the Mountaineers in the first half, and the varsity won the second. Right after that, Coach Stadsvold's men (the Mountaineers) took a brace and played right snappy ball for a while, but slipped into a rut and lost to Creighton, the Dukes and Wash-Jeff last week.

MOUNTAINEERS IN RUT

Against Duquesne, West Virginia stuck in the ball game until the pressure became too severe in the second half. Leo Sortet, hefty football star, played a kingpin game on the defense, spilling more than one well-meant Duquesne offensive thrust. They finally bottled him up, and away went the Dukes.

After losing to the Mountaineers in Morgantown, the Tartans went East last week and knocked off Princeton, Temple and Georgetown. A fourth win tonight will just about put the Scots on edge for their return match Friday with the Dukes. The probable lineup:

Carnegie Tech.	Pos.	West Va.
Smith	F	Ashworth
Tagnow	F	Sortet
Stentz	C	Cubbon
Fergus	G	King
Leonard (C)	G	Dotson (Capt.)

GENEVA, THIEL MEET

Geneva faces another tough one tonight, right on top of the Duke game too, at Greenville against Thiel. Grove City hopes for revenge over Allegheny as the Crimson entertains the Gaitors in Grove City. Broaddus and Fairmont duel at Fairmont.

The Duquesne Athletic Council decided at a meeting yesterday not to permit post-season basketball games, excepting only a game with the alumni a week from tonight. At New Wilmington, athletic authorities for Westminster, which clinched the Tri-State Conference title last night, a similar course also was decided upon.

Carnegie's track candidates, 40 strong, reported yesterday to Coach Guy Halferty. The Tech trackers, with Capt. Tom Coulter the big shot, anticipate a stiff season of competition.

PITT DOWNS HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, March 1.—Harvard made a fine start and a better finish but it lost a thrilling 28-to-25 game to the University of Pittsburgh here last night.

Each team scored 11 times from the court, but the Panthers' half dozen free tries to the three for the Crimson provided Pitt with its winning margin. Russell Ochsenhirt and co-Capt. Tom Lawry provided Pitt with most of the punch.

A spurt led by Lawry, who made five points within two minutes, gave Pitt a 16-10 lead at the interval. The lineup:

Local Boxers Score Kayos in Greensburg

GREENSBURG, March 1.—Spirited action marked the amateur boxing bouts between the Pittsburgh Lyceum and the Pleasant Valley A. C., of New Salem, Fayette County, staged by the American Legion A. C. here last night. Two knockouts featured the show. The summary:

122-pound class—Sidney Lacove, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, won on points from John Matheny, of the Pleasant Valley A. C.; Lennie Bernlehl, Pittsburgh Lyceum, knocked out Dan Croci, Pleasant Valley A. C., in the third round.

147-pound class—J. Chemps, Pittsburgh Lyceum, won over William Zwaciki, Pleasant Valley A. C., by technical knockout in first round.

Supporters of scholastic basketball in Western Pennsylvania are in for a real treat this afternoon and evening with a post-season game for the Section I championship of the City League and two W. P. I. A. L. elimination contests on the schedule.

Two of the contests will be staged in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, while the third will be presented in the spacious Beaver Falls High School gymnasium.

Schenley and Fifth Avenue, two schools that finished their regular season in the City League deadlocked for first place in Section I, clash this afternoon in the Pitt Stadium pavilion for the right to meet Allegheny, Section II champion, in a post-season series for the city title.

The City League series is scheduled to start at the same floor Friday afternoon. Regardless which team wins this afternoon, Allegheny will be the favorite in the post-season series, the Springer boys winning all of their 12 games in Section II. As neither Allegheny nor Schenley is a member of the P. I. A. A., Fifth Avenue is assured of a place in the state playoffs whether it wins or loses in the local engagement.

The W. P. I. A. L. eliminations will be resumed tonight with a pair of games. The Pitt Stadium attraction finds Nate Lippe's Aliquippa team, champion of Section IV, opposed to Henry Leucht's Mt. Lebanon quintet, champion of Section IX. The other game in the eliminations is a first-round affair between Leetsdale, champion of Section II, and Zelienople, champion of Section XVIII. This game will be played at Beaver Falls.

Collins, Appleby Win in Cue Play

FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 1.—(AP.)—Percy Collins, former champion, and Edgar T. Appleby, titleholder, won their opening games in the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard championship tournament here yesterday. Collins defeated H. T. Galey, 300 to 68, and Appleby nosed out R. V. Fessenden, 300 to 296. In other matches D. H. Goslin defeated Fessenden, 300 to 252, and Monrad Wallgren defeated A. Schapp, 300 to 252.

RUTH GETS HOMER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1.—(INS.)—The 1932 spring training season of all big league baseball teams became official yesterday when Babe Ruth donned his Yankee uniform and smashed a real home run. It was the first official clout of the wallop of the year. He clouted one the other day while attired in golf clothing, but that has not been recognized.

ALIQUIPPA HIGH, SECTION IV CHAMPION . . . . MEETS MT. LEBANON, SECTION IX CHAMPION, IN W. P. I. A. L. FRAY AT THE PITT STADIUM PAVILION

HOMESTEADERS WIN EASILY

A plucky Burgettstown High School basketball team, champion of Section XIV, felt the power of the Homestead High School steam roller in a second-round battle of the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion last night and was crushed under an avalanche of field goals. The score was 51 to 16. As a result of the victory, Homestead, champion of Section VII and making a bid for its fourth W. P. I. A. L. championship, qualified for the quarter-finals and will meet the winner of the Swissvale-Charleroi battle in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion on March 14.

LOSER OUTCLASSED

The Burgettstown quintet never had a chance last night as the Bill Campbell machine monopolized the play from start to finish. The Milltowners, getting the range shortly after the first tapoff, kept firing at the hoops with deadly accuracy and piled up an advantage so rapidly that Burgettstown was in a daze during the greater part of the game. The Homestead scorers registered points so rapidly that the official scorers were unable to keep accurate check on the markers.

The famous pivot play, first introduced by the Original New York Celtics, and which has characterized all of Homestead's victories this season, baffled the Burgettstown team and it was unable to break up this style of play. The Homesteaders registered 23 field goals and missed just as many under the hoop.

SLIDDERS STARS

Campbell kept his regular team in the combat for three periods of the game, but wholesale substitutions were made in the fourth and final quarter and still Burgettstown was unable to make any headway. The victors led 11-6 at the end of the first period, 25-9 at the close of the half, added 19 points to their total in the third period while blanking Burgettstown and increased their lead by seven points in the final stanza. Burgettstown also scored seven points in the fourth quarter.

Joe Slidders, one of the best guards in scholastic circles, led the victors in scoring with 12 points. Miller was second with 11 and Stafura third with 10. Austin Malone, Burgettstown guard, led his team in scoring with two field goals and a foul for a total of five points. The lineup:

HAR-BRACK FIVE IS ELIMINATED

A.-K. VALLEY SERIES

GAMES TONIGHT

Franklin vs. Verona.
New Brighton vs. Vandergrift.
Aspinwall vs. Kittanning.
Arnold vs. Oakmont.

NEW KENSINGTON, March 1.—Falls Creek, Blairsville, Freeport and Leechburg emerged victorious in the first round games of the Allegheny-Kiski tournament played here last night.

MARTY GORNICK WINS

DAYTON, O., March 1.—Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, Pa., easily defeated Joe Lawrence, local boxer, in a 10-round bout here last night on a card in which Jack Dempsey knocked out Jack Phillips and Pat Sullivan in a little more than one minute each. Lawrence substituted for Frankie Chatterton, of Cleveland.

JACKIE FIELDS — JIMMY BELMONT

once more Duquesne exhibited the necessary stuff to show the way, until, with three minutes to play, the Red and Blue had 30 and the Genevians 27.

Ginsberg popped a short one. Manning counted from the free-throw line after Dudey Moore had done the same thing for Duquesne, then, from near the center of the floor, Ginsberg got a free shot and sent it cutting through the net. The Covenanters froze the ball successfully until the game was over.

DUKES LOSE CHANCE

The Pittsburghers lost a chance to lead as the extra-period firing broke out, when MacDougal missed a foul. Ginsberg put Geneva ahead for good with a free one, and then Cliff Aultman and Grahame made victory certain with field goals. Snubby Irwin, in at guard for Marty Reiter, who left the action on personals midway in the second half, bagged a long one to end the scoring for the night.

BENSON OUT AT THIEL

GREENVILLE, Pa., March 1.—After the completion of the present basketball season, C. O. Benson, for the past three years head coach and last fall head football coach, will leave Thiel College. The executive board of the Athletic Council, following up its decision to have amateur athletics in the school, passed a resolution last night which favored the board of trustees' action in abolishing the post of assistant athletic director which was held by Benson.

No action was taken on naming Benson's successor for next year, but it is almost assured that Jack Stoeber, athletic director, will be head coach and will have one assistant. Labe Wardle, present floor star, is being mentioned as assistant.

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden—Jackie Fields won by technical knockout over Jimmy Belmont, 8 rounds; Babe Comma knocked out Pete Mazzeo, 3 rounds; Lee Cleopatra won by technical knockout over Jerry Hart, 1 round; Eddie Yarosz defeated Mickey O'Brien, 8 rounds.

Short and sweet was the second bout, a heavyweight affair between Leo Clements, of Jeannette, Bunny Buntach's new protege, 205, and Jerry Hart, good-looking youngster from Troy Hill, 190½. Clements won on a technical knockout after only 38 seconds of the opening round. He rushed and was stopped momentarily by a right to the jaw and then rushed again and staggered Hart into a corner with a right. Another right dropped Jerry for a count of three and he got up dazed to run into another right that knocked out his mouthguard and floored him again. As he was getting up this time, at the count of two, helpless, his seconds wisely tossed in the towel.

EDDIE YAROSZ WINS

Eddie Yarosz, of Monaca, 138½, brother of Ted, defeated Mickey O'Brien, of North Braddock, 136, in the six-round opener, the only bout to go the limit. O'Brien, making his first professional start after a half-dozen amateur bouts, made an exceptionally good showing.

1400 Butler Fans See Amateur Bouts

BUCS TO PLAY THURSDAY

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 1.—The Pittsburgh Pirates will get their first real taste of real action Thursday when the first of the Regular-Yanigan series will be staged.

With the entire squad rounding into perfect form already, Manager Gibson is anxious to see how the material at hand will perform under fire.

The Bucco pilot stated yesterday that every position of the club was open and that records made in bygone years would mean nothing in the selection of this year's team.

Several of the recruits have been showing amazing skill with the stick. Dick Barbee, coast phenom; Gus Dugas, former Kansas City star and Floyd (Pep) Young have been pounding the ball hard in the drills to date.

Grakle is Favored In Grand National

LONDON, March 1.—(AP.)—A wide open race in the Grand National Steeplechase, which will be run over the historic Aintree course, at Liverpool, March 18, is indicated by the call-over of betting odds at the Victoria Club.

C. R. Taylor's Grakle, winner of last year's grueling four-mile test in record time, ruled the slight favorite over the 49 other candidates. The 10-year-old jumper was quoted at 17-to-2 as compared with his winning price of 100-to-6 in 1931.

BUCKLEY SUSPENDED

CHICAGO, March 1.—(INS.)—Johnny Buckley, who, with Jack Sharkey, is manager of Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, has been suspended by the Illinois Athletic Commission.

It was said Buckley used abusive language toward the secretary of the commission between rounds of the Schaaf-Stribling fight here last Friday.

BOXER FRACTURES SKULL

SPORTSMEN TO MEET

A mass meeting for sportsmen will be held next Monday evening in the Turtle Creek Union High School Building.

OLD TIMERS SKATE

A skating party of the Old Timers' Skating Club will be held at 8:15 on Duquesne Garden ice tonight.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the course of Sawmill Run in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Wards of the City of Pittsburgh, from the crossing under the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company to a point about 35 feet south of the Boulevard of the Allies, west of Woodruff street, and the same is hereby relocated within the lines of Sawmill Run boulevard (formerly Woodruff street), as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, and of property expressly taken to effect such relocation by Ordinance No. 348, approved July 21, 1929, providing for same, relating walls, accessories and appurtenances, and parking, establishing the grade of the same as relocated and providing that the costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby be assessed against and collected from the properties benefited thereby.

SECTION 2. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the course of Sawmill Run in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Wards of the City of Pittsburgh, from the crossing under the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company to a point about 35 feet south of the Boulevard of the Allies, west of Woodruff street, and the same is hereby relocated within the lines of Sawmill Run boulevard (formerly Woodruff street), as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, and of property expressly taken to effect such relocation by Ordinance No. 348, approved July 21, 1929, providing for same, relating walls, accessories and appurtenances, and parking, establishing the grade of the same as relocated and providing that the costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby be assessed against and collected from the properties benefited thereby.

BEGINNING at the easterly portal of the crossing of Sawmill Run and the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company under the same, which is the intersection of a line parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 2.5 feet east of the westerly wall of said easterly portal with a line parallel to and at a perpendicular distance of 2.5 feet south of the southerly line of the right of way of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie and Western Railway Company and the southerly line of Woodruff street as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, running thence with the lines of the bed of the stream as above described and the respective properties property taken by Ordinance No. 348, approved July 21, 1929, the following courses and distances: North 71 degrees 46 minutes west to a point of curve at station 1+44.34, thence with the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 1,100 feet and a central angle of 15 degrees 11 minutes 30 seconds to a point of tangent at station 1+59.71, thence north 56 degrees 34 minutes 30 seconds west to a point of curve at station 2+00.00, thence with the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 1,100 feet and a central angle of 15 degrees 11 minutes 30 seconds to a point of tangent at station 2+15.37, thence north 41 degrees 23 minutes west to a point of curve at station 2+31.55, thence northwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 200 feet and a central angle of 28 degrees to the point at station 2+43.0, said last mentioned point being about 11 feet west of the center line of Wilmerding street and about 35 feet north of the first angle in the southerly wall of Woodruff street, and

SECTION 3. The portion of Sawmill Run boulevard (formerly Woodruff street) as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, lying between the bed of the stream as above described and the southerly line of the right of way of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie and Western Railway Company and the southerly line of Woodruff street as widened by Ordinance No. 349, approved June 26, 1931, lying without the lines of the bed of the stream as above described and the respective properties property taken by Ordinance No. 348, approved July 21, 1929, lying without the lines of the bed of the stream as relocated shall be used for slopes, retaining walls, appurtenances necessitated by the relocation of the stream and parking.

SECTION 4. That the grade of the bed of the stream shall begin at station 0+00.0 on the above described survey line at an elevation of 88.35 feet; thence shall fall at the rate of 1.13 per cent to station 1+70 on the above described survey line to an elevation of 75.05 feet.

SECTION 4. The costs, damages and expenses occasioned thereby and the benefits to pay the same shall be assessed against and collected from the properties benefited thereby in accordance with the provisions of the Acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same.

LAMONT SEES TRADE CURVE FLATTENING

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Robert L. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce, though disinclined to make predictions, told me that he sees evidence that the curve of general business has been flattening out and describing a bottom for the depression.

The chief executive of the Commerce Department expressed the opinion that general business would go forward after the foreign elections in the spring, after the nominations have been made in this country and after crop prospects have been more clearly appraised. He pointed out that in his opinion American business was ready for economic recovery last spring, but that the advance was checkmated by dire financial developments overseas.

Mr. Rukeyser

He explained:

"However, as a result of the postponement of recovery shortages have been developing. Clothing, automobiles and general supplies have been worn out. Houses have been destroyed by fire. Growth of population, though at a retarded rate, continues.

COSTS DECREASED

"Industry on the whole is in good shape to go forward when conditions warrant. Business executives, if I may judge by the volume and quanity of inquiries to this department, are more interested than ever before in problems of simplification and the elimination of economic waste in production and distribution. Material and labor costs and operating costs are way down, and the results of the new efficiency will show up later when business picks up."

Mr. Lamont, who was president of the American Steel Foundries before entering public office, is conservative in interpreting recent signs. He said he had observed an improvement in sentiment, but that this was not yet reflected in basic trade statistics. He expressed the opinion that the trade improvement would come later.

The super pessimism toward railroad investments is hardly warranted by those who expect industry in time to do better.

RAIL TONNAGE

An expert on steel pointed out to me that it takes four carloads of raw materials to make one carload of steel. Accordingly, the railroads will get four carloads of tonnage for each additional carload of finished steel moved.

Moreover, though the steel industry must increase its volume by perhaps 100 per cent to get on a genuinely prosperous basis, railroad financiers declared that the rails can flourish with 20 per cent more volume.

Furthermore, railroads are still favored by high rates, whereas industry is harassed by unduly low prices.

The selected freight increase, the wage reduction and the aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have reduced the hazard of railroad receiverships.

Glass-Steagall Act Praised By Bank

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—The Glass-Steagall Act, broadening the power of the Federal Reserve System to extend credit, was characterized today as an important step, touching upon the business situation at its weakest point, by the National City Bank of New York in its monthly economic survey.

Credit contraction in recent months, the review explained, had set in motion a vicious circle of liquidation. The credit situation was described as taking precedence over other problems.

E. T. Weir Sees Change In Relations of Share Holders and Companies

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

ATTENTION WAS CALLED to a neglected angle of the relations of corporations to their stockholders by Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board of the National Steel Corporation, in a recent interview.

Mr. Weir believes that there is likely to be a change in the attitude of corporations to investors in their stocks as a result of the depression. He declared that the experience of many industries during the last few years has proved the wisdom of paying more liberal dividends to stockholders in times of depression. He was quoted as follows:

"The money accumulated by some companies apparently burned a hole in their pockets. Funds were spent on unnecessary expansion programs which might have been distributed to stockholders in the form of increased dividends. In the latter event there would now be fewer overbuilt situations."

That corporations have fallen down on their stockholders during the comparatively short period of bad business is only too well known. While the depression is in its third year, it still is short in comparison to the long period of general good business which preceded it. Most corporations earned far more money than they paid out in dividends during the active period. Stockholders naturally believed that the annual additions to surplus accounts were insurance for the maintenance of dividends in future periods of bad business. It is now obvious that these funds were put to other purposes and Mr. Weir has done a good service in bringing it to public attention. It is too late to help the situation as it now stands but serious thought about the matter may protect stockholders in the next depression.

How Much Income Is to Be Used for Growth?

OF COURSE stockholders should not expect all a corporation's surplus to be in the form of liquid assets. Such a policy would put a stop to one of the means by which many of our great companies have reached their present positions. The use of a portion of earnings for expansion purposes has accounted for a major share of industrial growth. The question is how far management should go in turning surplus earnings into new machinery.

Directors of corporations in the future may have to look at the disposition of surplus profits from a new angle. In the past little thought was given to the problem of establishing sufficient liquid reserves to insure continuous payments of dividends in times of poor business. When they are discussing the appropriation of funds derived from surplus earnings in the future directors may have to consider whether or not the improvement would imperil dividends if a sudden change in business conditions should take place.

* * *

New Policy May Be Needed in Future

THE LONG PERIOD of smooth sailing in business which preceded the present slump put managements in a peculiar frame of mind. Expansion became their major consideration and they were content to allow dividends to be entirely a matter of the present. Corporations provided for many contingencies but few of them thought of controling their financial policies in a way which would preserve a liquid fund to pay dividends over lean years.

The ideal corporate managements of the future will continue to pay only a portion of their earnings to stockholders during boom times. They will continue to use a portion of their surplus earnings for expansion, but they will be a little more judicious about their development programs. They will not use all their surplus cash for new development, but will lay aside at least some part as dividend insurance for their stockholders.

If such a policy is followed it will do much to lighten the severity of the declines in security values in future depressions and will add to the investment standing of common stocks. An unbroken flow of dividends also will do much to help check the severity of business declines.

Aluminum Goods Net Profit $906,226

Aluminum Goods Manufacturing Company had net profit of $906,226 in 1931, which would be equal to 75 cents per share on 1,200,000 shares compared with $980,010, or 82 cents a share, in 1930.

George Vits, president, said the reduction in the quarterly dividend to 15 cents was to conserve the company's cash position.

MARKET SHOWS NEGLIGIBLE CHANGES

Public Participation in Trading Lacking; Floor Men Accomplish Little

Public participation was almost entirely lacking, and floor traders were left largely to their own devices, which were of scarcely any effect upon price levels. A few issues were influenced by special developments, but on the whole, the list showed negligible changes.

Johns Manville dropped 3 points on omission of the dividend and report of earnings of only 8 cents a share for 1931. Bendix fell more than a point, as the quarterly payment was cut to 15 from 25 cents. The alcohol stocks reflected a little speculative activity, on the theory that production had been brought under more effective control. American Commercial Alcohol, National Distillers and U. S. Industrial Alcohol rose about a point each. Auburn shot up 6 points in short covering, then lost much of its gain. Several of the pivotal industrials ranged fractionally higher.

The congressional short selling investigation was said in brokerage circles to have intimidated or discouraged professional traders generally, for the moment at least.

While the prospect of restoration of peace to the Far East was described in Wall street as "constructive," it was without notable effect upon the markets generally.

Trade news was of a negative character. Early estimates of last week's crude oil production indicated an unwelcome gain. Export copper was cut to a new record low price at 5⅞ cents a pound.

A further cut of ⅛ of 1 per cent in longer maturities of bankers' acceptances was another sign of gradual improvement in the money market, but money rates generally were stationary.

Volume of Stock Trading Declines

NEW YORK, March 1.—Trading on the New York Stock Exchange during February was in the smallest volume for any month since last August. The total amounted to 31,718,556 shares, compared with 34,342,456 in January, and 64,145,320 in the same month last year. Dealings in bonds were approximately $22,546,000, about $70,000,000 less than the preceding month, and about $33,000,000 greater than in February, last year.

U. S. Daily Average Oil Output Gains

TULSA, March 1.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended February 29 totaled 2,139,056 barrels, an increase of 32,839 barrels daily over the week preceding, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Atterbury Sees Definite Upturn

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—President Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, stated today that recent developments point definitely in the direction of improvement in the economic situation and return of prosperity.

CLARKE O. K.'S RECEIVERSHIP

NEW YORK, March 1.—(INS)—Harley L. Clarke, president of General Theaters Equipment, Inc., today declared that the company's assent to the receivership "was in the interest of conserving its assets pending the development of a contemplated reorganization plan."

General Theaters, holding company controlling Fox Film Corporation, was placed in a receiver's hands in Wilmington yesterday. United States Senator Daniel O. Hastings was named receiver.

Omission of dividends on Fox Class "A" stock last year doomed the company. This was revealed in the preliminary earnings for 1931 which showed a net loss of slightly under $900,000 for the year. Indications that the loss this year would be considerably larger was contained in the statement that dividends paid by Fox in 1931 contributed $2,200,000 to earnings.

Forbes

Weeping Over; Whole Country More Cheerful

By B. C. FORBES

YOU CAN NOW visit the financial hub of America without being drenched with tears. Not only so, but businessmen from various parts of the country tell me that sentiment back home has noticeably improved.

Mr. Forbes

One concern that supplies, among other things, collars, coats, etc. For dogs, declares that there is a good deal of truth in the oft-repeated statement that "business has gone to the dogs." This manufacturer reports that "dog-gone business" is picking up.

I find that many of my friends are sick and tired of squeezing every nickel. They—especially their wives—are beginning to break out, by making purchases beyond what is necessary to keep body and soul together. It isn't American to pinch pennies for very long.

IN RESPONSE to a request from the Post-Intelligencer in Seattle to wire a message for the annual automobile show in Seattle, I sent this:

More automobiles are being worn out than are being bought. This condition has lasted two years. It cannot last much longer. Admittedly, buying is still disappointingly slow, but is it not significant that the attendance at this year's automobile show in New York was 17 per cent ahead of last year, attendance in Brooklyn 62 per cent better, in Baltimore 69 per cent better, in Newark 35 per cent better?

America has keyed its modern mode of existence to personal transportation. We can no more do without automobiles than without shoes.

Rigid restrictions on credit should shortly be lifted now that so many powerful reconstructive —lending—forces are getting vigorously under way. People have the will to buy. The means to buy should improve during 1932.

Ford, after a long period of uncertainty and inactivity, is all set to go ahead full blast. This should help not only Detroit and other cities having Ford plants, but the whole motor industry and the whole country.

WILL BANKS and other institutions and organizations throughout the country please take a leaf out of the book of the Union Planters National Bank of Memphis? It is running invigorating advertisements in local newspapers. Here are extracts:

"A large crop was made in this section, and at a low cost. Food and feed are in unprecedented abundance. While many incomes have become less, the purchasing power of the dollar has greatly increased.

"Some businesses are making good profits. And business, generally, is putting itself in rather liquid shape.

"Our suggestion is merely this: Industry, thoughtfulness and resourcefulness have unusual value at this time.

"Difficulties are not a new experience for the people of the South. Memphis has gone forward after civil war, pestilence and flood. No one can doubt that it will strike its full stride again and furnish ample reward to the faithful."

Work is scarce. Theodore Schroeder asks:

"Why not a five-year plan to make America clean, tidy and orderly? Americans have drifted into habits of slovenliness and a shocking disregard for appearances. Let us make our cities and suburbs as well ordered, neat and tidy as, for example, similar places in Germany, England and Switzerland. This would provide lots of work."

In my suburb unemployed are doing exactly that. Could not your city, your community, stand considerable cleaning-up?

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 1.—The bond market turned irregular today, although price changes generally were limited to fractions in extremely dull trading.

Japanese obligations were reactionary on light trading. Argentine loans continued to gain, but British 5½s were easy. French 7½s advanced and Belgian 7s touched a new high for the year.

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column. United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of one point.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXIII.

Lily Lou stared at it stupidly. She turned from the window, looked around hastily, fear and suspicion in her heavy eyes. She was afraid she had been acting queerly. She was sitting at a small table in the dining car, a dish of melting ice cream before her.

This was the San Francisco Limited . . . the train she had almost missed because she sat, dreaming, in the Ferry building. And how she had got into the dining car, and what she had ordered for dinner, and why she had ordered it, she couldn't remember.

She had a hazy recollection of the ferry boat, and boarding the train at the pier. She had held her ticket in her hand, and someone had pointed out the right train.

The utilitarian watch on her wrist—the one Bess and May and Mother had given her on her eighteenth birthday pointed at 7:25. The crowd in the car was thinning. She paid her check, made her way hesitantly back to car 21, lower 12.

ON WAY TO NEW YORK

Her coat was there, and that was her suitcase protruding from under the seat. No one seemed to have the upper birth. She was glad of that.

She sank into her place, turned her face to the darkening window. Slowly she looked down at her dress. It was her black crepe de chine, with the cape. The one she got last spring . . . when she first met Ken. . . . Would everything, forever, remind her of him? "I'll get rid of the clothes I have. I'll buy new ones in New York," she thought recklessly, and for a moment she felt comforted. But alas, she couldn't get rid of herself . . . her body that he had loved, her mind that was full of memories, her heart that was full of pain . . .

She pressed her cold hands to her smarting eyes . . . Mustn't think . . . Mustn't give way . . . People would notice . . .

Furtively she looked around. Drew a long breath. Nobody seemed to be watching. Once more she turned her pallid face towards the blank darkness of the window.

Well . . . she was on her way to New York. She'd wanted to go to New York . . . once . . .

She smiled bitterly to herself, and the corners of her mouth felt stiff and cracked . . . unused to smiles already . . .

Who was it said that you get everything you want, after you've stopped wanting it? Well, want it or not, she was on her way. No turning back now.

WRITES LETTERS

She sat, staring at nothing, until the porter was ready to make her berth. Then she climbed in, fully dressed, and lay there, staring at the shiny wooden ceiling above her, wide, sleepless eyes.

At the other end of the car a child cried, sleepily. It made her think of Bess' little boy. She'd have to write to Bess, and to her mother, and May . . .

"When Kentfield Sargent and I were married, he was not 21. His father and mother have had the marriage annulled. So, for the present at least, we are separated. It will help us both if you never refer to this episode in my life, in any way.

"Ken will return to his people. I am going on to New York to study. I will write often. Please don't worry. I know exactly how you will feel, so you need not tell me. I am all right. I'm having my big chance, so please, please don't make it harder for me!"

That last sounded hysterical, but she couldn't help it. She signed and sealed the letter. Began one to her mother . . .

The black writing looked ominous on the white page. . . She wasn't starting it right. It must seem to be her wish, her own desire. If Dad thought that Ken and his father had just turned her out, with $500 and a railway ticket, like a cheap adventuress. . . .

BECOMES ILL

She thought of the shotgun. Dad was always threatening to take a shot at someone. He wouldn't, of course, but suppose he did. . . . that would be just too much. . . . a shooting scrape, and Ken's people keeping it out of the papers, while somebody, a sheriff or somebody, led Dad away. . . .

She tore up the letter. Perhaps in the morning. . . .

She pictured May getting the letter, and Raymond puffing on his pipe as she read it to him . . . and his father's head-shakings, and Irene's catty, "Humph—I knew it wouldn't last"—And the long-distance gossip of May and Bess. . . . Bess's fat letters, rather mussy from sticky baby fingers, and May's typewritten in the office. . . . .

When she couldn't keep her mind off it any longer she turned over and bit into the pillow, forcing it into her mouth, trying to control her grief. Hour after hour she lay there her face buried in the pillow, crying inside, crying in her heart, crying aloud sometimes . . . little half stifled, animal cries.

They didn't have the right to do it . . . Even if it was for Ken's good they shouldn't have done it, after he had promised, and had "forever and ever" engraved in the ring . . .

* * *

"Traveling does one up, doesn't it?" the voluable lady in the dressing room said.

"Does it?" Lily Lou had not noticed. She glanced at her own face in the mirror, was surprised to see it so sallow . . . like old ivory. And her eyes were sunken, and her hair was oily and dark and stuck close to her head.

GETS TELEGRAM

She looked down at her hands. Thin hands. Ringless.

"Have you been ill? Some of the ladies and I were saying you must have been just out of a hospital," the woman persisted. "You know I said to Mrs. Havens—that's the lady with the red hair, the one that's going to Boston—I said, 'That young lady looks just the way I did when I had my operation for gall stones.' The doctor said to my husband, "Mr. Fink," he said, "Your wife will have to be operated on tonight.'"

As she made her way to the door at last, and stepped off on the porter's painted box she noticed a Western Union boy in conversation with the conductor. He had a yellow envelope in his hand. "Mr. Sargent?" he was asking. "Car 21, lower 4?"

"I'm Mrs. Sargent," she said, "It's for me!"

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing, young and pretty telephone operator, gives up her opportunity for an operatic career to marry wealthy Ken Sargent. Ken's mother threatens to have the marriage annulled. Ken loses his position with his father, but secures a better one. The young couple take a small apartment and are ideally happy. Then, one night, Lily Lou awakens to hear Ken sobbing. Next day, Lily Lou meets Peggy Sage, an old friend of Ken's and is stunned to learn from her that Ken lost his job. Later, she is relieved when Ken explained he did not take her into his confidence because he wanted her to be proud of him. After Ken leaves the next morning, a knock comes to the door. It is Ken's father. He asks Lily Lou to give up Ken and informs her their marriage was annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York.

Now Go On

"I'm Mrs. Sargent," she said. "It's for me!"

ALL IN A DAY — By MARK HELLINGER

Impersonations—For What?

UNDER THE VERY appropriate title of "A Phony Hellinger," Variety this week carries the following story under a Hollywood date line: "Man who claims to be Mark Hellinger, New York columnist, is in town and calling the studios and the columnist's friends at all hours demanding luncheon dates, interviews and what not.

"He claims to be here to consult with B. P. Schulberg on a writing contract for Paramount. Just what his game is does not appear, since he never keeps the dates he so insistently demands." Variety then concludes its report with the statement that I am in the East. Which is certainly fair enough.

I have no false sense of modesty in my makeup, but I really don't get the point of these impersonations. During my brief career, I have had some truly remarkable experiences with people who went around posing as me. Some have been funny, some have been sad and some have been downright embarrassing. But I have yet to understand the actual reason why the moron picks on me.

If I were truly a big shot and something could be gained by the impersonation, everything would be very clear. But I'm not a big shot. I'm just a mug who writes decently only on occasion, landed a column through a lucky break, tries to be honest with the next guy and struggles on through the years. When I have longed so many, many times to be the other fellow—why should the other fellow long to be I?

Going back through the years, I recall the most embarrassing impersonation I ever encountered. The first thing I knew about it was when somebody called me up and began to kid me about my actions at a Greenwich Village party the previous night.

"It's all over town," asserted the caller, "and the folks are just a little bit surprised at you. You ought to be a little more careful in your actions."

I tried to tell the gentleman that I hadn't been to a party in Greenwich Village since I grew old enough to know better. But I could get nowhere with my explanations. So I hung up and let it go at that.

That call, however, was only the beginning of a series of annoying events. For a week following, the most amazing things happened.

I finally decided that a gag was a gag, and that I had had just about enough of that particular thing. I communicated with two detectives who were friends of mine and told them the entire story. And they went out to get their man.

It took them exactly one night to catch him. When they had him in the station house, they phoned me.

"He admits everything," I was told. "Says he's been impersonating you for a couple of weeks and that he just did it to have some fun. We've looked up his record and we find that he's been nailed for the same offense before."

Sometimes, of course, the impersonator isn't able to go along for any great length of time. There was one chap who used my name in one of the cheaper dance halls along Broadway about eight months ago. He must have carried on in beautiful fashion because two of the girls from the ballroom phoned my office the next day, wanting to know if I felt any better and was I going to take them out again soon?

Two nights later, a man answering the same description entered a dance hall in Harlem. This time he wasn't quite so lucky. The proprietor of that dance hall is also a night club owner and he knew me quite well. I don't like to tell you what happened up there, but I will say that that particular impersonator never used my name again. I have no objection if you use your imagination.

What did that jackass gain? What thrill could he possibly enjoy? What fools people can sometimes be! . . .

Between the acts one opening night, I stood in front of the theater with a number of the boys. A fairly well dressed man walked up to me.

"Buddy," he said, "this is not the usual touch. I'm a newspaper man and I'm finding it very tough to get work. If you know any newspapermen, you'll understand that jobs are pretty scarce.

"If you can help me out with the price of a bed for tonight, I'll be more than grateful to you. Can you do it?"

I reached into my pocket and fished out half a dollar. He was duly grateful. One of the other boys spoke to him in mock seriousness.

"Since you're a newspaperman," he said, "I suppose you know all the boys. Did you ever hear of Mark Hellinger?"

The panhandler looked scornfully at his questioner.

"Hear of him?" he repeated angrily. "Why I know him intimately. He's one of my best friends!" . . .

Some three years ago, when I reached my office of an afternoon, I found two or three messages of a very disturbing nature. One was from the manager of the McAlpin Hotel, another was from the West Thirtieth Street Station House and a third had come from a cab driver.

Piecing the story together after some investigation, I found that a stew had raised a rumpus in the lobby of the McAlpin around 3 that morning. He had claimed that he was I and he finally grew so noisy that the management had to put him out. He climbed into a taxi and ordered himself driven around.

The driver was evidently notified by the stew that he was Hellinger. And then to make a long story short, the stew borrowed $3 from the chauffeur to go into a restaurant. Foolishly enough, the driver waited. Naturally, the stew disappeared. So the driver was out $3 in cash and $2 on the clock.

He raced to the Thirtieth Street Station House and notified everyone that I had cheated him out of $5. As soon as I heard the nonsensical story, I told the detective to send the driver to my office immediately. Within 20 minutes he was there.

The driver proved to be a huge colored man. I had him sent in and sat him down beside me. I asked him if he knew who I was and whether he had ever seen me before. He said he had not.

"Well," I said, "I'm Hellinger. Am I the man you drove around last night?"

He gulped. He knew the stew had been a wholly different character from me. But the poor fellow saw his $5 vanishing rapidly in the distance. So he took one long chance.

"Ah don't know," he replied. "All ah can say is you did get a little thinner!" . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS -:- Junior Komic Club

Meetings of the Sun Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club chapters held at Warner neighborhood theaters every Saturday, have brought out some of the best dancing talent in the city.

The Kenyon Chapter, however, is an exception. Not that they do not have clever children performing for their fellow club members, but because they are all children who have had no instruction in the art.

Calling backstage at the Kenyon Saturday morning, we found a group of girls turning handsprings, doing backbends and all the tricks taught by modern dancing instructors. Among those appearing at Saturday's meeting were Hazel Fritz, Violet Spang, Ethel Hall, Johanna Thaner, Marion Clark, Sarah Atwell and Eleanor Friedman. They are all members of Kenyon Chapter.

The stage show at the Manor was presented by children from Vera Liebau's Studios. On the program were David Jeffrey, master of ceremonies; Grace Rogan, Lillian Bauman and Russell Bauman. The show went over so big that the members gave Miss Liebau a rising vote of thanks at the close of the entertainment. Prizes were awarded and the Boy Scouts conducted their usual closing ceremonial.

The big attraction at the Rowland Chapter meeting Saturday was a 10-piece boys' band made up of Boy Scouts of East Liberty. These young musicians, under the leadership of Walter Saraff, are making a tour of the city chapters of the Junior Komic Club.

Members of Grand (Greensburg) chapter are going in for mouth organs in a big way. So great is their interest in this novelty instrument, that Manager, Harry Manos arranged to give mouth organs as prizes in the contests Saturday. Both girls and boys are learning to play, with a view to entering the Mouth Organ Contest announced by Manager Manos for a meeting next month.

Enright: Teddy Serpagli.

Harris (Etna): Glenn Turner.

South Hills: Melvin Livingston, Jim Dempler, Sarah Richards, Jean Brown.

Manor: John Curten, Alinore Carothers, Robert Black, Ada Black, Edison Goldsmith, Milton Pinsky.

Cameraphone: Dorothy Delthorn.

Prince (Ambridge): Carl Gozur, Dolores Seybath.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

In many homes it is either the husband or the wife who is always late in starting out for an evening's entertainment.

There is a last few minutes rush when everything seems to go wrong.

The waiting person becomes irritated and not infrequently says things that ruin the whole evening.

The person who is habitually late very often is the one who does many unnecessary things and looks no better for it.

Then there is the one who is too late in starting preparations to go for an outing.

Unexpected delays frequently occur which makes it all the more necessary to plan ahead so as not to be hindered ultimately.

That person must be unusually good natured who can stand being kept waiting every time the two plan to do anything together.

He blandly blames the public for this country's condition.
Perhaps the public is to blame— to blame for meekly trusting Bankers' internationale. Phew! It's so disgusting.

Support for Stadtfeld

Pennsylvania Will Be the Gainer If the Philadelphia Organization Helps the Pittsburgh Judge.

The fact is regrettable, but cannot be ignored, that thousands of Philadelphians will vote more or less blindly for practically any candidate that William S. Vare and his lieutenants ask them to vote for.

There is now a prospect that Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, will be supported by the Vare organization for another term on the bench. A better candidate for the place cannot be found, and the help from Philadelphia is to be welcomed. All Pennsylvania will be the gainer if Judge Stadtfeld is elected.

The Allegheny County politicians who dickered with the Philadelphians to get their support for Judge Stadtfeld are understood to have agreed in return to support the other candidates on the Vare slate.

Opinions may differ as to whether or not they paid too heavy a price; but there can be no difference of opinion among honest and well informed persons as to the wisdom of retaining Judge Stadtfeld on the Superior Court bench.

A Prudent Delay

Council Displays Common Sense in Postponing Action On Unsatisfactory Utilities Offers.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt made a sensible proposal in suggesting to Council that no action be taken at this time on the offer of Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company group of public utilities, to reduce electric light and bus rates.

The reductions offered by Phillips are too small. He is willing to cut the light bill of the average domestic consumer only about 10 cents a month and to reduce the bus fare 2¼ cents to those who will buy 10 tickets for $2.

Waldschmidt seeks time in which to compare Pittsburgh's rates with those in other cities and to study the earnings of the Duquesne Light Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, and Council has done a prudent thing in granting the delay.

By accepting Phillips' offer before such a study has been made the city would run the risk of putting itself into a disadvantageous position, and the risk is not worth taking for the sake of saving individual consumers a few dimes. Let action be postponed for a month or two if need be.

The Sun-Telegraph believes that Waldschmidt's study will show rates can be cut more than Phillips proposes without hardship to his companies.

Commendable Leniency

Harsh enforcement of the game laws has caused not a little discussion during the past few months. There have been cases in which men have been sentenced to prison for as long as 16 months for attempting to kill deer at night with the aid of a flashlight. A man in Westmoreland County was committed to jail for 10 days for taking home and eating a rabbit that he had run over with an automobile.

It is a pleasure to note that the new State Game Commission, with better appreciation of the fitness of things, is tempering justice with mercy.

The commission has intervened in the case of two men who were serving 105 days in jail because they had an illegally killed deer in their camp last autumn, and as a result of the commission's intervention the men, both fathers of families, have been released.

In this particular case 13 members of the camp were fined $105 each, with the alternative of 105 days in jail, but only the two men in question were unable to pay the fine.

The game laws should be scrupulously obeyed, of course; but the punishment of one day in jail for every dollar of unpaid fine falls too severely on poor men in these days of unemployment and reduced wages.

The ratio of days in prison to dollars of fine might well be lowered, and if it develops that the game law has been broken in a desperate effort to obtain food for a starving family, this might well be taken as a mitigating circumstance.

Faster Living

The Machine May Not Be an Unmixed Blessing, But It Has Made Life Richer.

That unique organization, the Hungry Club, has given Pittsburghers many interesting things to think about in its weekly dinner talks.

Especially provocative of thought was the address delivered yesterday by John H. Van Deventer, editor of the Iron Age, on the effect that the machine has had on our life.

According to Mr. Van Deventer, the increasing use of machinery has not diminished the need for human workers, and he cites in support of the statement statistics showing there were 15 more gainfully employed persons per 1,000 of population in 1930 than there were in 1900.

His thesis that the machine has so enriched life that "the average life span of today, measured by experiences, actions and contacts, is longer than that of Methusaleh" will not be so quickly challenged.

Delayed Civic Duties

Do You Have Your New Driving License? And How About Your Income Tax?

The 1931 driving license for motorists expired at midnight, and the state police announce they will arrest any drivers found operating cars without being in possession of the 1932 license cards.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club says it has reason to believe not a few drivers in Allegheny County have failed to obtain the new cards.

It is just another case of procrastination in the performance of civic duties. Postponing the getting of licenses until the last moment—or later—gets many persons into trouble—trouble which could easily be avoided.

The time limit in which another civic duty must be performed—the filing of the income tax return—is approaching. The sensible procedure is not to wait until the last moment, but do it now, and avoid the crowds and vexation of the last day.

'Educated Abroad'

Here in this foreign school of thought
We see strange lessons being taught,
As members of the eager class

The teacher knows the way to train
A pupil with that kind of brain,
How well the student voices chime

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

What Women Don't Tell

Lipsticks come in assorted flavors, these days. Which looks suspiciously as though women's kisses had become so monotonous that they needed something to give them a little variety, to reawaken man's kiss-consciousness.

* * *

A woman's intuition seems to go on strike when her heart comes into action. She can safely choose almost anything on earth, by instinct, except a husband.

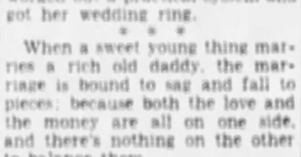
A proposal of marriage, like a murder, is seldom premeditated. It is just an involuntary act, which a man commits in a moment of temporary aberration.

* * *

Girls of today don't really understand any more about sex-appeal than their grandmothers did. They merely TALK more about it, while grandmother worked out a practical system and got her wedding ring.

* * *

When a sweet young thing marries a rich old daddy, the marriage is bound to sag and fall to pieces; because both the love and the money are all on one side, and there's nothing on the other to balance them.



There is not much consolation in knowing that if a taxicab, going against the lights, runs over you, you are within your rights. Nor in knowing that if your husband loses his head over a blonde, you can divorce him—and hand him over to her.

* * *

A wife, like a radio, should be chosen by ear, rather than by eye; because at the altar, a man usually stops looking at a woman, but he can't stop LISTENING to her.

After 45, most romances have all the flavor of January strawberries.

Isn't It So?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 1.—To old-timers the wit and caprices of Broadway today are shallow vaporings in comparison to the red-corpuscled mirth of other years—the years of the "flying wedge" of waiters at Jack's, the cartoonist table at Churchill's, the wordings about the Knickerbocker bar and the Forty-second Street Country Club.

There was that glittering wintry morning at the Metropole bar when a comedian of the day lurched blearily in from a 10-day joust with the jug, his clothes in spotty disorder. Falling asleep, Wilson Mizner hung this card around his neck: "The grandeur that is Grease, the glory that was Rum."

On another occasion a Broadwayite on a prolonged hurrah approached Mizner and flexing his muscles cried: "Feel, sucker! Sometimes I don't realize my own strength." Mizner replied: "I'll say you're a Sandow. Your breath alone would tilt windmills on a Dutch painting."

Also the actor who crashed every banquet. One night he drew his chair uninvited to the speakers' table and, when Willie Collier was introduced, began to heckle. Collier took it awhile. Then: "I have a surprise, ladies and gentlemen. I take pleasure in presenting America's favorite pain in the neck."

In Jack's, one glowy midnight, came a prizefighter, handsome in a vacuous way. As he passed a table someone commented on his superb stature and poise. Frank O'Malley, looking him over, chirped: "I've seen better heads on dollar umbrellas."

Another evening O'Malley came upon the late Joe Drum, James Montgomery Flagg and George Buchanon Fife. "Ah," he exclaimed, "the Spirit of '76." Drum was sailing one day on a French ship. "I choose to cross with the gallant chevaliers of France," he said, "where there is no hanky-panky about women and children first."

Unusual figures drifted to bars and chop houses in those haphazard days. Paper Collar Joe, the wide-hatted confidence man; Appetite Bill, who could devour a large bowl of popcorn at one sitting, and Grand Central Pete, whose boast was he was "so tough his spit bounced."

* * *

In Considine's, one dusk, somebody in a lunatic seizure suggested cracking the tedium by visiting Chinatown and "knocking the gong around." Just for a thrill. Paul Armstrong, the playwright, demurred: "No opium for me," he said. "I have noticed that once you start playing faro you soon find yourself dealing."

* * *

Jack's was the rowdiest spot shortly before dawn. It churned with lusty drinkers frequently in belligerent moods. Jack Dunstan, himself, often had to resort to strenuous measures. One bully "roared in" at a Fourth of July sunup, waving a smoking six-shooter. As he rushed toward a table menacingly, Dunstan stuck both thumbs in a pot of English mustard, clapped them to the annoyer's eyes, and he dropped his gun and crashed screaming into a pillar of the Sixth avenue el.

* * *

Another character, when Jack's lamps flamed brightest, was a garrulous lawyer bursting into oratory at slight excuse. Harry Reichenbach once summed him up with: "Any time you ask that guy how he is, he'll climb right up on a soap box and tell you."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

What started the present economic problem, any way? Everybody is asking that—saying it's so unnecessary; so cockeyed; no sense in our getting this way.

Aren't we the richest nation on earth? We sure are. Don't we make more things, use more things, than any other people? We sure do. And wasn't everything going jake with us for 12 years after the war, even though all the other nations were busted? Everything was.

Then why in heck did this thing happen? Hasn't anybody an answer?

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, had an answer; and there's no deep dark mystery about it. You don't have to understand international banking, or the Einstein theory, or any other of the world's great mysteries, to get his drift. It's plain hoss sense, like this:

The war started a lot of things; some good, some bad. Amongst them one unprecedented thing—big wages for all the little fellows in America. Big enough wages so they could have things that the little fellows had never dreamed of having before—automobiles, radios, good clothes, houses of their own. Nice pickings for the little fellows. They started to spend—and how!

Nice pickings for the big fellow, too. Never before had he had such a market for his goods; and the more goods he made, the more market he had. All he had to do was to make the things and encourage the little fellow to buy them; then, automatically, the golden stream started flowing.

Boom days? I'll say! Little Fellow and Big Fellow working together. Little Fellow making money off Big Fellow through his wages. Big Fellow making money off Little Fellow through his spending—and how he did encourage Little Fellow to spend! But that was jake. He had it to spend. So, whoopee! Around went the golden razzle-dazzle!

Extravagant? Sure it was. But that, alone, wasn't responsible for what happened. Extravagance, in itself, isn't an unmitigated evil. It may land certain idiots in the hole, but AS LONG AS IT KEEPS MONEY IN CIRCULATION, it puts the rest of us on Easy street.

But right here came the hitch. We were putting money in circulation, BUT IT WASN'T KEEPING IN CIRCULATION.

BECAUSE, THOUGH THE MONEY WAS STILL IN THE COUNTRY, IT WAS NO LONGER IN THE RIGHT PLACE IN THE COUNTRY. IT HAD PASSED FROM LITTLE FELLOW'S HANDS TO BIG FELLOW'S POCKET—AND THERE IT WAS STICKING.

The thing was ironically simple. Big Fellow's prosperity had been based on Little Fellow's prosperity. If they could both stay prosperous, the boom days would go on. But the sight of that whirling, golden torrent had been too much for Big Fellow's greed. Each day he grabbed off more and more for himself—gave back less and less to Little Fellow.

IN THE 10 YEARS ENDING IN 1929, REAL WAGES INCREASED ONLY 13 PER CENT, WHILE THE RETURNS OF ALL INDUSTRY INCREASED 72 PER CENT.

DURING THOSE YEARS THE WEALTH OF THE COUNTRY BECAME SO CENTRALIZED THAT 1 PER CENT OF THE PEOPLE OWNED 60 PER CENT OF THE WEALTH!

Now remember that wealth was still dependent upon the little fellow's spending.

BUT INSTEAD OF HELPING HIM TO GO ON SPENDING, THE BIG SAPS DROVE HIM STRAIGHT ON THE ROCKS.

They decreased his earnings by pocketing more and more of the profits. They increased his obligations by unloading their taxes on him, inducing the Treasury Department to repeal excess-profit taxes and income taxes in the "higher brackets." At the same time they speeded up production regardless, expecting the little fellows to continue to consume.

What happened? The simple and inevitable thing happened. THEY KILLED THE GOOSE THAT LAID THE GOLDEN EGG.

The little fellows stopped buying. The factories shut down. The banks went broke. Then came the crash!

And that's why we have the present economic problem. WE HAVE IT BECAUSE THE BIG FELLOW WAS A HOG.

1907-1932; the Navy—Japan—Two Hales

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The President has issued a statement, apropos of the proceedings in the House for consolidation of bureaus and the saving of money, expressing his delight. Evidently he was not so delighted when he first learned what the House was doing, else he would not have sent his message submitting the proposition that this reorganization be turned over to him.

He says he has been asking Congress for three years to do something of the sort, but since, until the present time, the Congress has been Republican, he merely criticises his own party leadership in the legislative branch of the government—for it did nothing; and admits his inability to lead his own party in line with his own policies.

If he now is delighted with the economy moves of the Democratic House it is to be assumed he will make no objection to the drastic cuts amounting to millions in the appropriation asked by himself and his subordinates. We shall see what we shall see.

Senator Hale's Stand Recalls Dramatic Struggle

The fight being waged under the leadership of Senator Hale for maintaining the standard of the Navy, and his declaration that he stands for an American Navy that will be "second to none," recalls a dramatic struggle in the Senate 25 years ago in which his distinguished father stubbornly led a fight against the four-battleship program of Theodore Roosevelt.

Eugene Hale, the father, was a very able man, and for years he was on of the small coterie headed by Aldrich, which dominated the Senate and legislation. His career went back to the days of reconstruction, when he went to Washington as a young Congressman from Maine.

He married the daughter of Senator Zack Chandler, the Senate boss of those times. The newspapers at the time described him as thin and very pale, with the appearance of one who worked too hard. He passed from the House to the Senate, where he soon became a power. He was a bit cold, very dignified, a little haughty—a Roman Senator type. Like all the other members of the Senate oligarchy he had little use for Theodore Roosevelt.

* * *

The Fight Was On

He had always been a strong navy man, representing a seacoast constituency, but there was a personal or factional reason for his opposition to the Roosevelt recommendation for four ships. This was the reason:

Just at this time, Roosevelt had issued his spectacular order to send the Navy around the world. Many in private life thought it a dangerous demonstration. The resentment in the Senate among the "graybeards" of the oligarchy was due to the fact that Roosevelt had consulted neither the members of the Committee on Naval Affairs nor those of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. This cropped out time and again in the bitter debate. When the recommendation for four battleships reached the Senate the oligarchy determined to rebuke the President by giving him 50 per cent of what he asked.

A few of the younger Senators, ardent friends of the Navy and of the President, determined to make a fight for the President's program. They asked Senator Beveridge to lead the fight. He went to Hale, who curtly announced that "we" have decided otherwise. "And who are we?" asked Beveridge. "The leaders," said Hale haughtily. This gave Beveridge his cue. The fight was on.

* * *

Debate Lasted For Two Days

It had been planned to give scant consideration to the President's recommendation and to push through the committee promptly with little or no discussion. Beveridge was too much of a parliamentarian to permit that, and he was one of the three or four greatest orators and debaters in the body. The debate lasted for two days and attracted much attention in the New York press.

Aldrich, who seldom condescended to enter vulgar debates, preferring the more dignified method of merely giving orders, was forced to take the floor. He lost his head. His fury concentrated on Beveridge—as did that of others of the oligarchy. He made a bitter personal attack on Beveridge, and Hale likewise.

The two spent a night with Beveridge's book, "The Russian Advance," and sought to make him ridiculous on the false assumption that in the book he had predicted a fight between Russia and Japan with Russia winning. He did predict the war, but specifically said it was impossible to say who would win. In this debate he remined Hale that when the latter read the prediction of "a certain war" in the magazine article he so scornfully scouted the idea that Beveridge, in editing the article for the book, changed it to "a probable war." The book had been out but a few days when the war was on.

And Aldrich, and Hale, too, I think, attacked the supporters of the Roosevelt recommendation for creating the impression, without saying so, that the increase in the Navy by four ships was in anticipation of a war with Japan just as now we are wonderin about Japan.

* * *

Brilliant Battle, and The President Lost

A strange feature of that fig was that Henry Cabot Lodge, posing as the bosom friend of Roosevelt, was against Roosevelt and with the other members of the Senate oligarchy. This embarrassed the gallant little band that was making a brilliant fight for the Roosevelt program. It seemed incredible that Lodge would be opposing the four battleships Roosevelt had asked if the latter really was in earnest. This idea was quietly being passed around.

The story of this strategy was carried to Roosevelt, who wrote a personal letter to Lodge calling his attention to the inevitable conclusion to be drawn from his opposition and their relationships, and Lodge thereafter posed as a friend of the President's recommendation. But his ways were peculiar. He devoted his speech to criticizing the champions of the President for creating the impression—something they did not do—that war was expected with Japan. When Aldrich was making his attack on Beveridge, Lodge sat beside the former and prompted him. He merely voted with the President's friends.

It was a brilliant battle and the President lost—but not without forcing a compromise providing for a building program the next year. That was the moment that the sceptre of command began to drop from the hands of Aldrich.

* * *

Roosevelt Had To Be Punished

An interesting analogy. The Navy—Manchuria—Japan—gossip of possible trouble—and the Hales father and son, in both fights, but on different sides. Eugene Hale was naturally a strong Navy man, but Roosevelt had not consulted the Senate on that world tour of the Navy and had to be punished.

Beveridge, an ardent trade imperialist, with lifelong dreams of America commanding the Oriental market, was a strong Navy man, though his constituents, inlanders, were indifferent or hostile to large appropriations for our fighting forces of the sea.
